585 in trapped convoy make it out of Cambodia

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (AP) — A truck convoy of 585 weary foreigners who were trapped in Cambodia when it fell to the Khmer Rouge crossed into Thailand on Saturday. They reported that another 250 foreign nationals were still waiting to be evacuated from Phnom Penh.

Eight newsmen in the group said they had agreed to withhold until later details and photographs of their experiences — lest publication now endanger the 250 left behind.

It was unclear exactly what dangers faced the 250, or whether they were to be regarded as hostages

The evacuees were predominantly French, but a score of other nationalities among them included some American civilians and seven staff members of the Soviet Embassy in Phnom Penh.

Those left behind were reported still in the French Embassy compound in Phnom Penh, where foreigners took refuge after the capital fell on April 17. The French consul, four American newsmen, about 100 Pakistanis and nationals of some other countries were among them.

The arrivals said that those who remained were in generally good condition and probably would start soon on the same arduous three-and-a-half day truck journey over more than 200 miles of war-damaged roads.

Indications were that the evacuees had undergone tense and emotional experiences with at least some physical hardship. French officials had originally reported that many were suffering from dysentery and that the embassy had run short of food and water.

But officials of the International Red Cross said the foreigners had been well treated by the Khmer Rouge in Phnom Penh and by soldiers and civilians during their journey.

Launch reconstruction program

North Viets open border to South

By The Associated Press

North Vietnam has opened its border to South Vietnamese for the first time since the division of the country in 1954, and has launched a reconstruction program that would include building new highways linking North and South, Saigon broadcasts said Saturday.

The broadcasts added that the reconstruction program would give more jobs to the Southerners now ruled by the Communist-led Revolutionary Government in Saigon and would mean all Vietnamese would have to work longer hours.

A Hanoi broadcast said the first aircraft of the Revolutionary Government had landed in Saigon and was welcomed by the "liberation force," indicating that at least some top officials of the new regime, believed to have been in Da Nang and North Vietnam, may now be in the capital. The broadcast, however, did not specify who was aboard the plane that arrived on Friday.

A massive social, economic and political reorganization apparently was still under way in the South.

Soldiers of the defeated military forces were ordered to register with the government or face punishment, and people's committees were being formed to guard property throughout the country, the broadcasts said. Owners of ships and boats were told to report to a new transport office, the radios said.

The Soviet news agency Tass, reporting from Hanoi, said people in Saigon were scrubbing walls of slogans and posters put up during the days of the old government of President Nguyen Van Thieu. It reiterated previous reports of a general cleanup campaign in the city.

Radio Hanoi announced that North Vietnam joined the new South Vietnamese government in sending diplomatic notes to Thailand reiterating the Revolutionary Government's demand for the return — "for the sake of peace" — of all planes and warships used by South Vietnamese in fleeing last week.

Hanoi said it was appealing to Bangkok for the return of the aircraft and vessels in the interest of normalizing relations between Thailand and North Vietnam.

Most of the planes, at least, were supplied to the South Vietnamese by the United States, which is claiming ownership of them. Thailand at first said it would return the planes to Vietnam but later said the aircraft were the responsibility of the United States.

The Hanoi broadcast said the new South Vietnamese government also sent similar notes to Singapore, Malaysia and the Philippines.

Chinese broadcasts said the Khmer Rouge in Cambodia had issued a call for greater agricultural production and that Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the nation's nominal leader, had ordered the changing of Cambodia's independence day from Nov. 9 to April 17, the day of Phnom Penh's surrender.

Phnom Penh has been cut off from the Western world since then.

Ford helps comission carrier Nimitz

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — President Ford, helping to commission the world's largest warship, looked beyond the Vietnam debacle Saturday and declared, "We will keep our commitments and we will remain a great country."

Wearing a U.S. Navy tie, old sailor Ford participated in the festive commissioning of the $690 million U.S.S. Nimitz, the nation's second nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, with a flight deck more than three times longer than a football field.

In addressing some 10,000 sun-bathed guests at the big Navy base here, Ford did not directly tie in his latest pledge of maintaining overseas commitments to the retreat from Vietnam, but his meaning was clear.

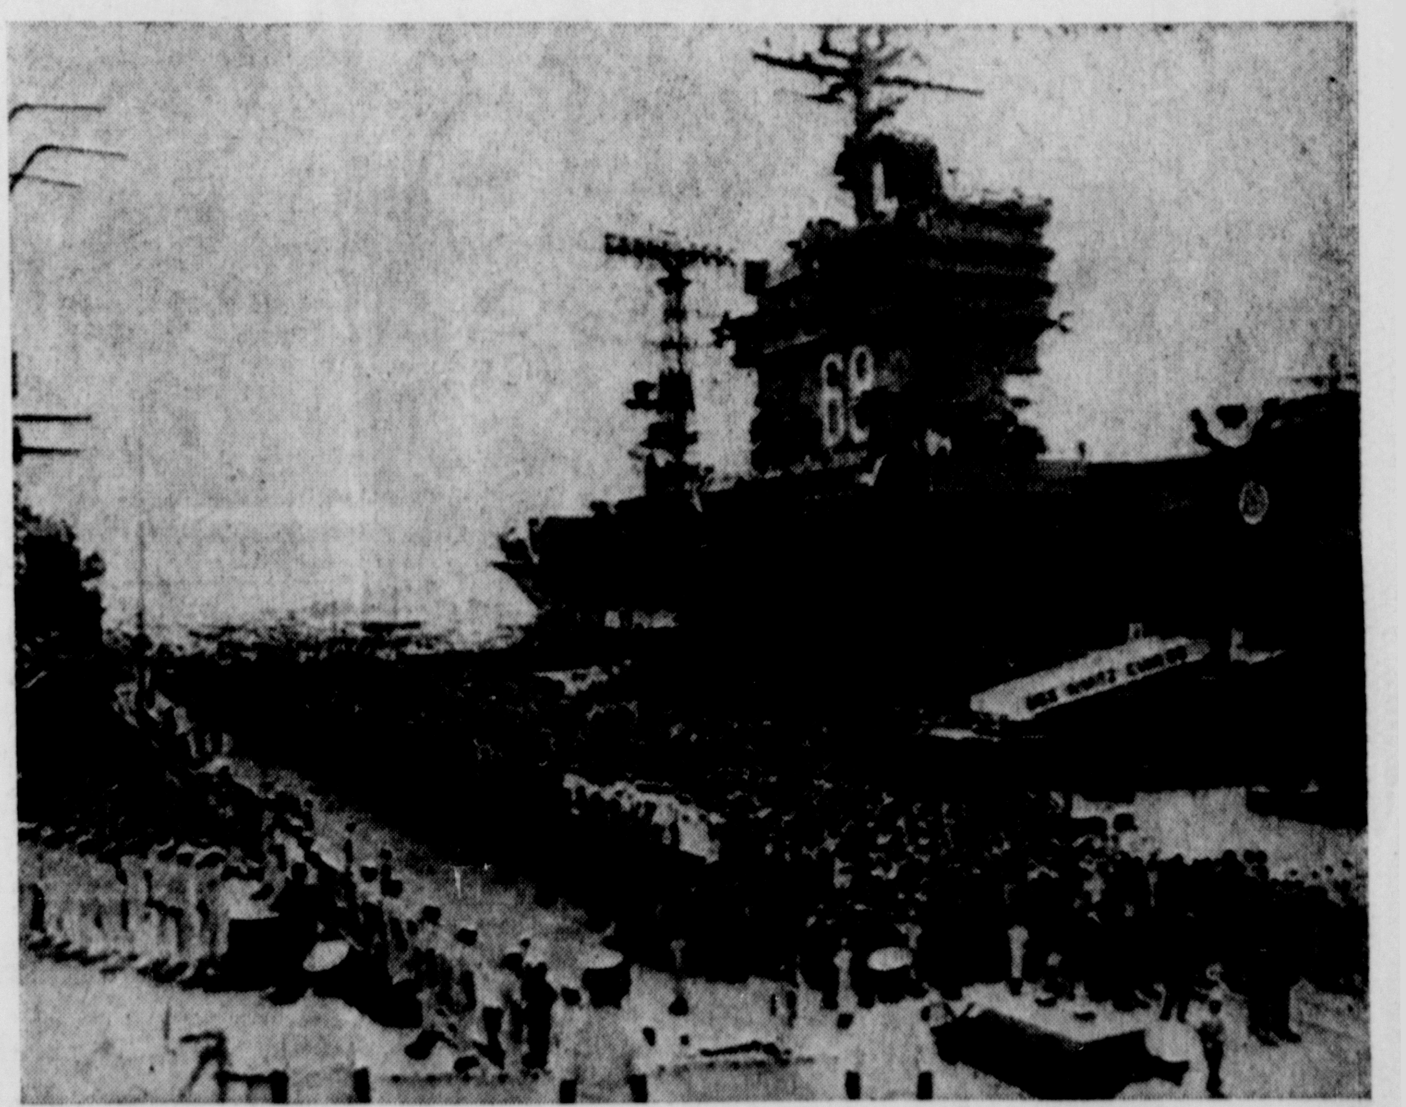
The President departed from his prepared text almost at the outset to assert:

"We are strong. We will continue to be strong. We will keep our commitments and we will remain a great country."

Returning to his text, Ford described the massive Nimitz as "a solid symbol of United States strength and United States resolve" and said:

"As I see the United States Ship Nimitz as a symbol of the vast power, productive skill and economic strength of America, so will others around the world. To all, this great ship is visible evidence of our commitment to friends and allies and our capability to maintain those commitments."

Ford, the military commander-in-chief, served on the carrier Monterey as a Navy lieutenant in the command of the late Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz in World War II.



USS NIMITZ COMMISSIONED

Nuclear aircraft carrier USS Nimitz is commissioned in ceremonies Saturday at Norfolk, Va. The Nimitz has a crew of 5,000, totals 1,092 feet in length, weighs 95,000 tons, carries up to 100 planes.

Pup rescued from cliff ledge-- so is the man who spots him

A small crowd of sightseers enjoying the clear mountain air Saturday witnessed two dramatic rescues by a San Bernardino County Sheriff's helicopter crew in treacherous Cucamonga Canyon.

The helicopter crew of pilot Robert Ingles and observer Mike Cordua, both deputy sheriffs, responded to an 11:40 a.m. call from the West End Sheriff's Station that a Collie pupie was stranded on the edge of a 1,000-foot-high cliff.

The collie had been spotted by Robert Henson of Glendora who was driving through the area with his wife in their blue and white pickup truck.

Henson alerted the West End station and drove back to the area where the helicopter crew could identify his truck and find the collie.

With great difficulty Ingles set the helicopter skid against the shale-covered cliff, and Cordua reached down and drew in the helpless dog.

To the applause of the crowd, Ingles set down the copter, and the collie ran to a mountain stream to lap up some water. On the dog's return to the helicopter, Ingles said the dog growled at him.

Henson, in the meantime, uncertain that the helicopter crew could resuce the collie, started up the rough terrain and became stranded halfway from the top.

Up went Ingles and Cordua for a second time. Ingles maneuvered the copter into position where Henson could climb aboard a skid, while Cordua reached down and hung onto him.

Back safely on the ground, Henson met the puppy for whom he had so much concern, and took him home until an owner might be contacted.

Girl, 1, killed as car backs over her

A one-year-old Chino girl was killed Saturday night when a car backed over her on a dirt shoulder in front of 15159 Ethel St. in the Los Serranos area, according to the California Highway Patrol.

A highway patrol spokesman at the Claremont CHP office said the names of the victim and the driver are being withheld pending notification of next of kin by the San Bernardino County corner's office.

Walnut man one of two dead in air crash

A 33-year-old Walnut man has been identified as one of two men killed when a single engine airplane crashed near Yucca Valley Thursday shortly after takeoff from Palm Springs Airport.

The bodies of Arthur Woodward, 51, of Montebello, and Michael Campbell, 33, of Walnut were removed from the wrecked aircraft Friday morning, and postive identification made a few hours later.

The crash of the Beechcraft Debonair was reported by its only survivor, William Heath, 42, of Montebello. San Bernardino County Sheriff's deputies said that Heath, despite fractures of the jaw, pelvis and lower back, managed to walk several miles to a house near Yucca Valley to get help.

Heath was listed in fair condition Friday at Beverly Hospital in Montebello.

Deputies said that the plane, owned and piloted by Woodward, left El Monte Airport about 2 a.m. Thursday and flew to Palm Springs. It left Palm Springs at 4:45 a.m., possibly to return to Montebello when it went down. The impact of the crash tore the engine from the aircraft. Heath told deputies the crash occurred about 5 a.m. and he set out for help about 10 a.m.

Campbell was an employe of a pest control company.

Seen as way to force approval of offshore drilling

Oil, gas companies accused of tying up coal lands

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Five major oil and gas companies have bought up thousands of acres of federal coal leases and are doing virtually no mining, the Sacramento Bee quotes a government study as saying.

The newspaper said Saturday it had an advance copy of a General Accounting Office report which criticized Interior Department leasing policies.

A congressman who commissioned the study accused the companies of tying up coal lands to force the government to approve offshore oil drilling and ports for oil supertankers.

The GAO report said the firms control 16.7 per cent of the land leased by the government for coal development, but last year produced less than 1 per cent of all coal mined from the lands.

The companies were identified as El Paso Natural Gas, Sun Oil, Carter Oil, Atlantic Richfield and Consolidated Coal. Carter is a subsidiary of Exxon Oil, and Consolidated is a subsidiary of Continental Oil.

The report said El Paso, Sun and Carter did not produce any coal last year, and Atlantic Richfield and Consolidated mined two tons an acre from their federal leases, compared to a national rate of nearly 30 tons an acre.

The GAO said the terms of current Interior Department leases are not strict enough "to encourage timely and orderly development of coal deposits and to prevent speculative holdings."

Comptroller General Elmer Staats, who heads the investigative agency, said the Interior Department has started collecting advance royalties from coal leaseholders. But he said the change is not enough.

Staats said the GAO has asked the Interior Department to renegotiate expired leases and move to cancel leases on undeveloped land.

"We do not believe the department has been fully responsive to this recommendation," Staats said.

Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., who requested the study, said it appeared to show "a massive picture of restraint of trade," possibly aimed at winning government approval of offshore drilling and supertanker ports.

Navy pressured to buy fighter plane to ease joblessness in California?

DALLAS (AP) — The U.S. Navy has been pressured to spend $6 billion for a deficient fighter plane just to ease California's unemployment problems, according to U.S. Rep. Dale Milford, D-Tex.

Milford said Saturday in a statement issued from his home the Navy was pressured "in a demanding letter" to choose the F18 fighter plane built by McDonnell-Douglas and Northrop in California. He said the plane is inferior to the LTV F16 which the Air Force chose in January. Congress earlier had recommended the Navy and Air Force adopt the same new fighter plane.

"This letter clearly stated the demand that the award should go to Northrop because of California's high unemployment factor," Milford said. He said the letter was written by "the entire California (congressional) delegation."

Milford said the Navy's decision, which still requires Congressional approval, is indefensible on the basis of the F18's performance, economy or as the best combat plane available for Navy use.

The Navy has asked for delivery of 80 of the planes at a cost of $6 billion. Milford said the F18 is unproven and its engine has not even been developed.

"I can assure you this battle is not over with," Milford said.

LTV issued a statement saying selection of the F18 will have a negative effect on the Dallas-Fort Worth economy.

The statement said the Navy's selection goes against the congressional recommendation for the Navy to adopt the F16.

U.S. Rep. George Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said the Navy choice is "contrary to our expressed hope that it could work out to reduce the costs of the planes by using the same plane" for both the Navy and Air Force.

Suspect shoots at pursuing copter

A 19-year-old Los Serranos man was arested by Pomona police in less than five minutes after allegedly robbing a Pomona 7-11 Store and firing four shots at a pursuing police helicopter Friday night.

Donald Dile Biggs, II, of 4962 Los Serranos Rd., Chino, was booked in the Pomona Jail this morning on suspicion of armed robbery, and attempted murder.

Biggs according to Pomona Police was seen leaving the 7-11 Market at 1001 E. Grand Ave. that had just been robbed. Officer V. Mancini said the store clerk, Dolores Duran, and another person followed the pickup into a driveway at 1361 S. Reservoir Ave. where the suspect jumped out and fled. Mancini called for assistance from the police helicopter and other officers as he began to chase the suspect.

The helicopter crew, a minute later, radioed that the suspect was firing at them as they flashed the spotlight. Officers and the helicopter crew, D. Lohrenz and L. Archambeau, continued the chase until the suspect finally lay down on the ground at 1342 S. Mountain View Ave.

Biggs was taken into custody. The suspect told officers that during the chase he hid the gun. A search of the area revealed a .32-caliber handgun hidden behind a gas meter at 1360 S. Mountain View. Officers said they found a paper bag containing cash and a box of shotgun shells in the suspect's pickup truck.

Officers said Biggs later told them he fired the gun into the air, simply to fire off the rounds so he would not hurt anyone.

Two men, one hiding a weapon under his sweater, robbed the Arco Service Station at 1875 W. Holt Ave., POMONA, early Saturday morning and escaped with a small amount of cash, a tire and an attendant's wristwatch.

Service station attendants Joe Brincat and Robert Lester told officers that the two men, both Negroes, approached them, with one holding some type of weapon or object under his sweater. The attendents were ordered to hand over the cash from the register.

The two robbers then removed a wristwatch from one of the attendents wrist and took down a tire from the rack. The two men escaped in a white car and were joined by yet another vehicle, police said.

Both men were 35 to 40, about 5 feet 8, one heavy set and the other thin. One of the men was wearing black pants, a black sweater, cap, and had a goatee and beard. The other man was wearing a light colored shirt of jacket.

Two motorists injured in auto crashes

Two persons were injured in separate traffic accidents Friday night and Saturday morning, one on Mt. Baldy Road, south of Glendora Ridge Road near Mt. Baldy and the other on the San Bernardino Freeway at the Holt Blvd, offramp in Ontario.

Friday night Eva Aniko Kornyei, 19, of 1658 Jefferson Rd., Pomona, was injured when she slammed on her brakes on Mt. Baldy Road and lost control of her car. The car skidded into a bank, turned clockwise and crashed into the bank a second time, according to California Highway Patrol reports.

Mrs. Kornyei was treated and released from the Pomona Valley Community Hospital in Pomona.

In the second accident Saturday morning on the San Bernardino Freeway, Jesse Castro, of 3902 E. Mission Blvd., Montclair, exited at Holt Boulevard and crashed into a truck owned by Carnival Time Shoes. Highway patrolmen said the truck was parked on the offramp.

Castro was treated for head and neck lacerations at Ontario Community Hospital and later released.

Relive history

Students will duplicate 1804 soiree

Interested students at La Verne College will relive the experience of Lewis and Clark this summer when they trace the steps of Corps of Exploration 1804 to 1806.

The students will travel the same rivers as Meriwether Lewis and William Clark and through Yellowstone National Park on the Gallatin, Yellowstone, Salmon, Blackfoot and Snake Rivers.

The course is entitled "When Lewis and Clark Met the Mountains." It will be conducted in Montana.

Participants will read and share views of the journals of the original party, gain a perspective on Jefferson's decision to explore the land from ocean to ocean. They also will visit present-day museums, parks and landmarks that honor the historical event.

The class, from June 30 to July 28, will be the fourth 2,500-mile trip by La Verne College students led by Coach Roland Ortmayer and his family on and along the rivers first explored by pioneers.

Headquarters will be in the Ortmayer Friendship Cabin northeast of Bozeman, Mont. Enrollees will participate fully in travel, camping, river floating and general outdoor learning that makes the course so unusual.

The course credit is two hours each in history and recreation with a tuition of $50 per unit. It is estimated that the total cost per person will run about $635.

Applications, along with a $50 deposit, must be mailed by June 6 to Ortmayer at La Verne College. Enrollment is limited to 16.

Crackdown on 'gypsy' cab drivers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two city agencies will cooperate in a crackdown on illegal taxicab operators, whose activities are reported to cost the city thousands of dollars each year in lost revenue, officials say.

Under an agreement announced Monday between the Police Department and the Department of Public Utilities and Transportation, a maximum of two officers will be assigned to assist each of five public utilities inspectors in issuing citations to "gypsy" cab drivers and in making arrests.

Police Cmdr. Joseph Gunn said the joint force will operate for three months and police officers will be assigned on an "as needed" basis to the public utilities inspectors.

Upland's city council

Two public hearings have been planned for the Monday night meeting of the Upland City Council.

Slated at the 7 p.m. meeting in the Upland City hall will be an informal public hearing to consider a revised master plan for Citrus Park located at Eighth Street and Mountain Avenue.

According to City Manager Lee Travers, the current budget has alloted $32,000 for the development of Citrus Park. To be considered is a revision of the existing facilities in view of the fact that a Little League field and restroom were added to the park site in 1971.

Also on the agenda will be a public hearing to consider a new type of tree to be planted in the Euclid Avenue median south of Foothill Boulevard.

Originally, the median was planted with pepper trees which subsequently died from overwatering when lawn was placed around them.

After a great deal of study in 1963 and 1964, the dead pepper trees were replaced with camphor trees. These, too, have failed to grow as well as anticipated.

Kenneth Hoover, general services director of the City of Upland, will present his studies of trees which would be compatible with the watering of lawn areas in the median.

Requests for facilities to be used by the Upland Pop Warner Junior football league, the American Youth Soccer Organization and the Foothill Little League will be considered.

Cabbie locked in trunk gets a wild ride

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police cars chased a taxi commandeered by a gunman at speeds up to 85 miles per hour along surface streets and freed the cab driver who had been robbed and then locked in the trunk, authorities say.

A police spokesman said Raymundo Bolanos, 25, of Los Angeles, was booked for investigation of kidnaping and robbery following the 12-mile chase Monday, triggered when the gunman attempted to rob a second cab in Burbank.

The spokesman said cab driver Mehyar Motiharnia was treated for a cut hand.

Chino's Cinco de Mayo

Members of a traditional Mexican dance group will perform at the Chino Branch Library Monday at 7:30 p.m. as part of a Cinco de Mayo program.

The group will be headed by Esther Padilla. In addition to the dance presentation, the library will show the film, "I am Joaquin."

The library will host a free gardening clinic at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the meeting room.

Ed Byrd, staff member of the San Bernardino County agricultural extension service, will present detailed information on all aspects of gardening. A film will be shown and numerous free pamphlets will be available to the public.

On Thursday, a color film, "National Gallery of Art," a tour of Washington, D.C.'s great art museum, will be presented at noon. Admission is free.

Considered clumsy

In the 17th century, to be lefthanded was enough to be considered clumsy, and the French word for left remains "gauche," or awkward.

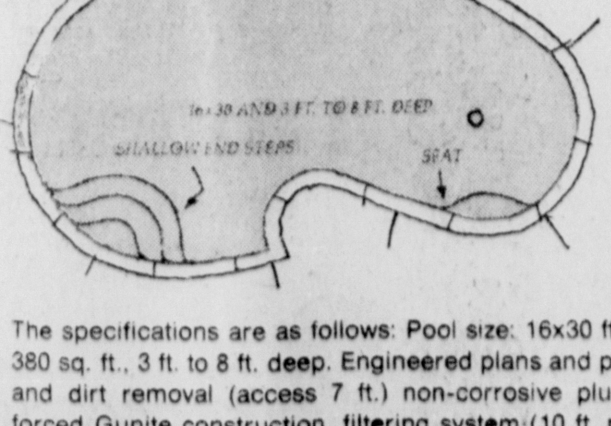
INTRODUCING OUR "INFLATION FIGHTERS."
(Or, how to own a swimming pool without taking a bath)



With the rising costs of today, and practically everything increasing in cost monthly, you've probably felt that a good swimming pool is out of reach or at least a few years of saving away.

Because we understand, California Pools introduces two complete pools which we call our "Inflation Fighters." It wasn't easy doing this, a lot of arrangements had to be made, and it could only work on a volume basis.

These pools were designed to fight inflation without giving up the best in equipment, the best in service and the very best in price.

The specifications are as follows: Pool size: 16x30 ft., 80 perimeter ft., 380 sq. ft., 3 ft. to 8 ft. deep. Engineered plans and permits, excavation and dirt removal (access 7 ft.) non-corrosive plumbing, steel-reinforced Gunite construction, filtering system (10 ft. max. from pool), 1 h.p. bronze pump, shallow end steps, deep end swimout, automatic skimmer, complete pool plastering, 500 watt light, 6 in. waterline tile trim, with custom coping edge around pool water line, filter, cleaning tools, and start-up service upon completion.

If you would like to know the exact cost, and exactly how we can do all of this for so little money, call us and we'll tell you, or fill in the coupon below.

England gives us home of George Washington's ancestors

By STANLEY JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Natonal Trust of Great Britain has given Washington Old Hall, the medieval manor where George Washington's ancestors settled in 1183, to the American people.

The Earl of Antrim, chairman of the National Trust, said it will be only the first of several Bicentennial contributions by the mother country to the political heirs of the colonists who successfully rebelled against England 200 years ago.

Since Washington Old Hall is an inalienable property of the trust, the gift originally consisted of a 99-year lease at a token rent of about a nickel a year and payable only on demand.

Later, at American insistance, the time period was revised to make the agreement a series of renewable "generation" leases — the first for 21 years.

Legal formalities, under which the Department of the Interior will serve as agent for the American people, have been completed in Washington. A formal announcement will be made by the earl at a British Embassy luncheon in Washington Saturday.

Lord Antrim said the National Trust will pay for the upkeep of Washington Old Hall, although Americans will probably continue to contribute as they have since the building was rescuer from the rubbish heap in 1936.

In that year, the mellow sandstone, H-shaped mansion was condemned as unfit for human habitation and ordered torn down. A local preservation committee in Washington, County Durham, saved it and a restoration began.

The then-American ambassador, Winthrop Aldrich maternal uncle of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, dedicated the building in 1955.

Washington Old Hall, in a grimy coal-mining district of northeast England, should not be confused with Sulgrave Manor in Northamptonshire from which Col. John Washington emigrated to Virginia in 1656. He was the great-grandfather of the revolutionary war hero and first American president.

This latter estate, often called the Washington ancestral seat, was purchased by the family from King Henry VIII in 1539 after they had extended their land holdings from Durham through Lancashire to Northamptonshire. It is owned by a nonprofit American group.

The first of Washington's ancestors mentioned in connection with Old Hall was William de Hertburn who leased it from the bishop of Durham for four pounds a year and an agreement to supply four greyhounds whenever the prelate wanted to go hunting.

According to custom, William dropped the name Hertburn and took that of his new property, Wessyngton which, over the years, became Washington. Wessyngton was an Anglo-Saxon name meaning "Estate of the Hwaes Family."

The Washington family finally sold Washington Old Hall in 1613 to the Rt. Rev. William James, Anglican bishop of Durham, whose Roman Catholic predecessor had sold it to the Washingtons almost five centuries earlier.

A public charitable fund, the Royal Oak Foundation, has just been organized in New York to coordinate conservationist work with the National Trust.

Young Turk freshman congressmen mellowing

REP. MARTHA KEYS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The window in Tom Steed's spacious office in the Rayburn Building has one of the best views of the Capitol dome, inspiring in the late afternoon sun against a crystal blue sky.

People drop by just to take pictures.

Tom Steed, 71, generally doesn't mind. He's served the House of Representatives from his district in Oklahoma for 26 years. By his measure he's earned the view, as a faithful soldier in the legislative trenches.

So when 75 new Democrats were elected last fall to the 94th Congress and came on strong, demanding and getting reforms like an end to automatic seniority privileges, Tom Steed naturally took a somewhat jaundiced look at the goings-on.

"The one big mistake the freshmen make, if they make mistakes," he says with a faint smile, "is letting their bias and prejudice and their shock at the fact that this isn't anything they've ever been connected with take over."

"This is the greatest lawmaking body in history, the only parliament where both houses are equal.

"And the way it has to operate can be very irritating to a fellow who has just come out of a campaign where he vows to vote the issues — and then finds out that he's going to be seen and not heard. Well, it never dawns on him that senior members are seen and not heard, too."

Tom Steed, a Democrat, and other senior congressmen live the traditions of the House, and now find it divided by nearly a hundred, mostly young newcomers, Republican and Democrat alike, almost a quarter of the 435 members. The rookies have mellowed in their first four months. They have tasted compromise. They are learning to cope. But they still insist that they hold a fiery mandate from the electorate to get something done in Washington.

They swept into office mostly from the suburbs on two major promises — to reform campaign spending that had set up the Watergate scandal and to halt support of the war in Vietnam. Largely, they have kept the promise about Vietnam, helping to trim military aid to the South Vietnamese government. The campaign spending issue hasn't come up in the 94th Congress.

Martha Keys, a 44-year-old housewife, is in her first term from northeastern Kansas. She is one of two freshmen on the prestigious and powerful Ways and Means Committee, something unheard of in congresses past.

"None of us really fall into traditional categories," she says of her colleagues. "So many of us ran out of a sense of something's just got to be done. We've got more of a problem-solving approach. We just can't go along with the old power forces struggling against each other."

She and many other freshmen feel they cannot vote in good conscience for omnibus bills that contain a potpourri of dissimilar proposals.

The sorest test was the foreign assistance act where military and humanitarian aid from the Middle East to Vietnam were lumped together in one bill. It passed by a handful of votes. It could easily have failed. Many of the freshmen congressmen opposed to military aid nevertheless accepted it to get humanitarian aid.

"I've found myself in some forced choice situations and the foreign aid bill was a classic," says Les AuCoin, a modish 3-year-old from Oregon. "I ended up having to hold my nose and vote aye. I vowed to myself that will be the last time I will vote on that basis."

Joe Fisher is 61, a former county executive in his first term from northern Virginia and with Mrs. Keys a member of Ways and Means. An oldtimer on the Washington scene, he is the first member of the League of Women Voters elected to Congress. He doesn't like dissimilar items in the same bill either, but he knows the system.

"We had a perfect example in the tax bill," he explains. "We had things shoved in there at the end that ought logically to have been considered not in reference to tax cut or economic stimulation, but to Social Security, housing, foreign taxation...But if you look at things on a larger canvas, it would be what you expect I suppose."

People, Joe Fisher says, have certain pet proposals, and in the system of tradeoffs and assembling winning margins, they are going to slip their pets into any bill they think can be passed.

He's against it, but not 100 per cent against it. For instance, he voted to attach the elimination of the oil depletion allowance to the tax cut bill passed in March. If it hadn't made it there, he was prepared to put it in the energy bill. If that failed, then the tax reform bill. And anytime he thought it could make it, he would offer it on its own.

Tom Steed labors on the Appropriations Committee where omnibus bills are common. He says they are also necessary. "With way over a thousand items in the appropriations process, you have to put a lot of them together to make it work at all."

Millicent Fenwick is a freshman Republican, a consumer advocate from New Jersey, and at 65 a witty philosopher about her first excursion into national politics. She tells the story of an harassed committee chairman, coping with the questions from a young committee member. The chairman finally retorts, "We're never going to get this bill through if everybody insists on knowing what's in it."

That, indeed, seems to be the line between the old and the new.

There is also a deep contrast between the way Tom Steed's office ticks away with practiced efficiency, and the almost feverish activity in most freshmen offices. There are inevitable advantages to experience, to having been around.

When he first came to Congress, Steed says, he was told to keep his mouth shut until he could tell other members something they didn't know. "It was 10 months before that day came. Yet the day I made my first speech, I made three. And I killed a bill single-handedly."

He also offered a substitute which passed.

Perhaps the pace has quickened in the 94th Congress. Les AuCoin, with the session only 50 days old, offered an amendment to the emergency housing bill and maneuvered its passage with a substantial margin.

"I think we've buried for some time, certainly through the 94th Congress, the notion that a freshman should be a backbencher, saying as little as possible and getting long by going along," AuCoin says.

The Democratic freshmen are, naturally, critical of President Ford. His solutions, they say, are not responsive to the needs of the people. And because of this they are forming their own programs on taxes, energy and economic stimulation. Yet they rue, in a sense, the decline of the presidency.

Says AuCoin, "Since I've come here, I've become a strong advocate of a strong presidency. Congress needs to be strengthened as a co-equal branch of government, but Congress cannot lead. It can pioneer and it can do some very bold things, some innovative things on a case-by-case basis. But in terms of total management on a day to day direction, Congress is not the place where you'd expect that to happen."

The rudest awakening has been the time-consuming, seemingly inefficient way Congress operates.

"I thought things would be more clear cut," says Bob Edgar, a 30-year-old minister from Pennsylvania. "And I also thought more people would listen to debate. I have a crazy resolution I'd like to see passed in the rules that rather than have five hours of no attendance at the debate, have one hour of mandatory attendance and one hour for amendments, and go to a vote."

Some freshmen, like Edgar and Millicent Fenwick, find time to attend debate as a learning process. Almost all, however, rely on their legislative assistants to review pending legislation and brief them on it.

Some are more methodical. Joe Fisher has rotating seminars with unpaid, but high-powered experts from the Washington area, discussing various areas of domestic legislation.

Another educational source, sometimes wanted, sometimes not, is the lobbyist. The trouble most have encountered with lobbyists is turning them off. Martha Keys says the only heavy-handed lobby she has faced is the oil lobby.

Bob Edgar is thinking of holding an auction to get rid of all the souvenirs, the model helicopters, the flags, the pen sets, and a gold key ring he explains is supposed to fit in the nose.

"We're willing to listen to them without all the gimmicks," Edgar says.

Don Bonkers, a 37-year-old former county auditor from Washington, is more appalled by the endless list of receptions and banquets to which Congressmen are invited, two and three a night, extra lavish spreads of "beef, turkey and booze."

"It just appears to me that this is an extravagance that we can ill afford at these times," Bonkers says. "It just doesn't seem right to sit around all day arguing the school lunch program and then go to a big banquet."

But as much as the freshmen talk of reform, some say it is wrong to characterize this as a reform Congress — aside from the dethronement of three committee chairmen as the session began.

"They banned proxy voting. They have now reintroduced it," says Millicent Fenwick. "They had banned closed meetings except for security reasons. They can now be brought about any time by a vote of the majority. All of these things pass unnoticed."

The test, says Tom Steed, will be how many of the new congressmen come back for the next Congress.

"And that's the way of saying you go out of here in a burying box or a ballot box," says Steed. "The hero of the day is the guy who proves he's a smart politician. He knew when to run because he got elected. He knew when to quit because he didn't get defeated."

Until these freshmen are reelected from their districts Steed and others will consider many of them political accidents. When and if they return, they will likely have a greater respect for Congress, the thinking goes, and Congress will have a greater respect for them.

Valley lawmakers urge refugee guidelines

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

As more South Vietnamese refugees reach American soil, area legislators are pushing harder for federal officials to declare responsibility for their settlement.

Reflecting concerns of their constituents, these lawmakers want assurances the newcomers won't add to the unemployment problem nor overtax public services.

Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., made an appeal for the federal government to accept complete responsibility for their settlement in California.

"The federal government owes the California citizens and other states receiving Vietnamese immigrants a clear declaration that it will provide all necessary funds and programs necessary for their successful settlement," he said.

"It is important for the people of my district — especially the unemployed — to have confidence that welcoming these refugees will not cause further dislocation in jobs, housing or the availability of public services."

The Upland legislator joined Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and other state leaders in seeking assurances that federal funds and programs will care for the short term and long range needs of those airlifted from South Vietnam to California.

"Our ability to welcome these unfortunate people depends in large part on the willingness of our national leaders to insure that the immigration of these refugees in no way hinders our efforts at the state level to meet the pressing needs of our own citizens," said McVittie.

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., sent a letter to President Gerald Ford in which he declared the federal government is responsible for the refugees brought into the country and it must be accountable to the American people for whatever happens.

"As events unfold, it appears likely that California — and particularly Southern California — will become havens for evacuated South Vietnamese refugees," he wrote.

"Before these people are brought into California and other parts of the United States, I implore you on behalf of my constituents to assure that adequate ground rules are established for the treatment, care and funding of services and facilities for refugees.

"My constituents have enough problems with the economy, jobs and foods for their famiiles without adding the impact of South Vietnamese refugees to the situation. And city, county and state government are equally unprepared to shoulder the tremendous financial and logistical burdens that could result from the large influx of refugees."

In closing, Lloyd urged President Ford to take necessary steps to insure fair and equitable handling of the "delicate situation."

Officials at Lloyd's West Covina office said they had been deluged with phone calls and letters from residents concerned over the impact the refugees would have on California economy and employment.

Many are concerned about the humanitarian aid and what the government plans to do with them, they noted. "These are not heartless comments but concerned comments from people who are having problems themselves finding jobs," added Mike Stover, administrative assistant. "We are receiving very few calls in support of the refugees."

The congressmen has had no official word if any of the refugees will be settled in the 35th District, which extends from West Covina to Wrightwood.

State Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-32nd Dist., has received several dozen phone calls from area residents at his San Bernardino office.

"Most callers are concerned over competition for jobs," said Willie Silva, administrative assistant. "One caller was a man who has been unemployed for six months and on the verge of losing his home."

The office did receive one mimeographed form letter from Concerned Vietnamese Americans urging legislators to support programs for the care of the refugees.

"But most of the calls are from people whose concerns range from employment, adoption of Vietnamese orphans and needed care for senior citizens," she added. The office began receiving the calls shortly after the first planeload of Vietnamese orphans reached the U.S.

Since the resettlement is a federal matter, Mrs. Silva is referring the callers to federal legislators.

For valley doctors

Hypertension seminar via closed circuit TV

Doctors in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties will participate in a televised educational project, the National Hypertension Test, to be conducted Monday through June 1.

The program will be administered in two parts and will be screened locally at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, Pomona and San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland.

Designed to increase physician understanding of high blood pressure during May, National High Blood Pressure Month, the program is sponsored by the Network for Continuing Medical Education and the American Heart Association, Great Los Angeles and San Bernardino County affiliates.

Studies indicate that about half of the 23 million Americans with hypertension do not know they have it. Uncontrolled, high blood pressure can lead to stroke or heart attack.

The closed circuit film test consists of a board of nationally recognized experts presenting patients with typical manifestations of hypertensive disease and its complication followed by questions on diagnosis and treatment for each patient.

Doctors taking the test are eligible for continuing medical education credit from the American Medical Association and the American Academy of Family Physicians.

Community involvement program

Xerox workers complete hospital job

A group of employes at Xerox Electro-Optical Systems in Pomona have nearly completed construction of a patio designed for patients at Casa Colina Hospital in Pomona.

The project started with land clearing and includes landscaping and acquisition of furniture and other equipment.

The new patio will have shuffleboard courts, a large barbecue and redwood furniture.

Seeking to extend its program of national contributions to communities in which it does business, and to stimulate greater employe participation in decision making, Xerox launched its Community Involvement Program in 1974.

The program encourages employes to volunteer their time and talents to help solve problems in their communities.

Since the program's nationwide inception, nearly 100 projects have been started. Programs include preparing high school students for job interviews, arranging recreation at a juvenile detention center, providing information on community services for consumer affairs, rape prevention, alcoholism and drug addition, and providing food for the needy.

Employes can select an existing project or start one of their own. They serve on their own time and use company funds if needed.

Claremont burglaries jump 50 per cent

Thieves are breaking into Claremont homes and businesses at the rate of 1.4 burglaries a day, reported Police Chief Charles Lines in releasing crime figures for the first nine months of the 1975-76 fiscal year.

A total of 151 burglaries was reported during January, February and March to boost the nine-month total to 383, more than 50 per cent higher than the 253 break-ins reported for a comparable period in 1974-75.

Lines said that although the burglary rate is "higher than any of us would like to see it, it appears to have leveled off at this particular time."

Lines stressed the increase in juvenile arrests on burglary charges by 62 per cent over last year.

Value of property recovered increased by 344 per cent because of the School of Theology burglary items being returned.

Juvenile felony arrests also rose during the past nine months with 84 compared to 71 the previous year.

REIGNS OVER PARADE

Maria Luisa Estrello of Claremont, center, selected as queen to reign over the Cinco de Mayo parade and fiesta in Ontario, rides on the queen's float in the parade. Also on the float are Yolanda Gonzales of Upland, left, and Valerie Ramirez of Guasti. Hundreds of persons turned out for the parade and fiesta.

Urge rejection of fire station bids

Pomona City Council will consider bids for construction of a new fire station near Pacific State Hospital Monday.

City Administrator Jerrold Gonce is expected to recommend that all bids for the project be rejected and that the project be delayed for one year due to budgetary considerations.

Low bid received for the project was $493,743.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting include an ordinance setting license fees for unaltered dogs at $8 and spayed and neutered dogs at $4; an agreement with James M. Montgomery, Consulting Engineers Inc., for review of water department finances; and a request from the Southern California Rapid Transit District to utilize the fairgrounds as a temporary park and ride facility on a test basis.

State approves massive Pomona teacher layoff

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

Administrators of the Pomona Unified School District have been notified by a state hearing officer they may eliminate "most" of the 124 teaching positions cut by board action to balance next year's budget.

While Schools Supt. Robert Wentz would not cite numbers, he did say the recommendation of the state Office of Administrative Hearings "came out favorably for the district in terms of the budget we have to work with.

"I don't like the prospect of losing good staff people, and not all of those notified are to go."

Wentz said a full account of the report from the hearing officer will be presented at a special meeting of the school board Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The 124 employes were notified early in March their positions may be terminated the end of the school year following board action at a meeting Feb. 11 when nearly $2 million in cuts in programs and services for next year was approved.

Of the 124 who received the termination notices, 100 filed with the district for hearings, according to Delbert A. Pfiefer, executive director of Associated Pomona Teachers (APT).

Wentz has said in the past that if the May 27, 94 cent per $100 assessed valuation tax override is approved by the voters, no cuts will be made.

However, school watchers speculate that by the end of May, those teachers who received termination notices will be scattered, out of the area, and many will find positions in other districts.

The message from the state hearing officer was quite different from that announced earlier for the Chaffey Union High School District which administers Ontario, Chaffey, Montclair, Upland and Alta Loma high schools.

Administrators in that district were told they could not dismiss any teachers they had notified may be terminated following board action Feb. 3, when $2 million in cuts was approved.

Schools Supt. Allan G. Smith said some new teaching positions they had considered for next year, but as yet are unfilled, will not need to be filled.

However, 43 teachers who received termination notices in March will be retained.

"The hearing officer said we must use $200,000 in reserves to pay salaries to retain these teachers," said Smith. "This still leaves the district with $200,000 in unrestricted reserves, which the board would like to keep." Pomona school district has $141,891 in reserve funds.

Smith said he would recommend to the school board that teachers who leave not be replaced in an attempt to let attrition hold down payroll costs.

Smith said that by spending the $200,000 on staff the district would be able to offer an optional sixth-period day for freshmen and seniors within the limitations of staff, restore some programs which had been earmarked for elimination, and perhaps increase graduation requirements in the areas of English and social studies which earlier had been cut.

"This decision by the hearing officer gives us from 26 to 30 teachers with which we may expand into sixth period and other program areas," Smith said.

A spokesman for the Ontario-Montclair school district said there probably would be no dismissals of teachers in their schools because attrition probably would take care of the fewer number of teachers needed because of declining enrollment.

KINDERGARTEN CIRCUS

Opinion

Ignorance hurt more than Cong

We failed in Vietnam for a number of good reasons.

We sent men who had no knowledge of government or of Asia to advise in the most sensitive areas of politics. We had high military officers counseling prime ministers on Vietnamese domestic civilian policies and on the appointing and firing of Cabinet officers.

We had eager civilians, with ideals but no experience in political matters, attempting to mold South Vietnam in their own image and collaborating in Watergate-type plots to achieve noble ends.

We made little attempt to understand Vietnamese society and customs. We knew and still know next to nothing about their religion and its political and power structure. We made no effort to learn their family system and its influence on government, the military and business.

We had no understanding of the very large Chinese community and the role it played. Or the relationship of the French to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

We made no realistic search to determine those men and women with real influence in Vietnamese society. Rather we persistently showed a predelection for those who spoke English or French, those who adopted Western ways and those who professed to agree with us and our theories.

We were little concerned with building those supporting institutions which make it possible for a democracy to work, perhaps because the men we sent did not know their value.

We made no effort to understand that a shaky government is inevitably more concerned with the personal loyalty of its generals than with their ability — and therefore we devoted no time to solving this problem.

It need not be emphasized that these civil matters are even more important than military strength in a guerrilla war.

Our men responsible for managing U.S. AID and military supply and distribution systems and for devising financial and monetary practices had little understanding of currency and commodity manipulation. The programs they instituted insured that the Viet Cong tax collectors and their military quartermasters would secure the dollars and supplies they required in abundance. The French grew rich. And the ease with which both goods and funds could be diverted gave strength to the most corrupt elements in Vietnamese society.

For a time, we had a man in Vietnam watching for such hanky panky — using investigative skills he had learned in Europe in World War II. His findings were ignored and he was sent home.

Militarily, we had a surprisingly large number of able majors and captains in Vietnam, who learned from their Vietnamese associates and from the enemy's successes. These men, low in the chain of command, had little influence.

But we had, too, a surprisingly large number of generals and colonels caught up in politics and in a type of war they did not understand and refused to learn.

They had been indoctrinated through years in military schools which put heavy emphasis on the U.S. Civil War, on conventional World War I and II battles in France, Belgium, the Netherlands and North Africa. They had no taste for guerrilla war. Those in their ranks with experience in such matters were pigeonholed in backwater offices or sent to barracks duty in the States or Korea.

Our own troops fought the same type of war we taught the Vietnamese. Our air fleets chose their targets in much the same manner as in World War II. We sent billions in inappropriate equipment and made up for our mistakes by expending large amounts of bombs, artillery shells and ammunition. The South Vietnamese learned this saturation technique all too well.

This is why we failed in Vietnam. And this is why we may also fail in Southeast Asia.

Something to chew on

Dog bites man may or may not be news, but man biting man is more dangerous.

According to Dr. L. G. Douglas, a plastic surgeon at the University of Toronto, while a great deal has been written about the treatment of dog bites, the potential danger inherent in human bites has not been given the attention it deserves.

Reporting in American Family Physician, published by the American Academy of Family Physicians, Douglas cites a study at Wellesley Hospital in Toronto, where in one recent year, 1 per cent of 47,000 patients were treated for bite wounds. Although dog bites were by far the most frequent, less than 4 per cent became infected. But with human bites, about 30 per cent became infected.

Something to chew on.

"SAY, COULD I CRANK THE SIREN FOR A WHILE?"

JACK ANDERSON

What JFK, LBJ wanted in Vietnam

WASHINGTON — The late Nikita Khrushchev correctly sized up the Vietnam war during a talk with American Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in July, 1962. As Thompson later recounted the conversation in a secret cable, Khrushchev told him grusquely: "In South Vietnam, the United States has stumbled into a bog."

How did we happen to get mired for a decade in the Vietnam bog? Perhaps I can help answer his historic question. The two men who called the shots during this crucial period, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, discussed their decisions with me off the record. I have found my notes of these conversations.

In the early 1960s, the Pentagon tried to pressure President Kennedy to send combat troops to Vietnam. A combat force was needed, the Joint Chiefs urged, to defend U.S. facilities and to bolster the South Vietnamese.

Kennedy told me he had no intention of sending a military expedition to Vietnam. The Bay of Pigs had taught him, he said, not to trust the Pentagon's advice. Vietnam could become a Sea of Pigs, he feared, sucking the United States deeper and deeper into the maelstrom.

He was troubled, nevertheless, by the infiltration of North Vietnamese regulars into the south. He described this movement of troops and arms across international boundaries as "a new form of aggression."

But the way to fight a guerrilla war, he suggested, was with guerrilla tactics. He wanted to develop the best counter-insurgency force in the world and send them to Vietnam to train the South Vietnamese in anti guerrilla warfare, he said.

Kennedy rejected the Pentagon's call to send combat troops to Vietnam, but as a compromise he sent over more military advisors and technicians.

He became increasingly skeptical, however, of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam jungles. Shortly before his death, he indicated to me that he wanted to pull all American military people out of Vietnam. He asked me what I thought the political repercussions would be.

In more positive language, he told Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield in mid-1963 that he had made up his mind to end the American presence in Vietnam. "He felt we had made an error. He was going to order a gradual withdrawal," Mansfield told me.

When President Kennedy died in Dallas, only 43 Americans had lost their lives in the Vietnam war. Most of the 56,226 Americans who eventually died there would still be alive if Kennedy had not been murdered.

Lyndon Johnson was cautioned against escalating the Vietnam war. The most urgent warning came from Undersecretary of State George Ball. "The South Vietnamese are losing the war to the Viet Cong," he told the new President. "No one can assure you that we can beat the Viet Cong or even force them to the conference table on our terms, no matter how many hundred thousand white, foreign troops we deploy . . .

"The decision you face now, therefore, is crucial. Once large numbers of U.S. troops are committed to direct combat . . . we will have started a well-nigh irreversible process. Our involvement will be so great that we cannot — without national humiliation — stop short of achieving our complete objectives.

"Of the two possibilities, I think humiliation would be more likely than the achievement of our objectives — even after we have paid the terrible price."

Tragically for the United States, Johnson preferred the advice of the military brass who assured him that a show of force would prevent a Communist takeover of Vietnam.

Johnson spoke to me about Vietnam on three or four occasions. Each time, he repeated two statements. "They're not going to say Lyndon Johnson lost Vietnam," he would declare. He would also interject: "Lyndon Johnson isn't going to be the first American president to lose a war."

The Republican charges in the 1950s that the Democrats had "lost China" clearly had left a deep impression upon Johnson. He was determined not to be the victim of another "soft on communism" campaign.

Thus, the United States, the mightiest military power the world has ever known — supreme on the seas and invincible in the skies — was outmaneuvered in South Vietnam by ragtag guerrillas, most of whom were simple peasants.

Armed with crude weapons manufactured in makeshift jungle arsenals, they fought a war of improvisation. Some of their heaviest weapons were mortars which could be dismantled and carried in three parts.

They marched on sandals hacked from old truck and airplane tires, slept in hammocks made from the nylon of our parachutes. Wicks enclosed in the metal of used cartridges provided just enough light to thread jungle trails at night. And they could survive for days on a packet of rice.

Although substantially surpassed in manpower and firepower, the Viet Cong's crude style of warfare, not unlike that used by our own forefathers to wrest independence from the British, often confounded those who fought by the book.

Worse, the U.S. buildup played into the hands of the Communist propagandists who were able to portray the war as a struggle between the American "imperialists" and Vietnamese "people." Intensive anti-American indoctrination gave point and purpose to the Communist jungle fighters.

Of course, their real support came from North Vietnam, which smuggled troops and supplies over the network of jungle paths. This infiltration approached the dimensions of a backdoor invasion after the United States began pouring troops into South Vietnam.

The American people not only gave 56,226 lives to the South Vietnamese cause; they also poured an estimated $150 billion into South Vietnam. In contrast, North Vietnam's allies furnished no troops and contributed less than $10 billion to Hanoi.

But once the United States pulled out, the South Vietnamese surrendered without fighting a major battle.

Just in jest

What's new in the Halls of Ivy or how high can you get on Higher Education? — Well, at Florida Technological University a professor, unable to enroll the necessary 10 students in his basic chemistry class, changed the name to "A Course in Wine Making." Sixty one students promptly signed up.

And to prove that they could never be charged with practicing political discrimination, students at the University of Texas, in El Paso, elected a hamster to a student senate seat.

As an anti-recession effort, helpful researchers at the University of Wisconsin are suggesting that state's financially embarrassed dairymen turn their barns into fish farms.

But perhaps the week's greatest academic accomplishment had to do with women's rights and the equality of the sexes. At the University of Cincinnati the girls staged an all male beauty contest complete with see-through shirts and abbreviated swim suit competition.

I suppose it comes under the heading of practicing medicine without a license but none-the-less I feel I owe it to my readers to inform them of some of the brilliant new developments in medical science.

Brilliant, did I say? Astounding would perhaps be the better word. And I am sure you will agree when I tell you that at the university of California, researchers have determined that moderate drinkers live longer than teetotalers. — And then there's the woman who claims that acupuncture has helped her quit smoking. — But, most amazing of all, according to one fully accredited doctor, a depressed and negative attitude can give one flat feet.

Now if a lot of us had only known about that last prognosis prior to World War I, we could possibly have avoided the draft. But why cry over the might have beens? Thanks to those U.C. researchers who can at least now start doing a bit of moderate drinking and thereby live to gloriously inebriated ripe old ages.

HEARTLINE BULLETIN: Any letter you send Heartline dealing with your problem, please give us your control number or we can't locate your file.

HEARTLINE: Is there a raise scheduled for civil service pensioners in 1975. B.B.

Husband who doesn't show affection may never have received any himself

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday was my birthday. My husband gave me the same thing he has given me every year — an argument. The big jerk couldn't even wish me a happy birthday and show a little appreciation for the way I take care of him and the children.

On Monther's Day he tells me I'm not his mother so I shouldn't expect anything.. When Christmas comes around I get a set of brooms or new linoleum for the kitchen.

What makes a man so insensitive that he can't show a little love or affection? It hurts when the person I love most in the world won't even take the time to buy me a ten-cent card. Sign this letter — You Know Me, I'm Your Wife

Dear Wife: People who are unable to show love and affection probably received none when they were growing up. They CAN be thawed out if someone will make the effort to do it. I'll bet the big jerk is really crazy about you, but the poor guy doesn't know how to show it. Teach him.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm sure you don't have the nerve to print this letter but I'm going to write it anyway.

I am a girl 13 years old, considered very mature for my age. I could pass for 16 or 17 any day. It burned me up when you called Tessie's parents "gutless' because they gave her permission to smoke in front of them rather than behind their backs.

My Mom gave me permission to smoke last April. I'm very glad she did because I was doing it anyway, and feeling very guilty, deceitful and scared of being caught. I never even asked Mom for permission. One day when she was looking for a key to the storage room she remembered I had one on my key chain. So she went into my purse and that's when she found the cigarettes.

Mom came to me and said, "If you want to smoke it's O.K. with me. But never sneak." I don't think my mother is "gutless' — I think she is wonderful. — Hooked But Not Sneaking

Dear Hooked: She may be wonderful in many ways, but any mother who would allow her 13-year-old child to smoke has strudel in her noodle.

The increase of lung cancer among females has risen sharply in the last few years. Anyone who is "Hooked" at 13 could be a likely candidate.

Read on. The next letter might be of interest to you.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's a word to Tessie who thinks her mother is so great because she lets her smoke at age 13 rather than make her sneak around.

I knew all the answers when I was 13, too. By the time I was 14, I was smoking a pack of cigarettes a day. At age 16 I was up to three packs. Of course I thought I was being grown-up and wouldn't listen to anybody.

When I was 20 I married a non-smoker who pleaded with me to quit. I refused. But on July 9 I got some news that MADE me stop. The doctor discovered two spots on my left lung and a lump in my breast. All were malignant.

After radical surgery I took cobalt treatments that were hell. The medical bills have wiped us out.

I wouldn't touch a cigarette for all the money in the world, but the damafe has been done and I'm fighting for my life. I can do nothing now but write this letter and hope that just one young person learns from it. Sign me — Regrets in Ohio

Dear Friend: What can I say but thanks for writing and I pray you'll make it.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers's booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

ERMA BOMBECK

Too much lemon turns writer sour

It was bound to happen.

Yesterday, I blacked out from an overdose of lemon.

Ever since manufacturers of everything discovered lemon had a fresh, clean smell, my nose has been on the verge of puckering.

It started out as one of those typical, average days in the life of a housewife. I ran my lemon deodorizer up the flag to see who could salute it, swished my dishes through lemony suds, damp mopped my floor with lemon-scented ammonia and spread a smooth coat of lemon wax on it.

I gave the furniture a spritz of lemon wax, and took the prints off the picture window with my lemon window cleaner.

Everything was so fresh and clean smelling I thought I was going to be sick, so I called Mayva and made plans for lunch.

Stepping into the shower, I lathered up with lemon soap and washed my hair with lemon essence and climbed into the car which was a lemon before lemons came into style.

Mayva had already ordered me a lemon diet drink and blew lemon menthol cigarette smoke into my face all during lunch. After lunch, I popped a lemon sour breath mint into my mouth and we shopped for about an hour before I knew I must return to my lemon dream cottage.

There was no escaping. I went out to sit by the garbage cans. They had been sprayed with lemon. I put my head in the oven. It had been cleaned with lemon foam. I turned on TV. Graham Kerr was arranging lemon slices around a flounder.

When my husband came home I was propped up in chair mumbling to myself.

"What's wrong?" he asked pecking me on the cheek and nearly knocking me out with his lemon after-shave lotion.

"I want to smell dirt again," I said, "do you understand? Good old-fashioned musty, rancid, greasy, baked-on dirt. And I want to smell hair with a wet possum aroma and shoes that smell like feet, and chairs that smell like leather and bodies that sweat and refrigerators tainted with cantaloupe."

"Now, now," he said patting my hand, "you're going to be all right. It's been a bad day. You just sit there and relax and I'll bring you a nice, cold lemonade."

That's when I passed out . . . cold.

LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Bulk still more important than water

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your article in the newspaper about bulk. The last statement, "Bulk in the solid foods you eat, not water, is essential to normal bowel function," and most others, is absolutely wrong. You want to move bulk with water. How can a so-called learned medical doctor recommend such a thing?

I'm now 81. When I was younger, I was troubled with constipation. I began drinking eight glasses of water a day and have had no trouble since. For 45 years I have been drinking eight glasses of water a day and my daily elimination is as regular as the sun, moon and stars.

Are you a quack out after the money it brings in or just a common sophisticated ignoramus?

DEAR READER — No matter how abusive you are, the facts won't change. I hold no quarrel with drinking adequate amounts of water. In fact I recommend taking fluid with the breakfast meal as part of the bowel training.

The point you are missing is that water will not stay in the bowel unless there is a reasonable amount of roughage.

The whole wheat cereals contain bran. Bran naturally absorbs water and in this way prevents hard, dried constipated stools. There are a lot of sophisticated ignoramuses in the medical profession who know this. It was pinpointed recently by a brilliant British surgeon after several years of study, and the general concept has been proved and published by many other fine scientists in our leading medical journals.

I'm glad you are having no problems on your regime, but that doesn't alter the fact that excess water is eliminated by the kidney and food residue by the bowel. Nor does it minimize the importance of bulk in the diet. You can drink water till the cows come home, and if there is no natural roughage in the bowel it is not going to help to moisten the food residue, but it will surely flush out the kidneys.

To learn more about this subject write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019, and ask for The Health Letter number 2-1 on colon problems anr constipation. Send a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 50 cents to cover costs.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My report from the doctor said I had a possible functional heart murmur grade one. What does this mean, and is it serious? Can anything be done to overcome it?

DEAR READER — The best thing to do is forget about it. Functional is a term used by doctors to mean there is no disease or abnormality related to a finding. Physiological would be a better term.

A murmur means a sound that occurs from the flow of blood through the heart, analogous to the term murmuring brook. If it occurs during the heart's contraction (systole) it is called a systolic murmur. When it occurs while the heart is relaxing or dilating to fill with blood (diastole) it is called a diastolic murmur.

Grade one is the faintest of murmurs, so faint that you can't hear it constantly on every examination. So, in summary you have a faint sound from blood flow while your heart is contracting that is perfectly normal.

Do doctors have romantic relations?

Do numerous psychiatrists carry on romantic activities with their lady patients? So inquires a feminine client. That happens, certainly. Still, fewer psychiatrists than general practitioners do so according to a study at the University of California School of Medicine. The obstetricians gynecologists likewise are said to be more active in this field of physical romance than are the psychiatrists.

Q. "SAYS here an Iranian is not an Arab. Then what is on Arab?"

A. Anybody whose mother tongue is Arabic. The Iranian speaks Persian.

A NEW ROMANTIC wrinkle has sprung up in Belgium. Recording studios there invite lovers to cut special records of passionate poetry and even matrimonial proposals which are to be sent to the objects of their affections. What's intriguing about it all is the records are made with a peculiar plastic which deteriorates so those hot messages no longer can be heard a year later.

CATS

What, you can't remember the names of President John F. Kennedy's two cats? Tom and Kitten. Franklin D. Roosevelt's two cats were Tom Quartz and Slippers. Calvin Coolidge's two cats were Tiger and Blackie. I don't remember the names of Abraham Lincoln's cats, and neither did Abraham Lincoln. They were numerous.

YOU SAY your color TV set only cost you $500? Don't count on that. According to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the set will also cost you $350 in repairs plus $120 worth of electricity. Should be noted, too, that your $400 refrigerator can be expected to tally up another $65 in repairs plus more than $600 for power.

SCHOLARS who study the sky say they now know that outer space contains astronomical quantities of ethyl alchohol, enough of same to put the kick into billions and billions of fifth of whiskey. Don't know that it's needed for liquor, but if it could be captured, wouldn't it make a dandy source of energy for engines?

Story of Khuon Huu Dieu

A banker one day, a refugee the next

By ROD ANGOVE
Associated Press Writer

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) — A banker one day; a shivering refugee the next. That's the story of Khuong Huu Dieu.

Dieu, 43, was written up in an American magazine recently as "the kind of Vietnamese to whom Americans point with pride."

A 1956 graduate of Lafayette College in Easton, Pa., and a 1957 graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dieu was president in Saigon of his government's Industrial Development Bank. He was also president of the Vietnam-American Association.

Now, his ill-matched clothes bought in a PX on Guam, he is refugee number 02511, Quonset hut 523295, first bunk, upper left, at the refugee area on this rolling Marine Corps camp. He seems to have lost everything but his smile.

"I had 30 minutes. I grabbed one handbag," said Dieu, displaying a weathered, black satchel.

"I looked at my house. It is my ancestral home. It repesents all my savings situation.

"But I have no guts to take anything. Not one antique. Not one clock. Because you take one thing and you take two and three, and I'm allowed only one suitcase."

Dieu and his wife were authorized to enter America with a family group sponsored by a niece, who is married to a former embassy employe.

Interviewed in a drafty hut Thursday, Dieu whipped out a letter of authorization: "Look — all the names of five nieces and nephews. Then an asterisk. Our names are at the bottom of the page beside another asterisk. We owe our lives to an asterisk."

Dieu now feels responsible for his nieces and nephews. "They saved my life, now I work for them."

But there's no job in sight. Dieu is trying to contact friends — some in the diplomatic corps — and alumni of his American colleges. "If I don't get a job, I cannot move out."

Dieu said he isn't worried. Unlike many refugees, he understands the grinding of administrative machinery. "There hasn't been time for the evacuation policy to become an implemented program," he said.

But other refugees "are worried — unnecessarily. There's no way that American policy could be to send us back to Ho Chi Minh City," he said.

Dieu has also heard certain American fears that refugees may be taking jobs that Americans could perform. "Your unemployed, they already have their houses and they have relative. We're arriving with nothing."

In addition to finding a job, Dieu said he would like to do a follow-up on the development projects his bank was financing. "I would like to know what the communists do with them," he said.

Pausing, Dieu showed the palm of his hand. "Look at my long luck line. In Asia we would say that's why I survived."

Wampum: a point of ownership

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Who can buy or sell the history of a people? To whom does it belong?

That question pits the Iroquois Indian Confederacy against the State of New York, which "owns" 26 historic wampum belts as dear to the Iroquois, they say, as the Constitution is to other Americans.

A lawsuit prepared on behalf of the Iroquois by the Advocates for the Arts, a national organization, will seek return of the wampum, now locked in a vault of the New York State Museum across from the Capitol. Once formally approved by the Iroquois tribes, the suit will be filed in U.S. District Court here. It could call into question the legal status of other collections and of cultural memorabilia in other museums.

"They are history, the process devised by the Six Nations (the Iroquois Confederacy) of continuing our government — our way of life," Chief Oren Lyons of the Onondaga tribe says of the wampum belts. "They are very important, very essential."

Wampum, a word derived from the Algonquin for string, refers to belts and woven strings of white and colored beads made from shells. The beads are arranged to form symbols and patterns that tell, in a rudimentary way, of the history, religion and culture of the Iroquois. They did not write their language.

Probably the most noteworthy item in the collection the state has is a beaded mat known as the Hiawatha belt, named after a Mohawk chief thought to have lived in central New York in the 16th Century.

Less than two feet long and just 10½-inches wide, this belt is reputed to be the official record of the unification by Hiawatha of the Mohawk, Oneida, Onondaga, Cayuga and Senaca Nations to form the Iroquois Confederacy. The Tuscarora later became the sixth nation of the league. The mat is adorned with five linked symbols signifying the original five nations.

There are 11,000 Iroquois today, most of them living on seven reservations in New York State. Many on these reservations want the wampum returned for use in religious ceremonies and other rituals still practiced by the tribes. The wampum are regarded by some Indians even today as having mystical power and special importance in ceremonies.

Most of the wampum belts in the state collection were made by the Iroquois between 1750 and 1800. They were kept by the chiefs of the Onondaga nation, who also were the traditional keepers of the council fire of the Iroquois confederacy. They also were the interpreters of the wampum designs.

In 1899, state officials convinced the Onondaga nation to elect the University of the State of New York as keeper of the wampum and wampum records. Five belts were sold to the state for storage and display in the Albany museum, and the collection has been enlarged through gifts, bequests and further purchases.

Lyons maintains that the Indians never had the right to sell or give away the belts to the state and to other collectors. In one or two cases recently, historical societies have returned wampum in their collections to the Iroquois.

"Any sale would be similar to some individual in the United States selling the Constitution," the Onondaga chief asserted. "They don't have the right to sell it. These are possessions of the state, of the Indian people."

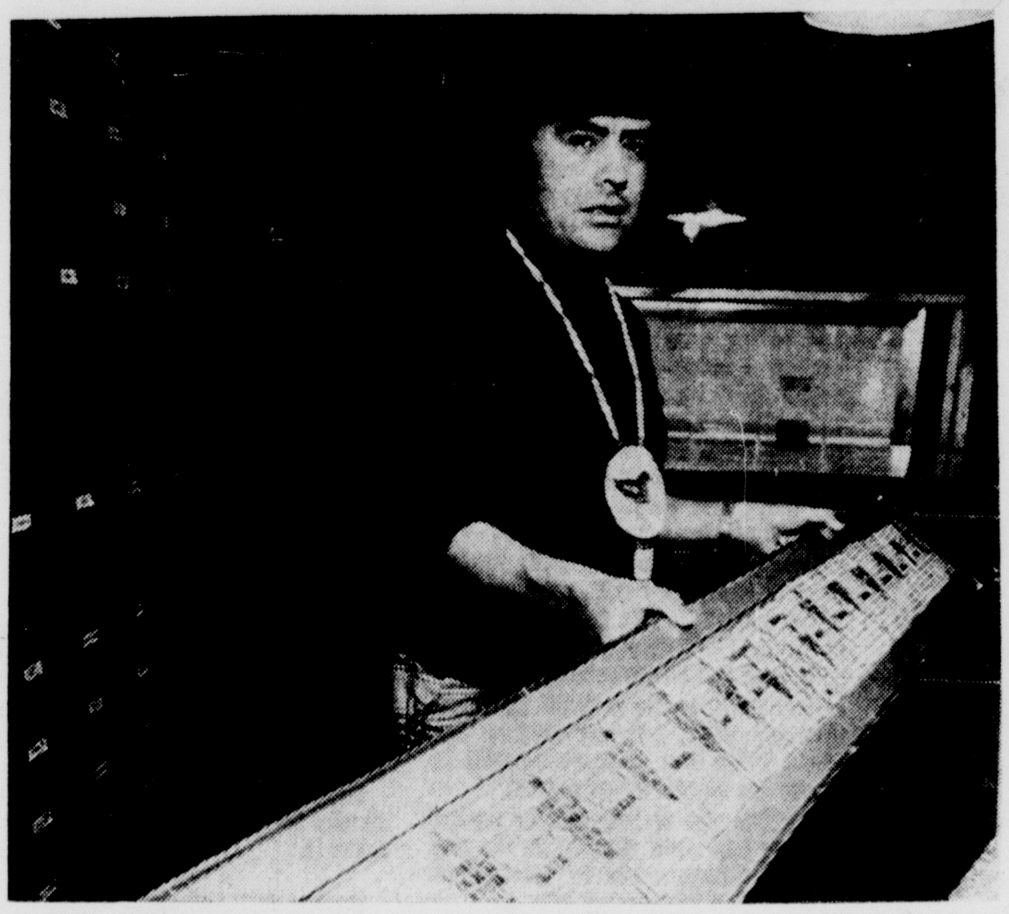
For inurance purposes, belts in the state collection have been valued at $250,000, but museum and Indian official alike say the belts actually are priceless.

Philip Tarbell, a full-blooded Mohawk who is the museum's director of Indian affairs, insists the state will not sell off parts of its collection or allow it to deteriorate. "We intend to share them with my people," Tarbell said.

The curator of the museum's Indian collections, Charles Gillette, said keeping the wampum belts and other artifacts in one collection is helpful to scholars.

"Museums are merely collecting points for these objects so they can be studied at one time," Gillette said.

The Iroquois first asked about five years ago for the return of their wampum belts. Their request is an outgrowth of the Indian Rights movement and of a desire by many of the nation's Indians to revitalize tradition.



WAMPUM BELT—Philip Tarbell, Indian culture specialist for the New York State Museum, displays Iroquois Washington Covenant wampum belt in museum vault. Iroquois Indian Confederacy is claiming ownership of this belt and 25 other historical and religious wampum belts. Case will go to federal court soon.

Miembros de la facultad del Centro de Estudios Chicano declaran huelga

Entre controversia y ruegos de padres y maestros para que no se aceptara la renuncia del Director de la Escuela Secundaria de Chino, Terry Terrill, la junta escolar decidio aceptarla el martes a la noche "con gran renuencia."

Miembros del consejo expresaron que entendian la preocupacion de los padres y maestros acerca del la renuncia de Terril, pero no tenian "mas remedio" que aceptarla.

Augustine Tapia, presidente del consejo, dijo "cuando una persona quiere irse, no la podemos forzar a que se quede. Comprendemos las emociones expresadas aqui esta noche. No fue una renuncia facil de aceptar."

Despues de una sesion privada de personal, el administrador Roy Ward declaro que la junta aceptaba la renuncia, y ordeno que se redactara una carta de recomendacion para Terril.

Tapia agrego que Terril habia manejado muy bien la "situacion racial" en la escuela, pero "las relaciones de empleador y empleado son una historia distinta." (Terril acuso a un grupo de maestros de una conducta poco profesional el lunes, y dijo que renunciaria en senal de protesta.)

Ann Harris, presidenta de la Asociacion de Padres y Maestros, presento una peticion firmada por unas treinta personas, apoyando a Terril. "Goza de exelentes relaciones con los alumnos," dijo, "y ha mantenido orden en la escuela. La violencia no ha sido problema en los ultimos dos anos."

"Me acuerdo de haber tenido que sacar a mis ninos de la escuela anteriormente a causa de los tumultos," dijo Wall Schaaf uno de los padres. "Recuerdo la planta de marijuana y la pared indestructible. Pero cuando Terril vino a la escuela hace dos anos, el terror desaparecio."

Japan's might: a pale shadow

TOKYO (AP) — Thirty years after the crushing defeat of World War II, Japan's once mighty military establishment is hobbled by inflation, public indifference, detente and doubts about its very right to exist.

Down to a mere 232,936 men — 33,000 below authorized strength — the nation's Self Defense Force is only the palest shadow of the tough, old Imperial Army of five million which conquered much of Asia and the South Pacific.

Seventy years ago Japan established itself as a military power in Asia with its victory in the Russo-Japanese war. Now it is a world power without heavy bombers, long range missiles, aircraft carriers, atom bombs or other weapons associated with offensive warfare.

One reason so puny a force is protecting a nation of 110 million is psychological, a nationwide revulsion against atomic warfare and against the militarism of the 1930s and 1940s which brought Japan close to extinction as a nation and created a country of dedicated pacifists.

The second is constitutional. Under the American-inspired 1947 constitution, Japan renounced war as a sovereign national right, and stated: "Land, sea and air forces, as well as other war potential, will never be maintined."

It is this provision which prompts many Japanese to question the right of the Self Defense Force to exist at all. It is also why Japan has joined no regional security alliances, and sent no combat soldiers overseas since 1945.

The third reason is economic. Japanes youths just out of high school have, until recently, preferred to take the examinations which put them on the economic escalator as lifetime employes of big business. Though high school graduates get a respectable salary in the new army — 58,200 yen or $194 monthly and 5.2 months of bonus pay yearly — private industry pays more. To many Japanese youths, the army is a short adventure, not a career.

A downturn in the economy has resulted in a slight increase in enrollments recently. But 20,000 men of the all-volunteer forces quit each year. The Self Defense Agency says there is no money for a concentrated enlistment drive to bridge the gap.

Finally, Japan can maintain so small any army at a bargain basement price — less than one per cent of the gross national product — because under a 25-year-old security treaty the United States guarantees to come to its assistance in case of attack.

That Japan has a military force at all is due to an anxious afterthought: the Korean War in 1950 and the Communist conquest of China the year before persuaded U.S. and Japanese leaders that Japan needed at least a nominal protective shield of its own to confront what they saw as a widening Communist threat to North Asia.

Aware of questions surrounding the birth of the defense force, successive conservative governments have adopted a low posture to gain it public acceptance. Accenting peace and its purely defensive role, they have involved it in a variety of community services from flood control to rescue work after earthquakes and typhoons.

The militaristic stigma clings to today's ground, maritime and air defense troops, self-effacing and public spirited though they are. For a time, troops were too ashamed to wear their uniforms in public. Universities refused to accept them as undergraduates. Leftwing political parties portrayed them as germs of an aborning militarism.

The problem still confronts Prime Minister Takeo Miki. In a January budget address to the Diet (parliament) he said: "Let me stress again that the Self Defense Forces will not be able to manifest their true worth as long as they remain aloof and isolated from the people."

Most Japanese discount the possibility in this different day and age that the fledgling force — there are 153,658 men in the Army, 38,196 in the Navy and 41,090 in the Air Force — contain the seed of rebellion or incident militarism.

The defense program is buffeted today by a new and unexpected enemy — inflation.

The current five-year buildup plan was budgeted for $15.4 billion. With nearly one year left to go, it has eaten up $14.3 billion and the new estimate is for a total of $20 billion.

This means that 20,000 tons of planned naval construction will have to be delayed as well as acquisition of new tanks and remodeled ground support fighter planes.

Perhaps more damaging than inflation is the sense of uncertainty that pervades the Self Defense Force itself.

"Our position today is dubious," said one soldier. "We are neither fish nor fowl. We carry out our mission almost by steaith. This has to be changed. We must become legal."

The question of the Self Defense Force's legality is in the courts. One lower court ruled that it was illegal and the appeal is pending.

Are frogs a key to evolution?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Of the many curious things about Dr. Thomas Uzzell, the most intriguing may be that he doesn't have warts.

What he does have, though, are frogs — hundreds and hundreds of frogs. He also has lots of those legendary wart-producers: toads.

Edible frogs, Russian frogs, ugly frogs — you name 'em and Uzzell, a 43-year-old scientist with a gray beard and hair down to his shoulders, has 'em.

Uzzell has traveled the globe — from the Caucasus Mountains of Russia to the jungles of Panama — in search of creatures to enshrine in his two freezers at the Academy of Natural Sciences museum here.

His prized frogs share their arctic tombs with salamanders and lizards, also objects of Uzzell's research. Uzzell's frogs, lizards and salamanders all have at least one thing in common: their unusual mating habits.

DR. UZZELL & FRIEND

He has studied a species of salamanders in which the males contribute none of their genes to the offspring. Uzzell discovered that mating acts merely as a triggering device, cueing the female's eggs to develop into offspring exactly like herself.

From the Caucasus of Russia, Uzzell brought back to Philadelphia a species of hybrid lizards that reproduces without any contact with males at all. He says scientists really don't understand how that is possible.

And in the case of a certain kind of green edible frog, males and females shun each other's amorous attentions to mate with their parents.

Recently, Uzzell was awarded a $15,000 grant from the National Science Foundation to study this special species of frog, known as the Palearctic frog. It is named after a region of Europe, northwestern Africa and Asia north of the Himalayas where it is found.

He is especially interested in the fact that the Palearctic frog is a hybrid, or a crossbreed, that may have been in existence for as long as 25,000 years. In addition, the Palearctic frog, unlike most hybrids, produces fertile offspring.

By way of explaining hybrids, he says that a cross between a human and a chimpanzee would be a hybrid. He quickly adds that moral and political considerations would probably prevent science from ever finding out whether a "humanzee" could be produced.

On a practical level, Uzzell hopes his research can further our understanding of hybrid systems. He says such research has already proved useful in crop improvement, pest control and improvement of certain species of domestic animals.

Also, by studying the evolution of hybrids, Uzzell believes he may learn something more about the evolution of man.

Zentler and Schmitt vows are exchanged

MRS. TIMOTHY ZENTLER

The Trinity United Methodist Church of Pomona was the setting for the marriage of Miss Sharon Agnes Schmitt and Timothy Walter Zentler.

The Rev. Jerry Van Houten officiated at the double-ring rites.

Daughter of Mrs. Leo Conrad Schmitt of Salt Lake City, Utah, the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Gordon R. Schmitt.

She wore a cathedral-length, candlelight gown with a lace bodice trimmed in satin. A satin headpiece held her elbow-length veil and she carried an arrangement of gardenias with stephanotis and yellow roses.

Mrs. Cora Ann Schmitt was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sharon Roberts, Mrs. Angelina Alvo and Mrs. Nova Smith.

Stephanie Schmitt was flower girl.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zentler of Upland, chose Robert Smith as his best man. Ushers were Jan Zentler, Ronald Schmitt and Bruce Roberts.

The newlyweds greeted guests during a reception in the church social hall.

After a honeymoon in Utah, Nevada, Arizona and California, Mr. and Mrs. Zentler will reside in Upland.

Right and wrong way

Lifting can be problem

America has a big and costly back problem, according to statistics compiled by safety groups, medical associations and insurance companies.

The National Safety Council says, for example, that back injuries account for 27 per cent of all disabling injuries — and they are responsible for 38 per cent of the medical costs for disabled persons.

"There simply isn't one major cause of back injuries," says Dr. A. E. Hertzler Knox, medical director of The Hartford Insurance Group, which paid out more than $50 million for back injuries alone in worker's compensation cases in 1974.

Three of the most common reasons — drawn from studies of more than 80,000 worker's compensation cases — involve a twisting lift, once that stretches the human trunk because of over-reach and one performed with a sideways bend.

Because everyone's physical conditioning varies, there are no fail-safe ways to reduce back injuries from heavy lifting, Dr. Knox says.

He likens a person lifting an object to a suspension bridge standing on end. "Neither has very much strength," he says.

"The human back is not designed for heavy lifting. If people moved on all fours the way some of our ancestors did, they could put most objects on their backs and there would be enough support," he notes.

"But for modern man, the first consideration, when facing a heavy object, is to ask yourself if it really must be lifted. If it absolutely must, you should see if you can't find a way to pick it up with the help of mechanical equipment," he suggests.

If a person must lift an object by himself, Dr. Knox says, there are right ways — and wrong ways — to do it. The old rule of "back straight, push with the legs," isn't enough, Dr. Knox maintains. He supports the National Safety Council's recommendations which are to: part the feet, with one foot alongside the object being lifted and one behind; use the sit-down position and keep the back straight, but not necessarily vertical; tuck in the chin to keep the neck and head in a straight line; extend the fingers and hand around the object and use the full palm; tuck the arms and elbows into the side of the body to draw the load close; and center the weight of the body over the feet.

Foolish Pleasure takes the Derby

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Foolish Pleasure pounded from far off the pace, aided perhaps by a bumping incident in the stretch, and won the 101st Kentucky Derby Saturday in a race that fooled even the track announcer.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker, aboard second-finishing Avatar, didn't think his stretch bump with third-place Diabolo affected the outcome, but Foolish Pleasure's trainer, LeRoy Jolley, said "it certainly didn't hurt any."

Foolish Pleasure, who led only four horses in the 15-horse field after the first quartermile, was 1¾ lengths in front at the wire in the 1¼-mile Derby.

"I think he should be accepted as a great horse," his owner, John L. Greer, said, adding that there is no doubt that his What a Pleasure colt is bound for Baltimore and the Preakness Stakes in quest of a Triple Crown.

"Anybody who says he doesn't want to win the Triple Crown is a damn fool," the 76-year-old Knoxville, Tenn., baking and banking executive said.

Although Jolley felt the bumping between Avatar and Diabolo might have helped Foolish Pleasure's chances, Shoemaker said his mount simply "got beat by a better horse."

"The way that winner blew by, I don't think we were going to beat him anyway, but that incident certainly didn't help him," Shoemaker said, saying that Diabolo lugged in "and he hit my horse in the behind and turned him out."

A stewards' inquiry showed Diabolo at fault in the bumping so the order of finish was not changed.

The swift move by Foolish Pleasure caught track announcer Chick Anderson, whose call was carried in the national (ABC) telecast, by surprise as well.

Within minutes after the race, Jolley was already talking about the Preakness, set for May 17 at Pimlico. "The Preakness won't be any tougher than this," he said.

"Each step up the ladder, he (Foolish Pleasure) has been questioned, but he has done it over different distances, conditions and race tracks. Whatever the others can do, he can do just a little better," Jolley said.

Foolish Pleasure had won 10 of his 11 races before the Derby and Jolley was referring to numerous published reports quoting other trainers and trackside hardboots as saying the colt couldn't run the Derby distance of 1¼ miles.

He did, however, in 2:02, slightly more than two seconds slower than the record set in 1973 by Secretariat, who went on to win the Triple Crown for the first time in a quarter of a century.

Diabolo came out of the bumping incident with a cut on the left front leg. However, his handlers described it as superficial, although blood could be seen through bandages that were applied in his barn.

In winning the 101st Derby, Foolish Pleasure overcame a Flamingo-Wood Memorial hex that had seen five others who were victorious in those important Derby preps fail to score when they came to Churchill Downs for America's favorite horse race.

Nashua, in 1955, did the best of the bunch, finishing second in the Derby. Stir Up was third in 1944 and the others weren't even in the money.

The Flamingo and Wood were only two of Foolish Pleasure's nine stakes victories along the trail to the Derby. He won all seven of his races last year, six of them added money events.

The only loss of his career came in the March 29 Florida Derby, where both Prince Thou Art and Sylvan Place beat him to the wire. But in that race, he suffered cut frogs in both front feet.

The frogs, which act like shock absorbers in horses' feet, healed quickly and within three weeks, he was back into the racing wars and winning the Wood in a spectacular stretch move.

Avatar, Arthur A. Seeligson Jr.'s Santa Anita Derby winner, finished 2 1-2 lengths in front of Diabolo, the California Derby winner in track record time, while Master Derby was fourth.

Elmendorf Farm's Media, the youngest colt in the 15-horse field by the calendar and with only four previous races in his life, was fifth, 3¼ lengths in front of John W. Galbreath's Prince Thou Art.

Behind them, in order, were Promised City, Bold Chapeau, Sylvan Place, Fashion Sale, Round Stake, Gatch, Honey Mark, Rushing Man and Bombay Duck.

The finish for Bombay Duck and Rushing Man was just exactly the opposite of the start of the race, where Bombay Duck set the pace with Rushing Man stalking him in second position.

Vasquez, who was 10th with Wil Rad 11 years ago, was scoring his first Derby victory as Foolish Pleasure paid $5.80, $4.40 and $3.60. Avatar, sixth choice in the betting, paid $9.20 and $5.60 and Diabolo returned $4.40.

THE SCENE AT THE FINISH

This is the way the horses stood as Foolish Pleasure crossed the finish line at Churchill Downs Saturday to win the 101st Kentucky Derby. Avatar finished second and Diabolo third.

Announcer's mistake had jocks baffled

LOUISVILLE (AP) — It was his first mistake in 16 years of track announcing for Churchill Downs, but Chick Anderson was philosophical.

For half the Kentucky Derby race, Anderson had Prince Thou Art in the lead instead of Foolish Pleasure, who won it.

Anderson corrected himself just at the finish line.

"The thing about being an announcer is that you have to live with what you do, right or wrong," Anderson said afterwards. "I'm prepared to live with it."

Several jockeys said they heard the wrong call but that it had no effect on how they rode.

Braulio Baeza, who was aboard Prince Thou Art, said in the dressing room later that he could hear the announcer saying that his mount was moving into the lead.

"It confused me," he said. "I knew I wasn't going anywhere. I was never in the race."

The veteran Bill Shoemaker, aboard Avatar, said he didn't know Foolish Pleasure had won the race until he got to the locker room.

"I though Prince Thou Art had won it," he said. "All I saw was this horse buzzing past me. I didn't know which one it was."

Jacinto Vasquez, who rode the winner, said he also heard the announcer calling Prince Thou Art's name.

"I was just looking ahead at the wire," he said. "I knew nobody could catch me."

Anderson, 42, said he began making the wrong call at the half-mile point of the 1¼-mile classic.

For the last half-mile of the Kentucky Derby race, Anderson had Prince Thou Art confused with Foolish Pleasure, who won it.

The situation was not helped by the fact that a restive infield crowd broke down the fence on the far side of Anderson's view and unnerved him somewhat as it pushed towards the track.

The weather was no help, either. In the gathering gloom, as rain threatened, Anderson confused Foolish Pleasure's black-and-white silks and Prince Thou Art's brown-and-tan colors.

LEADING THE PACK

S.D. stops Dodgers in 15 innings, 3-1

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fred Kendall's forceout grounder delivered one run and another came home on an error as the San Diego Padres scored twice in the 15th inning to beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-1 Saturday night.

Steve Huntz singled to open the rally and moved to second base when John Grubb bunted for a base hit. After Dave Winfield popped out, Mike Ivie got an infield hit to load the bases.

Kendall then forced Ivie at second, Huntz scoring with the go-ahead run. When second baseman Lee Lacy's relay to first went into the dirt, Grubb came in with an insurance run.

Steve Yeager's home run in the eighth inning off Joe McIntosh pulled the Dodgers into a 1-1 tie.

Until that point, McIntosh had shut the Dodgers out on three hits. The 23-year-old righthander had allowed only one runner to each third as he struck out seven through the first seven innings.

San Diego got the game's first run in the top of the sixth when Andy Messersmith walked Huntz to lead off the inning. Grubb singled Huntz to third and Winfield brought him home with a sacrifice fly, ending Messersmith's consecutive scoreless string at 13 1-3 innings.

San Diego had runners aboard early against Dodger starter Andy Messersmith but failed to score.

In the first Bobby Tolan beat out a single to lead off the game. After Huntz flied out, Grubb grounded out to first baseman Steve Garvey, with Tolan taking second. But he was stranded as Winfield also grounded out.

In the second inning Kendall doubled over Jim Wynn's head in left field after one out. But Messersmith struck out Tito Fuentes and got Enzo Hernandez to ground out.

After going out in order in the third the Padres threatened mildly in the fourth. Grubb singled to lead off the inning but was forced at second by Winfield who was robbed of an extra-base hit by third baseman Ron Cey. Willie McCovey grounded out, Winfield going to second on the play. Kendall then walked but the two runners were stranded when Fuentes grounded out.

The Dodgers' biggest early chance came in the fourth inning. Lacy opened with a single. After Wynn flied out and Garvey lined out, Lacy stole second and went to third when Kendall's throw to second was wild for an error. But he was left on third when Willie Crawford lined sharply to Hernandez at shortstop.

C-M Stags win SCIAC crown

By MARK GRIP
P-B Correspondent

Claremont-Mudd used a potent hitting attack and Joe Maiberger's four-hitter to sweep an important doubleheader from Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference foe Whittier, 19-9 and 12-0, and win the conference title with a final 14-4 record.

The Stag sweep combined with La Verne and Occidental's split in their twinbills, gave C-M the title.

Both La Verne and Occidental dropped their second games by scores of 7-5 and 8-6 respectively. La Verne lost to Redlands and Oxy lost to Pomona-Pitzer. The best the two teams can do with three games remaining is tie for second.

All three teams went into Saturday's games tied in the loss column with Claremont-Mudd, having played and won three more games, atop the SCIAC standings.

After winning the high-scoring first game, C-M came back in the nightcap behind the complete game pitching performance of Maiberger. The first game saw seven home runs and the second saw six doubles.

Both teams duplicated each other in the first scoring four runs on four apiece hits via four two-run homers. Whittier's Ray Sheffield and Ralph Lemon hit the round-trippers, and for the Stags it was Jon Begerow and Steve Lopez hitting them out.

The Poets were stifled by winning pitcher Norm Richards for the next three innings while the Stags were piling up 13 runs for a 17-4 lead after four innings of play.

Ten of those 13 runs came in the fourth inning when the Stags capitalized on six hits and three Poet errors to ice the victory for starter Richards (7-2). Phil Roddy was the loser.

Whittier came back with three in the fifth and two in the sixth and C-M scored two in the fifth to finish the scoring.

Maiberger allowed only one runner to reach third while upping his record with the shutout to 9-4 in conference play.

Claremont-Mudd started scoring with two runs, then went on to score three in the third and fifth innings and a pair in the seventh and eighth inning.

Before the day was over Claremont-Mudd had compiled an impressive group of offensive statistics. The Stags scored a total of 31 runs, and collected 32 hits. Of those 32 hits 13 were for extra bases.

Angels snap Rangers' win streak, 4-2

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Mickey Rivers' two-run single highlighted five consecutive California hits in a four-run, fifth-inning Saturday night and the Angels defeated the Texas Rangers 4-2.

Nolan Ryan, 5-1, beat the Rangers with relief help from Dick Lange, snapping a six-game Texas winning streak in the process.

Ryan exited in the seventh inning after surrendering a hit to Roy Smalley. Jim Sundberg greeted Lange with a hit but rookie Smalley was picked off second to end the threat. Jim Spencer then grounded into a double play.

The Rangers touched Ryan for a run in the fourth after two out. Jeff Burroughs and Mike Hargrove walked and Roy Howell singled home Burroughs.

The Angels bombed Texas starter Jackie Brown in the fifth. A double by Morris Nettles produced one run before Rivers' big hit. Bruce Bochte then capped the rally with a run-scoring single.

Texas collected a gift run off Ryan in the sixth on consecutive errors by Angel shortstop Orlando Ramirez. Howell singled home the run.

Ryan, who had missed a turn because of a sore tendon in his arm, was his usual fastballing self, striking out nine. A bat night crowd of 37,625 fans—third largest in Ranger history—watched the game.

Rivers had a perfect night with three singles and a walk. Ellie Rodriguez singled once and walked three times.

Rodriguez suffered an ankle injury on a pickoff play in the ninth inning and was carried from the field on a stretcher. The extent of the injury was not immediately determined.

Lange pitched three superb innings of relief, allowing just one hit in gaining his first save of the season.

Brown, who was sent to the showers in the big Angel fifth inning, was saddled with his second loss in three decisions. Ranger reliever Jim Umbarger was equally as strong as Lange, allowing no hits in four and one-third innings.

MSAC, Cerritos still tied in SCC

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

Mt. San Antonio College righthander Larry Pekarcik will get the nod Tuesday when MSAC hosts San Diego Mesa in a key South Coast Conference baseball game as the season winds down to a climax.

The former Damien High star, who is 7-3 for season with a team leading 97 strikeouts to his credit, has blanked Mesa twice this season, giving up a total of five hits while fanning 25 batters. Mesa, 11-6, is 1½ games off the pace going into the game.

The South Coast title hinges on each game following Saturday's results which left MSAC and Cerritos tied for the lead. The Mounties pounded Orange Coast, 9-0, while Cerritos beat Santa Ana, 6-2. Mesa and Fullerton split a twinbill. Fullerton won the first game 13-3 and Mesa took the second, 3-2.

The Mounties and the Falcons share the lead with 13-5 records and both have two games left on the schedule. While MSAC hosts Mesa Tuesday, Cerritos visits Orange Coast. Thursday wraps it up for the leaders as Cerritos visits Fullerton and MSAC replays a game with Santa Ana from the seventh inning, leading 1-0.

The Mounties, who have been in some close, controversial contests in the last couple of weeks, made sure early against Orange Coast Saturday.

While three MSAC hurlers kept the lid on, Mountie bats stung loser Dave Shattles for 14 hits and a scoring binge through the first four innings.

Ron Roenicke led the attack with two hits and three runs batted in three trips to the plate.

Righthander Terry Jacob ran his record to 9-1 by starting and going five innings before Ralph Beltran relieved him in the sixth and Chuck Belk came on in the ninth.

It was a cakewalk for the Mounties. They scored eight times in the first four frames and added a single tally in the bottom of the seventh.

Even then, it could have been worse. MSAC left 11 runners stranded. Orange Coast left seven base runners.

For the year, Coach Art Mazmanian's club is 26-8, only two victories shy of last year's record 28-8 season.

In 1974, the Mounties finished second to Cerritos, dropping all four meetings between the two teams.

With a 2-2 split with the three-time defending South Coast champions, the Mounties have made a race of it down to the wire this season.

Besides sharing first place in the standings as the season winds down, the Mounties also share second place with the 27-7 Falcons in the state junior college ratings.

Chabot College of Hayward leads the ratings with an incredible 30-1 record. MSAC and Cerrits are second and another northern team, Fresno, is fourth in the poll.

The Mounties have faced eight of the top 10 teams in 18 games this season. They will have played a total of 36 regular season games when the season concludes Thursday.

Rams sign ND's Mike Fanning

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Mike Fanning, a defensive tackle from Notre Dame, came to terms Saturday with the Los Angeles Rams, signing a multi-year contract with the National Football League team, a team spokesman said.

Fanning, Los Angeles' No. 1 draft choice, signed just one day after the Rams' third first-round pick Doug France of Ohio State signed a multi-year pact.

Montclair school wins 19 events

Buena Vista School of Montclair had 19 first place winners at the area Special Olympics meet held at Chaffey College.

Winning their races in the 50-yard dash were Eva Chacon, Jerry Harris, Tina Berg, Earleen Polhomus, Jeanne Thomas, Stuart Felt, Donny Hall, Betty Whitney, Chris Maunu, Lynn Ryburn, Shawn Drummond, Steve Schoenberger and Judy Szucks.

Standing long jump winners were Harris, Szucks, Theresa Ogg, Schoenberger and Maunu. Softball throw winners were Tammy Meisner, Jimmy Gutierrez and David Wong.

UCLA 'Banks' another crown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Excitable freshman Willie Banks exploded in the long jump and triple jump Saturday, catapulting UCLA to the national collegiate dual meet championship with a thrilling 75-70 triumph over Southern California for the Bruins' 35th consecutive victory.

The 19-year-old Banks stunned Olympic champion Randy Williams and NCAA champion Jerry Herndon with a 26-2¼ long jump to open the meet. The mark was wind-aided but was enough to defeat teammate Herndon and USC's Williams in that order.

With UCLA needing a victory in the event prior to the mile relay, Banks — on his final jump of the competition — leaped to a school record 55-1, clinching for UCLA one of the great dual meets in history.

Earlier, the Trojans got a huge psychological lift when Ken Randle defeated UCLA's Benny Brown in the 440 with the fastest time in the world this year, 45.1.

USC also, as expected, captured the 100 and 220 as James Gilkes swept to 9.3 and 20.4 victories. After his 440 defeat, Brown came back to grab second at 20.6 in the 220 for crucial points.

Mike Tully, the Bruins' improving freshman, cleared 17-10 to win the pole vault and set a world junior record for the fifth time this year, but USC offset that triumph when Tom Andrews handed Linnsey Guerrero his first dual meet loss in the intermediate hurdles in the fast time of 50.2.

Banks was in third place in the triple jump with one attempt remaining when he stunned a capacity crowd of 15,069 by roaring into the pit to beat USC's Don Bryson and Tom Cochee, who had led.

That meant that UCLA did not need the mile relay points, and USC, heavily favored in that event, set a school record of 3:07.2 in winning handily.

Almost as an anticlimax, UCLA's versatile Rory Kotinek set a school record in the high jump of 7-3¼ after winning the javelin at 226-10.

Aztecs down St. Louis for third straight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Julie Veee and Doug McMillan did the scoring and the Los Angeles defense did the rest as the defending North American Soccer League champion Aztecs won their third game of the season Saturday night over St. Louis 2-0.

Veee scored in the fifth minute on a 23-yard unassisted shot from in front of the St. Louis goal. McMillan, coming off knee surgery, started his first game of the season and booted one in from the left side in the 35th minute.

The Aztecs' goalie, Gary Allison, turned back 13 shots to record his second consecutive shutout. The Los Angeles defense has now permitted just one goal in three games.

The Aztecs lost their team captain, Michael Ferguson, with a thigh injury midway in the second half, but had the game well in hand by then.

Cycle rider dies in Ascot crash

GARDENA (AP) — A 30-year-old motorcycle racer has died from injuries suffered in a four-cycle crash in the main event at Ascot Park, track officials said today.

Herschel "Dewayne" Keeter of Oak View died at Harbor General Hospital several hours after the Friday night crash, officials said.

The crash occurred about 20 feet short of the finish line in the main event. Bikes driven by Keeter, Ron Powell of Quartz Hill, and two other riders collided, officials said.

B. Crampton takes Houston lead by one

HOUSTON (AP) — Bruce Crampton, a steady tour veteran from Australia, came from three strokes off the pace with a 66, swept past struggling Lee Trevino and assumed a one-shot lead Saturday in the third round of the $150,000 Houston Open Golf Tournament.

Crampton, who presents a dour, grim-faced appearance on the course, put together a 54-hole total of 204, 12 under par for three trips in hot, muggy weather over the 6,929-yard Woodlands Country Club course.

But Crampton, in his 19th season on the American tour, refused to get excited over his first lead in two seasons.

"I didn't even know I was leading the golf tournament until I finished my round and took a look at the scoreboard," Crampton said. And he had no predictions for today's final round.

"Golf is a very unpredictable game," he said. "Anything can happen and they don't write the checks until tomorrow night.

Crampton, the winner of this title, three other tournaments and the coveted Vardon Trophy in 1973, owned a one-stroke advantage over Dr. Gil Morgan going into the last round of this chase for a $30,000 first prize.

Morgan, a graduate optometrist in his second year as a touring pro, had a 67 for 205.

"One of the best putting rounds I've ever had," said Morgan, who converted four birdies from about 15 feet. He hasn't finished higher than fifth in his brief pro career.

John Schroeder came on to take third with a 67 and a 208 total while Trevino dropped back into a tie for fourth with Eddie Pearce at 208. Pearce had a 71 and Trevino, who led by two strokes starting the day's play, blew to a 73.

Olson may sign with Calgary

CALGARY, B.C. (AP) — The Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League are close to signing Phil Olson, a veteran National Football League lineman, a radio station reported Saturday.

Olson, who has played every exhibition and league game with the Los Angeles Rams since he was their first draft choice four years ago, will meet with Calgary officials next week, the broadcast said.

Sports news in brief

FRANCORCHAMPS, Belgium (AP) — Alfa Romeos, piloted by France's Henri Pescarolo, Italy's Arturo Merzario, Belgium's Jackie Ickx and Britain's Derek Bell, are considered the heavy favorites for today's Francorchamps 1,000-kilometer auto race, the fifth event of the season counting towards the world auto makers championship.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Kenya's Ben Jipcho thinks that pro track crowds should have exciting finishes. He gave them two in winning the mile and two-mile at an International Track Association meet Saturday.

Jipcho, a stocky, goateed runner with awesome strength and stamina, was looking over his shoulder during the last lap of each race as he stretched his pro victory skein to 15 races and picked up $3,000 for his afternoon's work.

His time in the two-mile was 8 minutes, 30.8 seconds, beating Australia's Tony Benson by five yards. In the mile, two hours later, he clocked 3:57.6 and won by about seven yards over Ken Swenson.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Willie Lanier is not done with the football wars after all, thanks to a persistent Paul Wiggin, the new field general of the Kansas City Chiefs.

The Chiefs lured Lanier out of retirement Saturday with a three-year contract described as "six figures a year," so he'll be back in there next season playing middle linebacker as he always has—all over the field.

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Two drivers from Jacksonville, Fla., Peter Gregg and Hurley Haywood, are just 1½ points apart in a battle for the driving lead in the GT Challenge Series going into today's race at Laguna Seca Raceway.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Light rain Saturday postponed the start of practice for the May 25 Indianapolis 500. The opening was rescheduled for 11 a.m. today.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets acquired infielder Mike Phillips on waivers from the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

In 10 games with the Giants, Phillips was batting .194 with six singles in 31 at-bats.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco Giants infielder Mike Phillips was sent to Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League on waivers Saturday. Glenn Adams, an outfielder, was promoted from the PCL club.

Adams, 27, is a former Houston farmhand who batted .352 in 127 games with Phoenix last season and was off to a .292 start through 18 games this year.

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League announced Saturday the signing of Chuck Zapiec, a former linebacker from Penn State University.

Zapiec, 6-foot-2, 220 pounds, was an instrumental cog in the Alouettes rise to the CFL's Grey Cup championship last year.

Leos dethroned by Redlands, 7-5

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

La Verne College was officially dethroned as reigning SCIAC champion Saturday. But the Leopards still should finish second and get into the playoffs.

Visting Redlands came back to win the second game of a twinbill 7-5 after La Verne had rallied to win the first game, 10-7.

Tuesday's games

Whittier at Pomona-Pitzer, 3 p.m.
Occidental at Redlands, 3 p.m.

The Leos (10-5) cannot catch Claremont-Mudd which finished its season Saturday with a 14-4 conference record. But they remain tied with Oxy which also split its two games with Pomona-Pitzer.

While Oxy (10-5) is playing Redlands (8-7) next week, La Verne has only Caltech (1-14) to play. Since the Leopards won two of three from Oxy in league play, the Leos will get the nod if only the first and second place teams go to the NAIA playoffs.

Even so, losing the SCIAC title for the first time since getting back in the conference in the 1971-72 season was a bitter disappointment for La Verne coach Ben Hines.

"We didn't play well today,' Hines said quietly. "We didn't pitch up to our ability and we didn't execute. If you expect to win the championship you have to do all those things. This doubleheader was our season."

The Leopards were lucky to win the first game after giving up five unearned runs in the second inning. They were trailing 7-2 when they came to bat in the fifth inning of a seven-inning game.

Wayne Redfern walked and Mike Pagnotta slammed a pinch-hit home run to narrow it to 7-4. In the sixth, a double by Nick Leyva, Dan Graham's single and Ralph Valadez' homer tied the score.

Dan Quisenberry (9-6) held Redlands in the seventh and La Verne won it as the fans kept up their stacatto clapping.

Pat Proulx beat out an infield hit. Jim Sherman reached base on an error. Dave Bryant relieved Mike Savage and got Paul Fleming to fly out and fanned Valadez. But Graham cracked a home run, his sixth, over the right field fence for a 10-7 victory.

In the nightcap, the Leos presented Tim Kelly (6-6) with 2-0 and 3-1 leads. But the Bullodgs tied it in the third on an infield lhit and Mike Fulmer's home run.

Redlands took a 5-3 lead in the sixth on back to back doubles by Art Salyeson and Fulmer plus Oakley Wright's single. The Leopards tied it in the seventh on singles by Bill Stark, Fleming, Leyva and Valadez.

Kelly retired the first two batters in the eighth easily. But Randy Pitts slammed a homer. Kelly walked Wright who stole second and scored on a single by Andre Szabo.

APC splits two games with SCC

Azusa Pacific split a doubleheader at Southern California College in Costa Mesa Saturday, dropping the first game, 5-0, and winning the second contest, 3-1.

The split gives the Cougars an 11-7 record in the Southern Division of the NAIA District III and 23-18 overall with a chance to make the district playoffs pending the outcome of games this week. APC visits Cal Baptist Tuesday, hosts Chapman Thursday and plays a doubleheader at UC San Diego next Saturday.

RCC gains playoffs

Citrus falls, 4-3

Riverside claimed second place in the Northern Division of the Mission Conference Saturday afternoon with a 4-3 decision over chamcion Citrus to gain a conference playoff berth.

While RCC was beating Citrus, Grossmont swept a doubleheader from Saddleback, 5-0 and 8-5, to gain second place behind Southern Division titlist San Diego City College.

The Mission Conference playoffs begins next Thursday. Citrus (17-5) will host Grossmont and San Diego (15-7) will host RCC (14-7). Both games begin at 2:30 p.m. The winners meet Saturday for the Mission Conference championship and a berth in the Southern California tournament.

In one other Northern Division game reported Saturday, third place Chaffey pounded San Bernardino, 11-0, on 21 hits.

Citrus' overall record went to 28-8 with the loss to RCC which won the game Saturday on an infield single by Rick Miller with the bases full.

The Owls jumped to a 3-2 lead after the first inning as Dave Hostetler belted a three-run homer, his eighth of the season, giving him a second record 40 RBI. He was three for four at the plate for the afternoon.

Larry Jones and Brian Francisco each had four hits in four trips to the plate for Chaffey. Francisco drove in three runs and Jones knocked in two. Jay Myers was three for five with three RBI. The season-ending victory gives the Panthers a 24-11-1 record overall, 13-9 in conference play.

Nets G.M. to lead ABA?

DETROIT (AP) — Dave DeBusschere, general manager of the New York Nets, soon will be named commissioner of the American Basketball Association, the Detroit News said Thursday.

DeBusschere, 34, retired as an active player in the National Basketball Association at the end of the 1974 season. He has completed the first year of a 10-year contract as GM of the ABA's Nets.

The News said the Nets are expected to release DeBusschere so he can accept the ABA offer. His salary now reportedly is $75,000 a year.

The newspaper said DeBusschere, who played for the Detroit Pistons and New York Knicks in the NBA, would neither confirm nor deny the report.

DeBusschere has been quoted as saying he is 80-90 per cent opposed to taking the commissioner's job. Contacted at the ABA office where he was attending a meeting, the Nets' GM said his position remained unchanged.

'Hens stun Oxy, 8-6, to gain a split

For the second time in two weeks, Pomona-Pitzer pulled off an upset of a leading contender for the SCIAC baseball title.

The Sagehens, after sustaining a 21-11 lashing by Occidental in the first game, came back to beat the Tigers, 8-6, in the second game of Saturday's doubleheader and give neighboring C-M the championship as both Oxy and La Verne were eliminated.

It was just two weeks ago that the 'Hens stunned Claremont-Mudd, 8-7, after the Stags had won the first game, 15-8.

Oxy (10-5) had 22 hits in the opener and the Sagehens (4-11) helped the Tigers by committing 5 errors. In the second, Oxy took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on two hits, a walk and three more P-P errors and it looked like more of the same.

But the 'Hens tightened their defenses the rest of the way. Nick Dialynas made two sensational catches in center field.

The Sagehens tied the score in the second on a bases-loaded single by mark Smith and a wild throw on a pick off attempt by Oxy catcher John DeSantis.

Pomona-Pitzer took a 6-2 lead in the fifth. Marty McKenzie drew a one-out walk and scored on Biff Sherman's double. Chris and Nick Dialynas both singled and worked a double steal. After Jim Dembowski struck out, Mark Smith singled in the last two runs.

Oxy scored twice in the sixth on three hits and the final P-P error. But the 'Hens got them back in the seventh on a walk and stolen base by Nick Dialynas, singles by Smith and Kim Aguirre and Greg Holden's pinch single.

Bland wins high jump, triple jump

Hornets top MSAC in finals

By MIKE BROSSART
P-B Correspondent

Stan Bland of Mt. San Antonio College set a conference record in the triple jump and earned a double with a win in the long jump, but the Mounties finished second to Fullerton in the South Coast Conference track finals held Saturday afternoon at Orange Coast.

In spite of six first-place finishes—two more than Fullerton's total — the Mounties could not overcome the tremendous depth of the Hornets, who downed the team from Walnut, 137-127½. Orange Coast was third at 93.

MSAC, which beat Fullerton, 75-70, in dual meet competition, saw 17 of its competitors qualify for the Southern California track prelims, to be held Friday, May 16 at Bakersfield College. Defending state champion Fullerton led in that department also, with 21 individual qualifiers. In addition, each team will send both its relay teams to the prelims.

Bland's triple jump of 48-¼ broke the old SCC mark by ¾ inch. His long jump of 23-2½ completed a double, one of only two for the meet. The other double winner was Joe Moretti of Fullerton, who won the shot put and discus.

As usual, the Mounties scored well in the hurdle events. Andre Hall (14.5), Dwight Owens (14.7) and Charles Stewart (14.8) swept the top three places in the 120 highs, and Owens came back to win the 440 intermediates in 54.5.

MSAC's Kevin French topped the conference's pole vaulters at 14-6, while Vic Glover won the javelin at 198-10. Glover's best effort Saturday was actually 175-2, but he captured the event on the basis of his qualifying score at the prelims Wednesday.

Glover also took fourth place in the long jump at 22-7¼, while Ehricke Scott placed second in the triple jump at 46-10.

MSAC took second in both relay races. Mesa's mile relay team (3:16.9) nipped the Mountie quartet of Steve Simmons, Dave Kellogg, Don Reeves and Willie Davis (3:18.2), while both squads bettered the old conference record of 3:18.4.

Mountie sprinters Ownes, Ricky Jackson, John Houston and Steve Lebovitz finished second to Santa Ana in the 440 rleay. Both teams ran the event in 42.4.

Other MSAC qualifiers for the Southern California prelims were Lebovitz (100), Jackson (220), Davis and Houston (440), Stewart and Guy Stivers (440 intermediate hurdles) and Archie Childers (high jump).

Seals to lose their captain

OAKLAND (AP) — The California Golden Seals, a hockey team in transition, may be losing their captain and top scorer of last season, Joey Johnston.

"It's best that I move on," feels Johnston, the left wing who has asked the Seals to trade him and plans to sell the house he owns in this area.

The National Hockey League approved on Wednesday the proposed sale of the Seals to a group headed by San Francisco realtor Mel Swig. The league will retain control of the franchise until May 30, when the sale is scheduled to be completed.

"Naturally, we won't do anything that doesn't have Mr. Swig's concurrence," NHL President Clarence Campbell said.

Cal Poly stays alive in CCAA with a split

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Correspondent

Cal Poly Pomona kept its hopes for a California Collegiate Athletic Association title alive Saturday by salvaging a doubleheader split with rival Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo.

After SLO had blanked the Broncos 6-0 in the opener, righthander Vic Bernal limited the powerful Mustang attack to only six hits to post a 3-1 Pomona victory in the nightcap.

With the split Poly Pomona now stands at 5-8 in CCAA games, while SLO is 7-8. League leaders UC Riverside and Cal State Northridge both had five losses going into Saturday's action.

The Broncos missed all kinds of scoring chances in the first game Saturday, as Mustang hurlers Dave Pencille and Bud Papadakis left 15 Pomona runners stranded.

Pencille picked up the victory, his fifth in as many decisions. But the freshman was anything but impressive, walking no less than 10 Bronco batters before being replaced by Papadakis in the seventh.

Papadakis preserved the shutout by fanning three Pomona batters in two and two-thirds innings of relief hurling.

Meanwhile, SLO got all the runs it needed by touching up Bronco pitchers Tom Rosenstein and Nick Lusic for five runs on five hits in the fourth inning. Key hit of the frame was a misjudged flyball off the bat of Terry Ruggles which went for a two-run triple to ignite the SLO rally.

The Broncs came back to nab the nightcap win behind the gutsy pitching of Bernal and some clutch hitting against Mustang ace Bruce Freeberg.

Bernal fanned eight SLO batters in the seven-inning contest, using his strikeout pitch to bail out of several threatening situations.

Bernal's only bad inning was the fourth, when he surrendered a double and three walks good for a run. However, he bore down to fan cleanup hitter Scott Wilson with the sacks full to end the frame.

The win was Bernal's second of the week and his fourth of the year against seven losses. It was the fourth straight time he had beaten SLO. The second-game loss went to Freeberg, now 6-3 on the season.

RBI singles by Steve Thompson and Clary Harris coupled with a successful first-and-third steal attempt netted the Broncos the three runs they needed in Saturday's nightcap.

Congress: with space to waste; solons want more

New monument to selves will cost us $200 million

Rep. R. F. SIKES, D-Fla., strolls through his neighborhood of historic homes adjacent to Capitol Hill. Sikes lives in one of the well kept townhouses which would cost taxpayers $22.5 million to buy and raze if the House of Representatives decides to build a new monument to itself there.

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the FBI moves into the government's newest and most expensive office building, the House of Representatives is laying plans to regain that title with a structure that could cost taxpayers $200 million or more.

The first step of the proposal, backed by the leadership of both parties and now pending before the legislative appropriations subcommittee, is to buy up and flatten an historic neighborhood of 100 Victorian townhouses near the Capitol. That alone would cost $22.5 million.

Once the bulldozers and wrecking balls are finished, something huge — and nobody knows quite what — would be built for another $169 million, five times the price of the Houston Astrodome, in an effort to relieve the cramps brought on by burgeoning congressional staffs. Additional millions would be spent on planning fees, furnishings and a subway to the Capitol.

Beyond that, the details, and indeed the rationale, for a fourth House office building are about as murky as day-old coffee and even harder for local residents to choke down. Even though the condemnation process is underway, not one line has been sketched on a drawing board.

"To let one of the homes on New Jersey Avenue be destroyed without any assessment of the real need, without any idea of what will replace it, is an action of irresponsibility bordering on vandalism," declared Milton Rosenblatt, cofounder of the Committee for an Effective Congress.

Rosenblatt, mindful of the cost overruns that marked past enterprises of this nature, predicts the proposed building will cost half a billion dollars before it is finished, perhaps five years away. No target date has been set.

Such criticisms have been echoed by homeowners, church leaders, historical groups, editorial writers and even a few congressmen, including some who would lose their own houses. So far they have not dissuaded the House leadership from the conviction that the Rayburn Office Building, the last major congressional edifice, is no longer enough to accommodate the office demands of members.

The massive Rayburn complex was occupied 10 years ago after a string of cost overruns which pushed the total taxpayer investment to more than $120 million. That record likely will be edged by the FBI's J. Edgar Hoover building, now nearing completion.

The Rayburn building was supposed to be the office building to end all office buildings. But some critics say it turned out to be one of the most uninspired gobs of marble and granite ever constructed, with its lack of beauty exceeded only by its gross inefficiency. "The Rayburn Building," one outraged Hill resident wrote recently to the Washington Post, "proved to be the most expensive floor space since the Pyramids at Giza."

Ceilings, for example, are at least 14 feet high, even as junior staffers are jammed into partitioned cubbyholes below. Each committee, meanwhile, has a huge, two-story-high hearing room (average size: 56 feet by 46 feet), with most standing idle at any given hour.

Although anomalies like that also are rampant in other House buildings, virtually no study has been made to determine whether better use could be made of existing space.

Rep. Andy Jacobs Jr., D-Ind., tells the story about how he suggested a decade ago that lofts be built in the high-ceilinged offices of the nearby Cannon Office Building.

"But a man from the Capitol Architect's Office said, 'Son, vermin would get between the loft and the walls.' I apologized to him. My dad always told me that bureaucrats had no imagination."

Complaints from Jacobs and others nonetheless prompted the House last October to establish a Commission on Information and Facilities to survey space needs and utilization. Its report is not due until the end of next year.

Young Musicians Foundation plans performance auditions

The Performance Opportunities Auditions of the Young Musicians Foundation will be held in UCLA's Schoenberg Hall at 7 p.m. June 8.

Chairman Gregor Piatigorsky has named 17 members of the YMF music supervisory board to be judges.

The panel will include Dean Grant Beglarian of the USC School of Performing Arts, conductor-composer Elmer Bernstein; violinist Manuel Compinsky; clarinetist Michele Block; musicologist-pianist Abram Chasins; violist Alan De Veritch; violinist Glen Dicterow; Ernest Fleischmann, executive director of the Los Angeles Philharmonic; conductor-composer-pianist John Green; composer-pianist Bronislaw Kaper; pianist Sylvia Kunin; director of the USC Opera Theater, Natalie Limonick; pianist Daniel Pollock; cellist Gabor Rejto; operatic soprano Stella Roman; composer-conductor Miklos Rozsa and violinist Eudice Shapiro.

The new aim of the auditions (formerly the YMF Competition) is recognition of gifted young musicians who are qualified to perform on professional platforms under YMF auspices. These performances will take place on its regular series with the YMF Orchestra of Los Angeles, or in recital. Others who will be chosen will have additional opportunities for performances in schools, hospitals, museums and other places.

Application blanks for instrumentalists up to age 23, and singers under age 25, may be obtained by calling the YMF office, (213) 659-2766. Application deadline is Saturday. The June 8 audition is free and open to the public.

L.A. Philharmonic to play

Bowl to open Festival 75 with Beverly Sills as soloist

The Hollywood Bowl will open its Summer Festival 75 July 8 with soprano Beverly Sills as soloist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic conducted by Lawrence Foster.

Two women will be among the guest conductors during the season. They are Antonia Brico, who returns for the first time since her American conducting debut at the bowl 45 years ago, and Judith Somogi, young staff conductor of the New York City Opera.

In addition to Miss Sills, soloists during the summer will include opera stars Luciano Pavarotti and Jessye Brendel, pop singers Barbara Cook and Cleo Laine, pianists Alfred Brendel, John Browning, Van Cliburn, Misha Dichter and Andre Watts, and violinists Itzhak Perlman and Pinchas Zukerman.

Guest conductors will include Gennady Rozhdestvensky, Erich Leinsdorf, Raymond Leppard, Charles Mackerras, Lukas Foss, Edo De Waart, Michael Tilson Thomas, Arthur Fiedler and Andre Kostelanetz.

The summer schedule also will include four Friday Night Concerts and three Celebrity Recitals — Perlman July 30, flutist Jean-Pierre Rampal Aug. 27, and duo pianists Misha and Cipa Dichter Sept. 10.

There will also be three "spectaculars": the Tchaikovsky Spectacular, Thomas conducting, including the "1812 Overture" with military band, cannon and fireworks; the Beethoven Spectacular with Foss conducting and Cliburn as soloist in the "Emperor" Concerto, and the Fireworks Pops Finale, Leinsdorf conducting, with pianist Earl Wild as soloist.

A Pre-Season Week of Bach concerts will be held at the bowl July 1, 2, 3 and 5. Harth and Mackerras will conduct.

The low-priced park-and-ride bus service inaugurated last year will again be offered.

Season tickets can be ordered by mail through May 23. Single performance tickets can be ordered by mail, and after June 9 will be on sale at the box office and at Mutual, Liberty and Wallichs agencies.

A free copy of the 1975 Hollywood Bowl brochure can be obtained by writing to Hollywood Bowl Brochure, 135 N. Grand Ave., Room 400, Los Angeles 90012.

Other newly acquired instruments include krummhorns, shawms, rankett, cornetto, viols (treble, tenor and bass), guitar, harpsichord and recorders.

Collegium musicians and assisting artists will also use chalumeau, dulciane, natural horn and bagpipes. Voices and instruments will perform 14th Century English sequences and folksongs. Elizabethan vocal and instrumental works, and Purcell's "Fairy Queen" and "Dido and Aeneas."

Scripps museum plans artifacts exhibition

The Nagel Collection of Humanities Artifacts will go on exhibit in the Clark Humanities Museum at Scripps College May 12.

The collection includes a French bishop's cope dating to the late 16th or early 17th century and a marble bas-relief of a deer created in Persia in the 4th or 5th century B.C.

The exhibition includes recent gifts to Scripps from Edward M. Nagel of San Francisco and selections from the large collection he gave the college in 1971-72.

The cope, a cloak-like garment with panels of gold embroidery on its rich velvet fabric, and the bas-relief were among the items received in 1974-75. The 1971-72 gift included hundreds of artifacts and art works representing almost every culture and time period.

Nagel will be in Claremont for the opening of the exhibit and to meet with Scripps students. He became interested in art as a child in Germany. He is a supporter of the San Francisco Museum of Art, the San Francisco Opera Association and the San Francisco Symphony Association.

The public may view the exhibit from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays.

'... proved to be the most expensive floor space since the Pyramids of Giza

The ink on the commission's charter had barely dried, however, when the House plunged ahead on its own to acquire a nearby building being vacated by the FBI and appropriated $17 million to remodel it for congressional use. In a separate step, it authorized the House Administration Committee to acquire additional parking space for members, again without regard to the commission's job.

Most important, the leadership troika of Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., Minority Leader John Rhodes, R-Ariz., and Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., ordered the Capitol Architect to proceed with the groundwork for the new building.

Accordingly, Architect George White officially requested the subcommittee headed by Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., to fund the condemnation of the elm-lined New Jersey Avenue properties. And Casey makes it clear that despite the protests heard at two nominal hearings on the matter, he does not intend to buck the leadership.

"The House will have an opportunity to vote on it," declared Casey. Even so, his panel at least slowed the timetable a bit April 24 when it separated the building funds from overall legislative appropriations. That could mean a delay of weeks, or even months, before it gets to the floor.

Most Hill observers believe that, barring a turnaround wrought by public outcry, the full House is of a mind to approve the building. If it does, the Senate likely would go along in keeping with the tradition of non-interference on such issues.

But Rep. James C. Cleveland, R-N.H., is optimistic that, among the majority which voted just two months ago to spend the $17 million on the vacated FBI building, "there will be many who will find it injudicious to commit just a few weeks later still another $22 million for still another mammoth building, the final cost of which can be expected to reach $200 million or more."

White, meanwhile, is almost apologetic about the issue. He admits that aside from the general grumblings, particularly from junior congressmen, about cramped offices, nobody has made a definitive case as to the need for the new building. And he acknowledges that his $160-million construction estimate is no more than a ballpark guess on a structure for which there are no models, no sketches.

In an appearance before the homeowners who would be forced elsewhere, White declared, "I'm not the decision maker" and conceded that the suggestion that Congress first analyze and plan before it tears down their houses "is a good idea. Why don't you suggest it?"

Such suggestions were advanced to the Casey panel. Rep. Robert F. Sikes, D-Fla., himself a resident of the threatened area, wondered why some of the seldom-used committee rooms couldn't be converted to office space.

He and others also proposed building over the underground garages in back of the Rayburn building — as the architects, now having second thoughts, once promised could be done — or remodeling the Congressional Hotel, now owned by Congress but used for nonlegislative functions.

Church leaders pleaded for compassion for the families which occupy the target neighborhood, noting that many elderly people live there as well as congressmen, lobbyists, writers and one senator, Montana Democrat Lee Metcalf.

"Some of those people are well-off economically, and some are not," said President Terrence M. Scanlon of St. Peter's Parish. "Old people whose friends and churches are here would have a very hard time adjusting. We don't think they should be lightly dismissed as unfortunate but unimportant obstacles to progress."

"I would be the last to contend that the working conditions of congressional staffs are adequate," wrote Hill resident Larry L. Paxson.

But "this is primarily due to the medieval space allocation priorities .... There are palatial offices occupied by nonproductive senior patronage employes, not to mention areas used primarily for lobbyist-sponsored cocktail parties. Meanwhile, the working staffs of junior congressmen are stacked like cordwood."

Despite those arguments Rep. Jacobs fears a certai inexorability in the co gressional sprawl that, in th end, will spell another marbl behemoth for the House.

Barring a public outcry, project will pass

Stocks continue gains, fourth straight week

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The historic switch to competitive commission rates came to Wall Street this past week, but nothing changed the direction of stock prices.

Relieved of its fears of new upsurge in interest rates — at least for the moment — the market turned in its fourth straight weekly gain.

And the Dow Jones industrial average moved within a step of cancelling out all its declines in the bear market of last year, after just a little more than four months of 1975.

The Dow average of 30 blue chips rose 36.68 to 848.48, having wiped out all but 2.48 of its 232-point loss during 1974.

Considerable damage remained to be repaired, of course. The Dow was still more than 300 points below its alltime closing peak of 1051.70 reached on Jan. 11, 1973.

Most of the other market indicators still had a ways to go to get back to their end-of-1973 levels.

And for every Pittston, which closed the week at a record high of 66½, there was a Polaroid, at 30¼ still down nearly 80 per cent from its high of a few years ago.

The Dow, bolstered by heavy buying in some of the big-name stocks, seemed to be running a good deal ahead of the general market during the week.

Over-all, advances outnumbered declines by a narrow 979-to-778 margin among the 2,005 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up 2.60 at 89.22, and the Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks gained 1.23 to 47.18.

NYSE volume came to 99.51 million shares, down from 109.43 million the week before.

The week's activity turned on three developments Thursday:

—The beginning of full price competition among brokers after 183 years of fixed minimum commissions on most trades done on exchange floors.

—The Treasury's announcement that tax revenues it hadn't been counting on would reduce government borrowing needs by $5 billion.

—And the disclosure by Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that his agency was aiming at a 5 to 7½ per cent rate of growth in the nation's money supply through next March.

The Mayday advent of price competition came without any signs of disruptive confusion in the financial community.

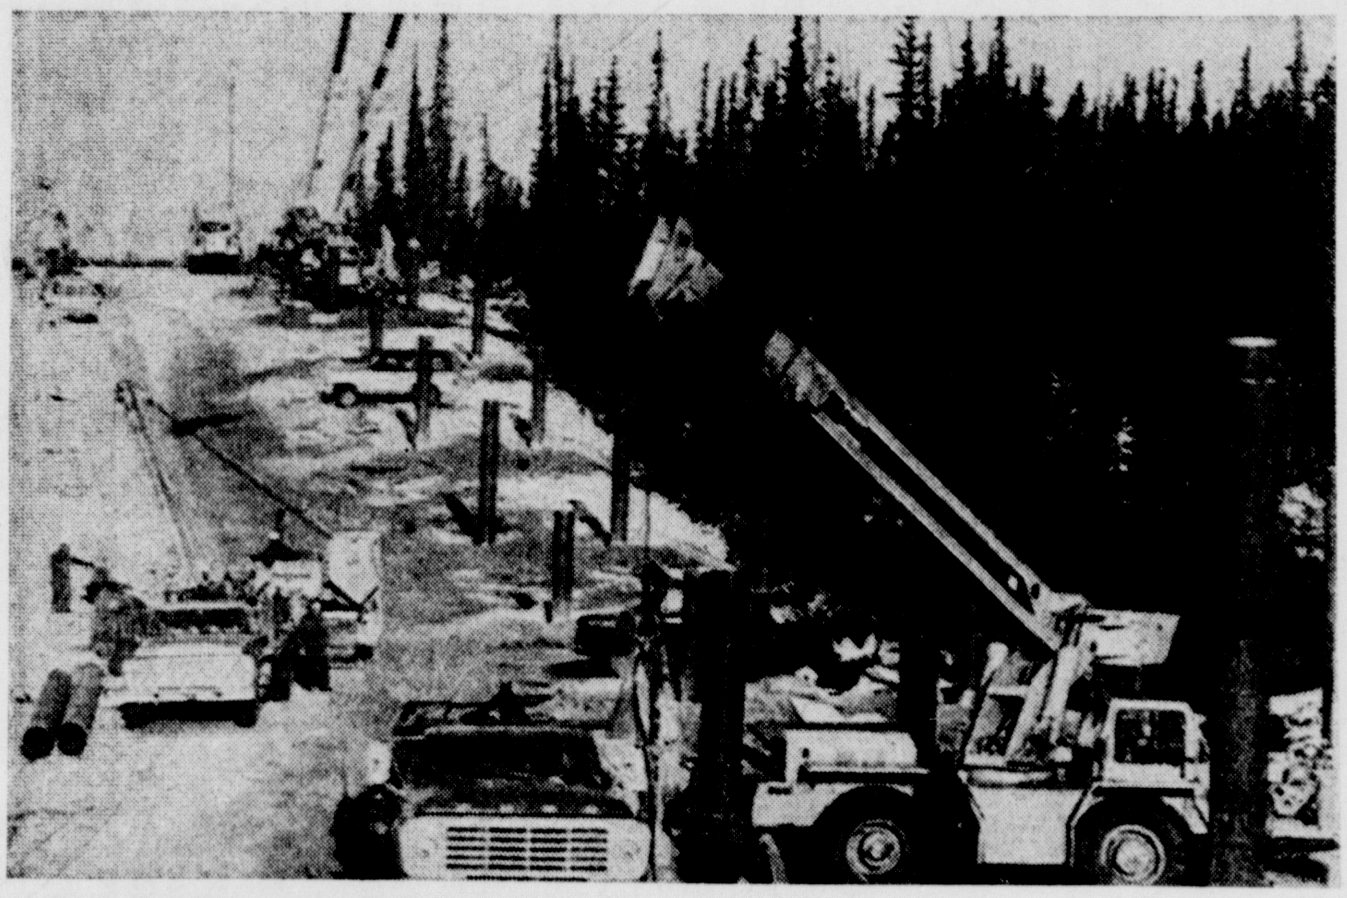
And the news from the Treasury and the Fed raised hopes for cheaper and more plentiful money to provide the fuel for an economic recovery.

Polaroid, which led the NYSE's most-active list, declined ⅛ to 30¼ on turnover of 1.09 million shares.

Pittston's gain for the week of 8 points was aided by the company's report Tuesday of sharply higher first quarter earnings, and an accompanying forecast of a continued bright showing for the rest of the year.

Among the blue chip and glamor issues, Xerox was up 6¾ at 78; Eastman Kodak 6⅜ at 108⅛; Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing 3⅝ to 62½, and Union Carbide 2¾ to 66⅜.

American Telephone & Telegraph rose 2⅛ to 50⅛, helped like many other interest rate-sensitive issues by the Treasury's financing annoncement.



TRANS ALASKA PIPELINE — Crews just north of the Yukon River install twin supports for the huge pipeline which will carry North Slope crude oil to deep water ports in Southern Alaska. Some 70,000 supports like the ones shown will be needed to hold the pipeline above ground.

Top execs just like us--disorganized

NEW YORK —This is the story of how the bottom drawer is helping to save the financial affairs of some otherwise top drawer executives. It is a story of failure being turned to success.

In handling their personal finances, many high-salaried executives are like anyone else. They often fail to plan. They live day to day. They keep disorganized records, if any at all. They forget.

Adding to the mess, which is a true description of the personal affairs of some executives, is the increasing complexity of financial life today, particularly in regard to tax laws.

Ten years ago some insurance companies entertained the notion that individual agents could be trained so broadly as to enable them to provide advice on the broad spectrum of financial needs. That attempt seems to have failed.

The major problem with such a concept was overoptimism. It was soon realized that while some agents could understand a prodigious range of knowledge — insurance, stocks, bonds, real estate, law, income taxes — they were exceptions.

Now the role of financial adviser is considered a team effort. About seven or eight years ago the First National City Bank, U.S. Trust Co., and the Aims Group, later absorbed by Aetna Life & Casualty, led the way.

Other major commercial banks now are highly active in the growing industry, particularly Wells-Fargo and Continental Illinois National Bank, and more are planning to make the move.

Stock brokers, mired in their own problems and thus in no mood for expansion, have tended to remain clear of the field, although if business picks up they might be expected to join.

While the new advisers have learned to solve the myriad problems involved by hiring experts in individual areas of financial knowledge instead of seeking an all-in-one genius, they remained faced with problems.

Most baffling of them was how to obtain the executive's cooperation. Too often being more concerned about their company's finances than their own, many executives failed to keep their high-paid advisers informed.

David Blanchard, who manages the Personal Resources Management Group at Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette, a holding company, fought the situation with all the financial brain power at his command. It was futile, even though Blanchard is considered one of the better informed financial advisers.

At a time like this one retreats to the basics, such as one's understanding of human nature, in search of an answer. Like so many others, Blanchard noted, executives tend to drop all their important financial documents into one file, desk or bureau drawer. Often it's the bottom drawer.

With the information contained in such a repository, he reasoned, he could reconstruct an executive's financial situation and bring order to a condition in which chaos reigned.

Recognizing he would have to cooperate, Blanchard devised a file system for the bottom drawer into which the too-busy executives places all his important papers. Blanchard's men then collect the file and have a clear picture of their client's ever-changing financial situation.

What are some of the failures, oversights, gaps that emerge from a study of the bottom drawer's contents?

"Most people ignore estate planning," says Blanchard. "Even when they determine what their estate is — and many don't know — and even when they have a proper will, they don't keep their plan up to date. In five years it might become obsolete."

Most people fail to recognize how their responsibilities and obligations change. They fail to understand the tax impact on their estates. They fail to recognize all the options available for investing. They understand buying better than selling.

"Most people don't have a real feel for budgeting cash flows," says Blanchard. "They go from one paycheck to another. Even top executives do that."

And they also share the common failing of almost everyone — of dumping all their receipts and canceled checks and bill stubs into that receptical they seldom arrange, the bottom drawer.

Despite petrodollars:

Foreign investment in U.S. goes down, not up

Foreign investment in the United States real estate has decreased in recent years from the peak periods of the late 1960s and early 1970s. And not even the emergence of Arab governments and individuals as investors suggests a turnaround is imminent.

Despite publicity to the contrary, Arab ventures over the past year have been infrequent and investments probably amount to only a small percentage of the dollars received by these nations since oil price hikes took effect.

This is the opinion of some of the nation's leaders in real estate investment counseling who are frequently involved in the investment of foreign capital.

The random survey was conducted by the National Association of Realtors and included reports from investments counselors and local Realtor boards.

What has been the extent of foreign investment in United States real estate? For the past year or so, investments from non-Arab nations — particularly Great Britain, West Germany, Japan and France — have dropped considerably while those from Arab lands have increased.

"It's impossible to get a dollar total on these investments because they frequently are arranged through American firms, but it's my opinion that over-all foreign investment is down for the past year," said Robert Gladstone, who heads a counseling firm in Washington, D.C.

"There really haven't been that many actual purchases by Arab nations and individuals a great deal of interest shown, many inquiries made, but few deals concluded," he added.

C. "Ake" Orndahl, New York real estate investment counselor, added that a balance of trade deficit for much of Europe and Japan, largely resulting from the oil situation, has severely blunted the outflow of foreign capital to the U.S.

Other investment counselors agreed with assessments by Gladstone and Orndahl. The pair also was joined by counselors in estimates that increases in investment have been seen in the hotel-motel field and recreation-vacation properties.

Stephen Brener, although noting that the New York firm for which he works has not yet concluded deals for foreign investment in U.S. hotels and motels, said that activity in this area began in 1973.

Among deals being negotiated or explored through his firm are ones by two European airlines, a French banking group, a Japanese group interested in hotels and motels in Hawaii,, some Mexican interest in Southern California hotels and possible investment by persons in the Netherlands.

Although Brener has not yet been approached by Arabs interested in this field of investment, others have. Among the largest of these was the purchase by Kuwait of property for its construction of a hotel and office building in downtown Atlanta.

The 1,300-room hotel and 20-story office building will cost about $100 million when completed, including cost of the land. The hotel will be managed by the Hilton chain, and the office building by a local firm.

Other Atlanta investments have been made by Japanese and German groups, said Mrs. Tommie Jackson, executive vice president of the Atlanta Board of Realtors, Inc.

Another Kuwaiti investment — purchase for $17.4 million of an island off the coast of South Carolina near Charleston — has been clouded by anti-Arab and anti-development protests.

The new owners had asked the Charleston County Council to grant a zoning change from agricultural to development district — that would permit a planned development.

That development of the 5,544-acre island would include—

Multi-family units and condominiums; single-family homes; land set aside for recreation; commercial properties, including small shops, motels and possibly a hotel.

Sondley L. Hamrick, president of the Greater Charleston Board of Realtors, estimates that total development would cost about $200 million "and would greatly improve the Charleston County tax situation."

Despite protests, the council earlier this month granted the zoning change, noting also that a planned development would be the best way to protect the island's ecology.

Thus, barring further legal roadblocks, the Kiawah Beach Co. will begin this development later this year. The company is a subsidiary of the Kuwaiti Investment Co., which in turn is owned by the government and royal family of Kuwait.

Often a direct line of ownership of real estate by Arabs is not that clearly defined, real estate counselors said. Sometimes what finally is established as being Arab money arrives through Switzerland or through nationals or other countries, they explained.

Despite this, Gladstone feels that "the Mideast is emerging as a major force in real estate investment, even though the level and pattern of investment still is taking shape.

"If I had to guess, I would say that Mideast nations occupy two of the to five spots for foreign investment in U.S. real estate. Others in the top five would be West Germany, Japan and France," Gladstone added.

Other counselors agreed with his assessments. All noted, however, that the level of Arab investment still could be judged as low when compared with money available to them since oil price increases took effect.

(For example, Arab sources have reported recently that Saudi Arabia received more than $20 billion for its oil in 1974.)

"In my opinion, publicity concerning Arab investments simply is far greater than their participation," Gladstone said. Counselors were quick to add, however, that the level of Arab inquiries concerning real estate investment is quite high.

What has been the pattern of foreign investment in recent years? Counselors noted that European investors generally seek real estate as an economical means for developing distribution and sale of their products — Japan with Panasonic and Germany with Volkswagen, for example.

Arab investments — and to some degree Japanese — have been in real estate as an end in itself. "Many of these investors simply do not have products to sell in the U.S., but see real estate purchase and development as merely being a good way to make even more money," one counselor explained.

Hawkins Co. office is top seller

The Azusa-Glendora Board of Realtors has named the Herbert Hawkins Realtors office in Glendora as first place winner for sales volume during March.

Gerard Pope, manager, reported sales of $1.7 million — including cooperative sales — for the month. That was a 20 per cent increase over the same period last year.

For the first quarter this year, sales reached $4.5 million at the Glendora office, a 41 per cent hike over last year. Properties sold include homes and income properties in Azusa, Glendora, San Dimas and La Verne.

The Glendora office is being remodeled and interviews are being held for additional salesmen.

Banker reports:

Many homes priced too high for U.S. families

The average American family can no longer comfortably afford the average American house even if it could get an interest-free mortgage loan, declared the president-elect of the American Bankers Assoclaition (ABA).

J. Rex Duwe, speaking before the ABA's national housing and real estate conference, said the median price for new single family housing in 1973 was nearly $33,000. During the same year, the median family income was about $13,000.

Currently, he added, the median price for all existing housing is nearly $34,000.

"For years, home buying manuals have advised the prospective owner to buy a house that costs up to 2½ times his or her annual income. But with the price of food, fuel and other essentials taking a larger chunk out of our paychecks, we may have to revise our traditional family budget planning.

"Perhaps we will have to devote a larger portion of our take home pay to shelter. But the Consumer Price Index already shows that one-third of every dollar we take home is going to housing. How much more can we afford" he asked.

National statistics assembled by the ABA reflect the increase in housing-related costs over the past 10 years. These include: home maintenance and repairs, up 92 per cent; property taxes, 63 per cent; fuel and utilities, 62 per cent; mortgage interest rates, 57 per cent; and property insurance, 37 per cent.

"At the same time," he added, "home construction costs have jumped 71 per cent. Since 1971 alone, the cost of building materials has risen more than 34 per cent. The sorry state of the housing industry is not the result of high mortgage rates."

Duwe reported the major problem of housing is that people can't comfortable afford the houses now on the market and their attendant costs. "In fact, many families could not afford a new home if they could get an interest free mortgage loan."

Can the housing costs be reduced. "I believe costs can be cut" he added. Duwe referred to estimates of a 25 per cent price tag reduction in new housing by building three and four story houses to retain interior space and reduce land costs; by offering houses with unfinished "bonus" rooms; by roughing in an extra bathroom to serve as a closet until the buyer finishes it later himself; and by offering price discounts to buyers who will complete interior painting.

Some developers are reconsidering whether they can attract a new clientele by offering a more basic house without carpeting, central air conditioning or dishwashers as standard equipment, he noted.

"Each community — and the banks within that community — will have to decide the property housing 'mix' to fit its needs. This means the number of single family houses that should be built, the number of apartments, condominiums, cooperatives, townhouses and mobile home parks. We'll also need to examine cluster housing and planned unit development," said Duwe.

The banking industry itself needs to supervise construction loans and development loans more closely, he stressed. "Reflective of this need is the current trend to fewer lower-priced housing units and more upper-income housing units."

In 1974, the number of houses built in the $19,999 and under range accounted for only 14.4 per cent of the total, a decrease of four per cent over 1973.

From housing chief:

Leased housing program receives strong support

BY PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing Secretary Carla A. Hills opposes proposals to divert funds from a slow-starting lease-housing plan and into conventional public housing projects.

She told a House subcommittee Wednesday the leased-housing program had been frustratingly slow in beginning but that this was partly because of the complexities in writing guidelines for the plan.

Only 40,000 of the projected 200,000 leased-housing units for low-income families due to be finished by June 30 will be ready, she said.

But Mrs. Hills and her aides said it would be chaotic and counter-productive to pull back one-third of the $900 million which has been sent to regional offices for the leased-housing plans.

In February 1973 President Richard M. Nixon froze all federally subsidized low-income housing programs and substituted, with congressional approval, a program of lease-housing that did not restrict tenants to fixed housing sites.

A Senate-passed housing bill would mandate the Department of Housing and Urban Development to reallocate $350 million of the $980 million in public housing funds into construction of more conventional public housing projects.

The House-passed bill has no such provision but Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa. a member of the House-Senate conference which will resolve differences between the bills, has introduced a separate bill to do that.

Moorhead said the new leased-housing program was billed as the answer to subsidized housing programs but it appears that only a small portion of the money will be for new-home construction.

He said with the construction industry in its worst depression since the 1930s, some of the money should be diverted to build conventional public housing projects. He said many cities with backlogs of public housing applicants could go ahead immediately on construction of new projects if they got the money.

Mrs. Hills said two distinct goals were being addressed: that of stimulating the construction industry and that of housing the thousands of low-income persons across the country.

She said the leased-housing program appears to offer the best option to the problem of housing the nation's poor.

She also claimed the goal of revving up the construction industry would not be best met by funneling more funds into the building of public housing projects.

In answer to another question from Moorhead, she said about 90,000 of the estimated 400,000 leased housing units to be prepared for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would involve construction.

She said she didn't see any hitch in meeting next year's goal, once the program is in full swing.

JPL's wizards putting focus on own planet

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The aerospace scientists whose wizardry gave man a closer look at Mars, Venus and Mercury say they are plowing their experience back into the earth.

Sewage disposal systems, new energy sources and low-pollution cars are some areas being studied by researchers at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory as they apply space technology to problems on their own planet.

Several unmanned space missions, including the recently completed Mariner 10 encounters with Venus and Jupiter, have been controlled from JPL. Space exploration remains the lab's primary responsibility, but more than 150 scientists are now at work in the Civil Service Program Office, which has four divisions: energy and environment, transportation, public safety and biomedical systems.

Dan Schneiderman, head of the office, said the program "started when JPL gave up working on secret projects during the Vietnam war and turned to solving problems in the civil area.

"It has since grown, with NASA's backing, to speed up what we call technology transfer, the application of space technology to significant urban and industrial

For example, he said, an engineer testing materials for a lightweight rocket motor insulator came up with an idea to improve sewage processing.

Noting that the insulator — activated carbon — could be made from manure, the engineer devised a system for converting solid sewage to activated carbon, which in turn helps purify incoming waste water.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

MARIA LUZ D. TORRES DUMAGUETE CITY, PHILIPPINES, ASKS,

"HOW DOES A CANDLE BURN?"

WHEN YOU LIGHT A WAX CANDLE, THE HEAT OF THE BURNING WICK MELTS SOME OF THE WAX IN THE CANDLE. THE MELTED WAX SOAKS THE WICK AND BECOMES SO HOT THAT IT TURNS INTO GAS. THE GAS BURNS, GIVING OFF LIGHT. WHEN YOU BLOW OUT A CANDLE, YOUR BREATH CARRIES AWAY THE HEAT UNTIL THE TEMPERATURE FALLS BELOW THE KINDLING POINT OF THE WICK AND THE FLAME DIES.

HOW I FINALLY LOST ALL MY EXCESS WEIGHT - AFTER BEING OVERWEIGHT ALL MY LIFE AND FAILING AT EVERY DIET IN EXISTENCE

It Brought Me My Most Treasured Compliment: "OH, B.J., I CAN'T BELIEVE IT! HOW TERRIFIC YOU LOOK! HOW DID YOU EVER LOSE ALL THAT WEIGHT? I DIDN'T EVEN RECOGNIZE YOU!"

> "I filled out the interview sheet at the bottom of this page one month, and the next month I was 28 pounds lighter–before I knew what happened, with no work, with no suffering. The interview sheet is like a session with a top weight loss M.D., which many famous actors, actresses and athletes employ. The feature I liked best? WITH THIS METHOD I COULD EAT ALL MY FAVORITE FOODS! Check the list below for your favorite foods. ."

In my story I am going to reveal to you the secret of successful weight loss. This secret was just recently discovered. It has already been written up in the editorial section of the Chicago Tribune The Chicago Daily News, Philadelphia Magazine, Ladies Home Journal, American Home, Vogue, etc. In my opinion this finding is going to have a tremendous impact on public health. Why? Because over 40% of the American population suffers from obesity. Obesity is a major contributor to psychological disturbances and cardio-vascular disease - the nation's No. 1 killer. - By B.J PORTER

(CANTON, OH.) The story you are about to read is true and factual. It happened to me, B.J Porter

I am a reporter. My employer is the Publishing Corporation of America, a major, national publishing firm, as you probably are already aware

A while ago, I was summoned to my boss's office. He told me that he had a report that a leading obesity doctor and a New York corporation had produced the most powerful weight-loss tool yet developed. I was to investigate this product.

This is a normal procedure. If my company sells or publishes a product, it must first be thoroughly tested for claims, reliability, quality and safety.

However, the fact that I was chosen to investigate this particular product was most humiliating and embarrassing to me. Because, I stood there in front of my boss at my usual 28 POUNDS OVERWEIGHT. My boss told me not only to investigate this new weight loss tool, but to actually use it myself.

I had been overweight nearly all my life of 33 years. Each year I got older the number of overweight pounds increased. I tried everything. I tried appetite inhibitors which either didn't work or left me nauseated. I went to local doctors. One gave me pills that didn't work and made me a nervous wreck. Another, gave me a diet with calculations that would baffle Einstein and meals that I wouldn't feed to my dog.

Then came the new fad diets. I tried the water and protein diet. After two weeks, my body simply repulsed another glass of water or another piece of plain meat or cottage cheese. I lost 5 pounds, so I thought. I immediately found out it was 5 pounds of water which I instantly took back on. I then tried the famous low carbohydrate diet. Wow! I could eat all that cheese, cream and so on, and lose weight. What a let down! I didn't gain any weight, but, I didn't lose any either. But, all that food that I thought was so good and in such variety turned out to really be a limited list. Again, my body repulsed these foods and craved more variety. Also, both of these fad diets left me a sickly, bundle of nerves.

I tried more fad diets that were supposed to "melt away fat". I tried exercise plans and every mechanical gadget I could find. Nothing worked. I did manage to lose weight occasionally by starving myself, but I found that I immediately put the pounds right back on.

So, here I was, off again to try another crazy weight loss method that doesn't work - so I thought.

My plane landed in New York on a cool, drizzly morning in early September. I was meeting at 10:00 a.m. with Bernard Gittelson and a leading obesity doctor.

The doctor is the director of the diabetic and obesity clinics of a medical college and major hospital in the East. Bernard Gittelson is a top executive with the Time Pattern Research Institute of New York. He is the creative genius behind two successful adaptions of the computer to everyday life. Both of these computer applications have become very famous. With the doctor, he had apparently come up with a third major computer adaption to solve one of life's major problems. (The doctor is a very conscientious and scientific person who adheres strictly to the code of the A.M.A. which states that a doctor cannot advertise. The doctor is unlike certain doctors who have put out fad diets with no medical or scientific backing. Therefore we cannot reveal the doctor's name here. The doctor's name, hospital name and address are available upon request. Simply write to the address below or call me at (216) 494-4282).

That September morning the most interesting history of this project was related to me. Little did I know that the secret of the successful cure of obesity was about to be revealed to me. Nor, did I know this meeting was going to change my life.

To give you just the highlights of the history of the developments of the doctor's weight loss method would take over 3 full newspaper pages. So, what I'm going to give you is a very, very brief summary.

It took the doctor and his aids 12 years of day and night work to develop and perfect his method. It was accomplished through sure-fire trial and error methodology. His experiments used his patients in everyday life situations.

The end result? From the patient's PERSONAL medical data and the doctor's advanced obesity knowledge, a scientifically compiled set of PERSONAL instructions and unique, PERSONAL, 21 day, meal by meal diet was produced.

The secret of why it worked?

The technical details involved in producing his tool were complex. But, like all things that really work, the idea behind his method was simple and seemed so obvious (like all great discoveries). Now for the secret. It was simply this. His method was PHYSICAL, PSYCHOLOGICAL and PERSONAL. No other method had taken all three of these areas into account before. If any one is missing, successful weight loss is impossible.

TO SUMMARIZE:

Why other diets don't work:

1. The body has very powerful adjustment mechanisms to retain the present status to which it is accustomed. All diets to date alter three basic states of the body besides just the weight level: a) nutrition levels, b) present types of foods the body is accustomed to eating every day - taste level, c) present amount of daily intake - volume level.
2. Nearly all diets forced a change of habits.
3. Nearly all diets created work by necessitating mathematical calculations, seeking out strange foods and learning to prepare strange foods.
4. No diet took into account that each person is different with respect to physical traits and psychological traits, such as likes and dislikes. For example, you can't give out general diets that contain spinach. Many people don't like it and won't eat it!
5. Many fad diets are extremely dangerous to a person's health and life. They create chemical changes and nutritional deficiencies which contribute to serious diseases which compound the already existing weight problem.

Why the doctor's diet and advice does work (so effectively in fact that the doctor says that he has not had one patient fail to date):

1. It is PERSONAL - it is tailored to the individual. It takes into account a person's medical data, physical data, habits and taste in food. There is a different reason each person is overweight.
2. The patient's personal data is combined with TRIAL AND ERROR, TIME TESTED knowledge of weight loss - not arm chair theory. This knowledge includes how to combine foods to produce bulk, taste and the right caloric result (some foods actually burn up calories, therefore they can be mixed with higher calorie foods).
3. It does not alter the person's taste level - the patient eats his favorite foods. It does not alter the patient's nutrition level. It does not alter the patient's bulk level. It minimizes the body's force to adjust the patient's weight level.
4. It does not create work or change of habits for the patient.
5. Since it is so effortless the patient can stay on the diet after he reaches his ideal weight, thus allowing the body to adjust to the new weight level. You'll notice even overweight people stay around the same weight. It's because the body adjusts to that weight.
6. It's inexpensive. There are no costly pills or vitamin supplements to purchase.

It didn't take word long to spread around the city about the doctor's new found success. He was soon swamped with more patients than he could handle. He couldn't even take on enough aids to handle the load because his method was so time-consuming to prepare. Through a set of circumstances he teamed up with Bernard Gittelson of Time Pattern Research Institute.

Together they computerized the doctor's method. It required 2 years and $250,000.00 to program and implement the project. Over 3 million bits of information had to be put on magnetic storage devices. The computer used was an I.B.M. 370-145.

At the end of my interview with the doctor and Mr. Gittelson, I was very impressed and excited to say the least. I was looking at letters from thousands of people who had already used the computerized diet. The doctor likes his patients to lose 1½ to 2 pounds per week. But I was looking at letters which said "I lost 50 pounds in 5 weeks," "I lost 12 pounds in 3 weeks," "I lost 18 pounds in 3 weeks"....

Medical knowledge and research have been teamed up with the computer to produce what many experts believe is the "most powerful weight loss tool yet developed". This tool enables people with even the most stubborn weight problem to reach their ideal weight surely and effortlessly, such as Marsha Pfalzgraf and David O'Brien of Canton, Ohio pictured above in the PCA computer center. (The doctor who invented this method is not shown here because he is very conscientious and adheres to the A.M.A. no personal advertising code.)

So now came the acid test. I was going to try the diet. I was convinced logically that it would work, but so many other diets had failed me. Disbelief was still lodged in the back of my mind. The doctor wishes to state at this point that you should contact your doctor before starting any diet and that the best diet is one prepared by your own doctor. I agree - if you can find a good doctor. Doctors are no different than any other profession, there are good professionals and bad professionals.

It contained meals of breakfast, lunch, supper and snack for each day for 21 days. Each meal had the food listed in exact portions. No calculations or calorie counting was necessary. It also contained 5 pages of personal hints and instructions and a list of foods that could be substituted for each other if I was unable to obtain certain items on a given day. So, I flew back to Canton, Ohio with my diet and apprehensive attitude.

I started my diet and advice the very next day after I got home. The first two days I did not lose a pound and I thought to myself, "Oh no, here we go again!" What backed up my cynicism at this point was that I couldn't remember eating so well as I did those two days. I had been used to picking during the day and eating one meal at night. Here I was eating 3 "squares" and a snack. These meals consisted of such things as hot roast beef sandwiches and gravy, steaks, eggs, cheese, nuts, corn, cereal, sausage, strawberries, salads, potatoes, cocktails, bread, potato chips, etc.–all my favorites. I didn't feel bloated but pleasantly stuffed. At this point I told myself, "I knew it was too good to be true."

But, on the third day I stepped on the scales, and to my surprise I dropped 3 pounds. I couldn't believe it after eating all that food. The rest of the week I averaged ½ pound a day of weight loss. Total loss for my first week - 5 POUNDS

The second week of my diet I only lost 2 pounds, but on the third week I lost a little over 3. So there I was after 3 weeks, 10 pounds lighter. I couldn't remember seeing the scales at that number before. It was a sight to behold. I felt like I had just climbed Mt. Everest.

However, something else was happening besides just weight loss. The difference in the way I felt was like night and day. I felt tremendous, I had an overabundance of energy, I was more alert, my complexion went from ruddy to clear, I had more color, my hair stopped falling out so much and lost it's brittleness and my periodic headaches seemed to disappear. I wasn't informed this would happen in the interview, but, it wasn't too hard to figure out. It was obvious that these bonus benefits had occurred because: 1) this diet gives a person the proper nutrition most Americans lack, 2) you become very regular on this diet, 3) your internal organs function as they should with proper bulk and food composition, and 4) you sleep much better. In fact I think the doctor overlooked another big reason his diet works. If the body is healthier, all of its functions will work better including those which monitor weight and burn up excess fat.

Another plus I was finding out about the diet is this. It's fun to do. There are no calculations or work. The meals are fun and exciting to prepare. You actually look forward to each day for the fun of preparing the next variety of foods.

Well, back to my progress report. To summarize the last 5 weeks, they went like this: 4th week - 4½ pounds loss, 5th week - 2 pounds loss, 6th week - 3½ pounds loss, 7th week - 5 pounds loss. In the fifth day of my eighth week I achieved my ideal weight by losing three more pounds. In all, I had lost 28 pounds in 7.7 weeks, averaging 3.59 pounds per week.

I still haven't told you the best part, the effect it had on my life. To be honest, I don't have words to describe it. If you can imagine in early September I was an ugly 28 pounds overweight. Here, the next month, in late October, I had lost 28 pounds - leaving me at my ideal weight, looking slim, fit and attractive. No more feeling as though my clothes were trying to strangle me.

It was like I had stepped into a new world. Persons of the opposite sex, who virtually ignored me before, were now making a fuss over me to the point of being downright aggressive. People of both sexes showed more respect toward me. My better appearance gave me more confidence. My sphere of friends began to increase. The combination of these things was shortly to bring me a job promotion. (Studies show that there is a direct relation to physical appearance and career success).

It is a very emotional experience to regain your self respect. I couldn't help remembering a scene from a documentary on the late Vince Lombardi where he had just made winners out of the Packers who had known nothing but humiliation and ridicule before. It's a proud "lump in the throat" feeling to know, "they aren't laughing at you any more."

I could tell you much more, but, for now that's my story. I hope I conveyed to you the true excitement I feel for this product.

For those who wish to obtain the doctor's computerized diet just fill out the form below and follow the simple instructions. It's quite an offer. If you would go to a top weight loss doctor (if you could find a good one), it would cost you $300 to $500. The computerized diet below (from a doctor who is a proven winner) will cost you an introductory offer price of only $9.95 (THE REGULAR PRICE WILL SOON BE $19.95). Even if you don't need it now, you can store it in a drawer until you do.

I presented a form such as the one below to a grossly overweight friend of mine. He had the audacity to question whether he should spend $9.95 for the diet. It angered me so to a point where I told him, "You spend more than that on pizza pies each month, and they do nothing but make you fatter. How can you put a price on something that would make you more attractive, healthier, make you feel 100% better, increase your chance for advancement and avoid a premature union with the grave. Doctors say every hour you stay overweight pounds another nail into the coffin." People never put things in proper perspective. They would think nothing about paying $20 for 3 hours of entertainment, but are reluctant to spend a lesser amount for something that would pay them benefits and pleasure for the rest of their lives. I would have given everything I own to achieve what the diet did for me.

But I guess everyone has to be their own judge. How much is better health and appearance worth to you?

'YEAR OF THE WILDEBEESTE'

"I do take a lot of risks," admits wildlife photographer Alan Root, adding, "but they're all calculated," as if that explains everything. It takes a certain determination to land an airplane where you must rather than where you want to, to lie in wait in the bush with lions, to deal with suspicious poachers, to plant yourself in the path of stampeding gnus. This was the stuff of Alan Root's life for two and a half years in the Serengeti plain of East Africa.

The remarkable film footage that resulted from that period will be seen in "The Great Migration: Year of the Wildebeeste," a one-hour special narrated by Richard Widmark, Monday at 8PM on CBS. The special depicts the spectacular migration of a million wildebeeste, or gnu, across the Serengeti in search of grass and water—a migration that lasts for nearly a year and may cover 2,000 miles. To film wildebeeste crossing rivers, Root would scout the herds from the air, land about a mile away and sneak up through the thick riverline bush to the ford.

"Apart from the landings, which were often very nasty," he says, "the other great danger was from lions. They know animals in water are very easy prey. When they hear the noise, they come sneaking along the bush to the river bank. In several cases, I found myself right alongside lions who were doing exactly what I was trying to do, sneak up quietly on the wildebeeste."

"Another time," Root continues, "there was a group of poachers in the area hoping to spear some animals in the river. They thought I was a park ranger, and when I landed I spoiled their sport. So, while I was filming, they stuck a spear through my plane in two places. I thought they were fairly superficial wounds, but in fact they had almost completely severed a heavy-duty battery cable. When I took off, it shorted and burned a large hole in the bottom of my airplane."

On a number of occasions, says Root, he was bowled over by galloping gnus. So all in all, he's no stranger to danger. Once, while filming a special called "Mzima: Africa's Mysterious Spring," Root decided he had to get into the water to film the crocodiles properly. "After watching their reactions for some time," he recalls, "I decided the danger to man was only when his body showed above the surface or when he stood in the shallows like the other animals." Theory is one thing, practice is another, however. "The first time I went in, I was washing my goggles in the shallows," Root continues. "That attracted the crocs and one came at me full-speed ahead. At that moment, I fell into the water, and I suppose my splash surprised it. So I swam right at it, and it chickened out and turned tail."

A million wildebeeste annually migrate around the Serengeti plain of East Africa, passing through the territories of lions and other predators. When lions have gorged themselves, however, the wildebeeste can roam near them at will, as seen in "The Great Migration: Year of the Wildebeeste."

'FLIP & FRIENDS'

Songs and sketches highlight "The Flip Wilson Special," Flip's fourth and final show for the season, guest-starring Cher, Richard Pryor, Kenny Rankin and McLean Stevenson, Wednesday at 9PM on NBC. Flip opens with a monologue, followed by a basketball sketch in which Stevenson portrays a college scout. Flip and Marie Bryant play the parents of a talented high school basketball player (Pryor). Stevenson comes to ink him to a contract and finds a rather strange household. A charm school sketch features Geraldine (Flip) as the proprietress of the school, with Cher applying for a job, and Stevenson as their customer. Kenny Rankin sings "Blackbird," and teams with Flip for "Your Cheatin' Heart."

'NEIGHBORHOOD BEAT'

Lloyd Bridges stars in a new 90-minute Police Story presentation, "The Return of Joe Forrester," on NBC, Tuesday at 9:30PM. Bridges portrays officer Joe Forrester who shuns modern police methods when he returns to uniform and walking a beat in order to establish good contacts with the "street people" as he tries to locate a dangerous robbery team. Risking his life, as well as the affections of the woman he loves, Forrester tries to prove to his superiors that the average citizen's distrust of unknown policemen is hampering their efforts to establish the identity of the robbers. Co-starring are Pat Crowley, Jim Backus, Dane Clark, Dean Stockwell, Della Reese, Janis Paige, Tom Drake and Edie Adams.

'VARIETY CLUB TELETHON'

The "Help Make Their Dreams Come True" Variety Club Second Annual Telethon '75 will be sponsored May 10-11 starting Saturday at 11PM and continuing nonstop until 6PM Sunday over KTLA, Channel 5. Monty Hall will be master of ceremonies and will be assisted by a number of top-ranking stars. He and Binnie Barnes Frankovitch are honorary co-chairmen. Thomas Fenno is general chairman of the telethon conducted for the benefit of this group which is a chapter of Variety Clubs International, known as "The Greatest Children's Charity in the World," and the showmen's organization devoted to aiding needy children.

Dr. James V. Prochazka, of UCLA Pediatrics Cardiology Division, examines Christopher Rodriguez, 2½ year-old patient from Oxnard, Calif., as TV Star Monty Hall looks on. Hall will serve as master of ceremonies on second annual Variety Club Telethon '75.

The founding of Variety Clubs stems from a warm, charitable incident. An infant girl was found abandoned Christmas Eve, 1927, in the lobby of Pittsburgh's Sheridan Square Theatre. She was adopted by eleven showmen who pooled their interests and started the charitable organization which has since grown into an international group with chapters in over 40 major cities of the world. Variety's membership now exceeds 11,000 and the Southern California Tent 25's current membership is close to 1000. Over the years Variety Clubs have raised more than $250 million to support hospitals, schools and institutions for children who are ill, handicapped or underprivileged and for research into obscure children's diseases.

All monies collected in Southern California remain here, and the major projects supported are: Child Amputee Prosthetics Electronic Limb Bank under direction of Dr. Yoshio Setoguchi, UCLA; the James H. Nicholson Children's Heart Clinic located in the medical center of UCLA and under the supervision of Dr. Forrest Adams; the Amie Karen Center for the Treatment of Children with Cancer in Cedars-Sinai Hospital on Beverly Blvd. and under the direction of pediatric oncologist Dr. Richard Gatti; Variety Boys' Club at 2530 Cincinnati Street, East Los Angeles, Louis R. Diaz, executive director; William Thedford Memorial Scholarship Fund which subsidizes Variety Club boys with high scholastic achievements but no money to continue their educations; Sunshine Coach Program which has given more than 40 mini-busses to serve handicapped and underprivileged children in Southern California.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'NINE-YEAR-OLD CHARMER'

If you ever get to know Kami Cotler you won't forget her. She makes a lasting impression on everyone she meets. The 9-year-old charmer, who plays Elizabeth, the youngest child, on The Waltons (Thursdays, 8:00-9:00PM) on CBS, made her first impression on a professional photographer when her mother, Barbara, took her to have her picture taken in 1970. The photographer was so taken with Kami's red hair and sunny disposition that he suggested Mrs. Cotler send her picture to an agent friend of his. The agent decided the child was too young but a year later, not having forgotten her, got her a role in "The Homecoming," the special television program which became The Waltons.

Those who work with her are quick to sing her praises.

"She always knows her lines and is always on time, the perfect little professional," says director Jack Shea.

"You can talk to her as you would an adult and minutes later she is running around, dancing with other children her age," says Michael Learned, who plays her mother, Olivia, on the series.

Earl Hamner, creator and executive story consultant on The Waltons, calls Kami "the nicest young person I have ever met. She could have become a little monster after three years in the tough world of show business but she hasn't changed a bit."

Kami lives in Toluca Lake with her father, Ken Cotler, owner of a chain of Southern California clothing stores, her mother and her 7-year-old brother, Jeff. She loves to sing and talks of someday playing on Broadway. "She is not going to be another Anna Maria Alberghetti as far as her singing," says her father, "but with her determination and personality she'll make it if she chooses. We will never push her, however."

She is constantly writing what her parents describe as poems but she insists are lyrics to tunes that are running through her head. "We sometimes hear the light click on in her room at night and we find her writing lyrics," says Cotler. "She and her mother love horses. Personally I have little interest in them unless they're running around a track and I can bet on them." Kami has her own horse, five-gaited, saddlebred "Contract Racer," which she and her mother show at horse shows.

Kami and Jeff have different attitudes toward money. Kami believes in art for art's sake. Jeff got a check for playing a small part on The Waltons and was impressed with how many pop bottles he would have to cash in to make as much. He promptly bought stock and when it went up, sold it, took his profit and bought some more. He reads the market report every day.

Kami also buys stock but it is always CBS and she refuses to sell it. "That would be disloyal to my network," she says.

NATIONAL HOME LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY

Art Linkletter is a Member of the Board of Directors and has a financial interest in the Company.

"Hospital and surgeons' bills will cost even more this year. That's why you need SURGICARE®."

Art Linkletter

SURGICARE®
pays from $10.00 to $1,000.00

for any covered surgical operation performed in or out of the hospital according to schedule printed right in your policy.

- Pays for ANY covered Surgery.
- Pays in or out of the hospital.
- Pays regardless of Medicare, or any other company's insurance.

Ten years ago, even if your basic health insurance plan didn't pay the whole bill for surgery, you probably could have afforded to pay the rest.

Now, with the steep 207% rise in hospital costs of the past 12 years, (medical bills alone are up over 75%) it's a different story!*

But under your Surgicare Insurance Plan, benefits are payable for every covered operation. And here's another Surgicare feature—unless you request otherwise, benefits are paid direct to you!

*Source: Dept. of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics.

How your Surgicard helps when you need it.

When you are covered by SURGICARE you receive a SURGICARD to carry with you at all times.

It identifies you as a SURGICARE policyowner—eligible for all the benefits of your SURGICARE policy, including a special telephone number that you can call collect to talk with your own personal SURGICARD REPRESENTATIVE. She'll answer any questions you have about your claim and give you quick information about your SURGICARE policy.

Why you need SURGICARE®

Few Americans realize their basic health insurance plans usually do not cover all the bills for a surgical operation.

Most have some form of health insurance, yet Americans paid over $36 billion out of their own pockets for health care costs last year.

And, far too many of them may have to dig into savings or go into debt to meet the high costs of their operations.

Social Security Bulletin, Feb. 1975.

Which is why you should have Surgicare, the insurance plan that tells you exactly how much we pay when you have an operation covered by this plan, and puts the exact amount in black and white right in your policy. If an operation is not listed in the policy schedule you will be paid in accordance with time and difficulty of the operation.

When more than one operation is performed at the same time in different operative fields, we pay for the one that has the highest benefit amount plus 50% of the scheduled benefit for all others.

If you are over 65 SURGICARE® Can Help You, Too!

Medicare is surely a blessing to older Americans. But what many people don't realize is that even Medicare, generous as it is, doesn't pay for everything.

Under Medicare some part of your bill must always be paid by you. Medicare pays only up to 80% of the bill. That leaves 20% for you to pay out of your own pocket.

And the longer you're in the hospital, the less Medicare pays. There's still a real problem in America when it comes to a truly long hospital stay.

Surgical bills can be the most expensive part of going to the hospital.

Anyone who's been through surgery lately will probably tell you about the high cost of hospitalization.

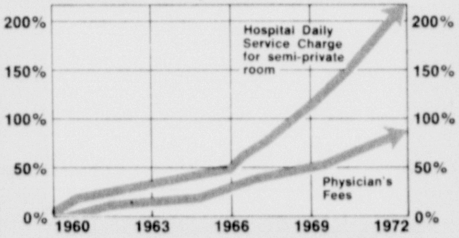
It's not surprising!

The medical expenses from an operation that may have cost $500.00 in 1963 would probably cost as much as $1,535.00 today!

Your basic health plan may not pay the entire surgery bill. But ten years ago you could probably afford to pay what your policy didn't cover. Today, however, it's a totally different story!

Inflation has so increased the cost of medical care that what your plan doesn't pay is far more expensive than even a few years ago!

Hospital Charges for Semi-private Room are up 207%
Doctor Fees are up 75%



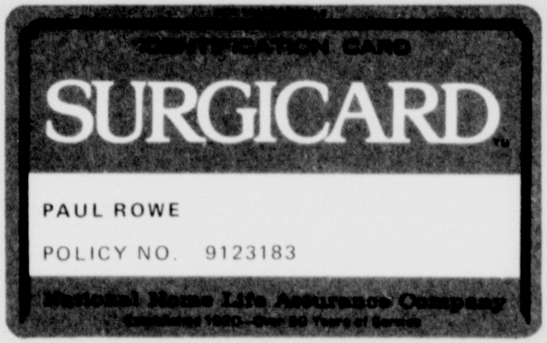
1960 = 0 Source: Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics
(Social Security Bulletin/Jan., 73; Vol. 36 #1 Pg. 68/Table M32)

You have to depend largely on yourself!

And maybe you haven't considered that the high price of an operation may be only the beginning. As expensive as surgery is, it's just the first step in getting well.

Unless you request otherwise, your National Home plan pays benefits direct to you. So you can use these benefits to help pay any of the additional expenses surgery can cause. Getting back on your feet after an operation can take a long time and a lot of money!

This is Surgicard!



Your SURGICARE® SURGICARD gives you greater peace of mind...

- Greater Security: SURGICARE® pays from $10.00 to $1,000.00 for any covered operation in or out of the hospital according to the surgical schedule.
- Personalized Service: If you need special assistance with your claim, or have a question about your policy, just call your personal Surgicard Representative collect...
  (215) 647-8060
- Convenience: Unless you tell us otherwise, we pay benefits direct to you. No delay!
- Value: SURGICARE® is a modern, surgical insurance plan that can easily fit your family's budget.

25.	Incision of a tendon	$ 100.00

These are just a few of the many types of operations listed in your policy. And we pay from $10.00 to $1,000.00 benefits for every covered operation. Even if it is not listed in your policy, we'll pay benefits based on the time and difficulty of the operation as related to the amount specified for a comparable listed operation.

Add this "Optional Hospital Benefit"

$900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) from the very first day you are hospitalized for any covered accident or illness . . . for as long as you stay.

The price of surgery can be shocking. But remember how expensive all the other costs of hospitalization can be! And your basic health plan may not cover all the regular bills when you are hospitalized. The part you have to pay could cost you a fortune.

That's why we've offered this "Optional Hospital Benefit"—it entitles you to benefits for every day you're hospitalized for any covered accident or illness. And, of course, unless you request otherwise, benefits are paid direct to you.

What the "Optional Hospital Benefit" pays—

in hospital benefits—regardless of age. Coverage starts the very first day of hospitalization for any covered accident or illness and continues for as long as you stay, no matter how long that may be. And remember, there is no reduction in benefits because of age.

■ $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day)

when your child is hospitalized (if you have Coverage for Children); benefits begin the first day for any covered accident or illness and continue for the entire stay.

Today's hospitals are full of people who felt fine just a short time ago. Why gamble on your future when you can make your whole family, and your savings more secure with National Home's "Optional Hospital Benefit."

SEE HOW EASILY SURGICARE CAN FIT YOUR FAMILY'S BUDGET.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR JOE NAMATH

Do you receive a lot of ribbing as a result of your pantyhose commercial? Also, were you ever asked to pose for a centerfold?—Debbie Green, Orange, Texas

● Yes, I do get a lot of ribbing about the pantyhose commercial. Most people ask if I shaved my legs to do it and are surprised when I tell them that during the football season my legs are shaved anyway so that I can be taped easier. But the commercial was a lot of fun and people seem to enjoy it, so that's good. To answer the second part of your question: I have been asked several times to pose for a centerfold and each time have said no. I don't see any circumstances in the future that would make me change my mind.

FOR CLARENCE M. KELLEY, director of the FBI

To what do you attribute the crime increase? Is it due to affluence?—John Volk, New London, N.H.

● It's not possible to single out one factor. But I think it's agreed we need to deal more firmly in court with repeat offenders (more than 66 percent of all persons arrested in the U.S. have previous arrest and/or conviction records).

FOR MICHAEL LANDON, star of "Little House on the Prairie"

I'm curious to know why the Junior Miss Pageant, which you're hosting on May 5, is dropping the word "pageant" from its title.—E. Beste, Mansfield, Ohio

● The sponsors say the use of the word "pageant" brings to mind a beauty contest—which ours isn't. Our girls don't wear swimsuits. The real purpose of Junior Miss is educational, since it gives away over $750,000 in scholarships to its participants.

FOR CHER BONO

How do you stay so slim?—Chet Somers, Bradenton, Fla.

● My weight just never seems to go above 108 pounds, so at 5-7, I don't really have a problem. I do watch what I eat for nutrition and energy, though—and I eat a lot of fruit.

FOR DARRELL ROYAL, University of Texas football coach

Do you think instant replay on TV will ever be used to overrule a football official?—J. C. Parker, Arvonia, Va.

● No way. You'd have to rerun almost every play, and then you would have disputes over that. Besides, I think you have to make allowances for officials' mistakes, just as you do for coaches' mistakes and players' mistakes. They are honest people doing the best job they can, and I think they do a good job.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

I've always admired Ingrid Bergman. Tell me about her private life—is she having marital problems? And what about her children?—G. Wills, San Pedro, Calif.

● Since 1960, Ingrid has been happily wed to Lars Schmidt, a businessman and theatrical producer based in Paris. They're often apart, due to stage commitments and business deals that send them off in opposite directions (he attends her openings, though). They're amused at the rumors of their "estrangement"! Pia Lindstrom, Ingrid's firstborn, is a journalist-TV broadcaster, married and with two children. The Rossellini children, Roberto, 24, and twins Isabella and Ingrid, 22, all live in Rome. Miss Bergman is winding up a national tour of "The Constant Wife" (Broadway is the last stop). She helps maintain the Gladys Aylwood Orphanage in Taiwan and also supports a Vietnamese child in Saigon.

FOR CARMEN McRAE

How do you know if you're reaching your audience?—L.P., Spartanburg, S.C.

● I never gauge approval or acceptance by applause. A smile and folded arms are much more encouraging and welcome than claps and a stony expression. Faces, not hands, are what counts.

FOR BURT BACHARACH

What is your definition of success?—A.K., Redding, Calif.

● The real measure of success for me is being in a taxi and hearing the driver whistle one of my tunes, or hearing a garbage man trying to sing "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head." To me this is the real compliment, the true recognition.

FOR CELESTE HOLM

Someone once said that Mrs. Wallis Simpson should have said "No" to the Duke of Windsor because it was wartime and his country needed him as its head. How do you feel? —G. G. Crabtree, Lansing, Mich.

● Your question interestingly puts the emphasis on Mrs. Simpson's responsibility. I think if she had refused him, she might have emerged as a real heroine. Instead they became, to me, one of the saddest couples in history—going from one resort to another, no anchor, no job, no purpose, except to maintain the illusion of romance indefinitely.

FOR EILEEN FULTON, star of "As the World Turns"

What's the biggest difference between appearing in a soap opera and appearing in a regular play?—A.S., Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● Soap operas are written as they go along, unlike a stage play, where the performers are given the complete script the day they start rehearsing. When I ask the director what's on for next week, he won't tell me, explaining: "This is like real life. Do you know what's going to happen to you next week?"

Pat Loud, One Year Later

In a World Where All the Rules Have Been Changed

"Men may conceive of the last frontier as a little cabin in the clearing of the forest primeval. But for women, the last frontier is the city. It is there that I began to find the balance and the challenge that my hometown could no longer give me."

By Pat Loud Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

Pat Loud on Love and Divorce:
"In Spite of It All, Married Is Better"

Eva Rubinstein

Pat Loud and her daughter Delilah in their New York apartment. Pat finds that "cities offer women more of the essentials of life."

A year ago, Pat Loud, whose name had become a household word after the breakup of her marriage was recorded on TV, wrote an article for FAMILY WEEKLY saying that, despite her divorce, she still thought married life was better. Since then, Pat has been working in New York, and she is currently planning to move to Los Angeles, trading life in one big city for that in another. In the meantime, she has undergone certain changes of attitude—as this article shows.

Think of it! In 25 years we will be well into the year 2000—which certainly sounds, from here, like a whole new dawn breaking on a whole new epoch. And it had better be a splendid one, because we've earned it. I don't think we can take much more of the way things are going now. But who knows? Maybe by that time we all will have Social Security numbers tattooed across our foreheads and our brain waves will be reproduced on computer cards to help take the guesswork out of mating. And maybe marriage will be a flimsier commitment, a revolving contract with five-year options, renewable by mutual consent and a government stamp. Or maybe we all will be too busy trying to find food and gas to care.

But it would be comforting to those of us who won't last to 2000 to know that something better than that awaits our children's children—something better than government-inspected shopping lists and dehumanized coupling. Hopefully, all our suffering, all the Sturm und Drang that has characterized much of today's scene, will help future generations cope with each other and themselves. If only we could know that the personal chaos of the 1960's and '70's will make life easier for some future someone. If those old discarded mores are no longer viable, then at least I hope we're asking the right questions and forming the bedrock for a more tolerable tone of life in the future.

What we hope we're doing is devising formulas that will enable men and women to live together without winding up hating each other. But sometimes all the emotional pushing and shoving comes across to us—and, after all, we're the ones who are living it—as an emotionally jarring psychic witch-hunt. In the confusion, conflict and uncertainty of our world we are all of us the very real victims of our times. This has frequently been true in history, but I think it is probably truer now than ever before. No one in this country has been left untouched by the fear and cynicism of our age. That old buzz saw, "Once burned, twice cautious," is particularly well suited to our generation: It is we who have watched in anguish as one after another of our most cherished beliefs has been shot down and idol after idol has turned up with feet of clay. If you get the idea that rules have been changed in the middle of the game, you couldn't be righter. In fact, it all puts me in mind of that great scene in "Alice in Wonderland" when Alice tells the Queen of Hearts that she has lost her way. "Your way? Your way?" roars the Queen. "All ways here are my ways!" It's enough to make you want to look for the nearest exit. And that is more or less what I have done.

A year ago I thought that I wanted to remarry someday, and I said so, right here in FAMILY WEEKLY. I just couldn't imagine spending the rest of my life as the non-swinging single that I am, my soul hovering on the backstage of life, thinking it had missed its cue forever. After all, I had been more comfortable in my twin roles of wife and mother than a lot of people I knew, and I wanted back what I had lost. Well, I guess there's still plenty of room around the philosopher's stone for anyone who wants to try to turn that one into gold. As for me, I have taken a flying leap at life on my own and find that I love it.

I am still middle-aged, still divorced and often afraid and uncertain, but I don't consider myself a failure and I don't feel that my life is over. Au contraire, my dears. After years of being a dependent wife I find it stimulating and exciting to be on my own. Three years ago I was hiding in a beautiful kitchen of a beautiful house hidden in the hills behind a beautiful town called Santa Barbara, hidden in a beautiful corner of California. I allowed myself an occasional excursion, or rather frantic foray, into the "real world" and then jumped right back behind the stove. Reality was too

Back in 1950, America's favorite salad dressing, Wish-Bone Italian, began as a restaurant dressing. It was made from an old family recipe that called for herbs and spices to be skillfully blended with oil and vinegar.

Today that same knowledge and care is used to make all the Wish-Bone dressings. That's why we're so proud of every one.

scary. I didn't feel competent or trained or even sufficiently motivated to function in a business capacity. I felt vulnerable, insecure, guilty and a host of other things that add up to the blues. Then I moved to New York and got a job. And if I could do that, anybody could. It took every ounce of courage I had. The pioneer spirit is not dead.

Men may conceive of the last frontier as a little cabin in the clearing of the forest primeval. But for women, the last frontier is the city. It is there that I began to find the balance and the challenge that my hometown could no longer give me. This is not at all to reject small-town life, but merely to recognize that towns are constructed for family life and single women don't really fit in. It's the cities that offer us more of the essentials of life. I live with my daughter Delilah in a New York apartment, and apartment living is more suited to a working woman's life-style. Job opportunities in the city are more varied and there's not so much discrimination against you as a woman. Also, in cities there are a lot of other single people you can meet easily and do things with, and a wider variety of entertainments to choose from. And my job! Believe it or not it's really thrilling for me to be considered a competent asset by my co-workers.

Any time you change your life, you have to make a lot of decisions—and none of them is easy. It's only human to feel terribly unsure and vulnerable at such times, and very lonely. Loneliness is the gray menace lurking at the bottom of the champagne glass of life. It steals the bubbles, but not the dregs. It can make you feel different, all right, but not in a healthy or optimistic way. For some crazy reason, if we feel unloved, it follows that we feel unlovable. Loneliness either makes us feel dull and inert or spurs us to frantic and self-destructive activity that gets us into more trouble than we'd like to admit. It's a far cry from solitude. When I'm in solitude, I spend my time with the strong me. And that's so much better than being with the cast from "Psycho" that germinates in the lonely me.

I'll never forget sitting in a bar a few months ago with a girl friend of mine from California. The place was filled with couples who seemed to be slavishly, dotingly in love with each other. I wasn't feeling too happy with myself and the sight of all that tinseled love-in-bloom only added to my depression. When we were served, my friend picked up her glass, clinked it against mine and said, "Here's to the two most beautiful and exciting women in the room." I've loved her ever since. She taught me something I needed to know, and that is, if you don't believe in yourself, no one else will. The world is a state of mind.

So the trick is to turn the hours of potential loneliness into hours of solitude. We all need to be alone sometimes to replenish ourselves. Read, catch up on the news, telephone friends, clean, wash, sew, tat, take a night course—anything—but make those hours work to fill you instead of deplete you. Don't feel trapped when you have to be alone. Relax, you're in friendly good company.

> "Loneliness is the gray menace lurking at the bottom of the champagne glass of life. . . . It's a far cry from solitude."

It's tough to develop an independent spirit if you've never been required to or didn't realize that it shows a healthy state of mind. When I was in college I knew a girl who managed to pull down high grades in tough courses, but she talked baby talk with her boyfriend! Now there's a candidate for the rubber room. What was she trying to prove? That she was helpless? If so, why? I have no way of knowing, because she never told me and we never kept in touch. But I know that to make yourself less than you are in order to please anybody is sick. It's self-polarized masochism. It's disgusting deception, and there is, thank God, no place for it in today's world. Be what you are, but for Heaven's sake be everything that you are and know that your femininity is not in question just because you happen to be smart.

I like being able to take care of myself. I never thought that I would or could, but I do. It's all part of "Life's Great Pageant"—as it used to be called—the learning to deal with frustrations and angers, triumphs and failures, and even the plateaus, till we find out what really makes us tick. Learning when to hang in and when to let go. It puts me in mind of the great whales straining plankton through their baleen. These enormous creatures live on tons of microscopic marine life, accepting or rejecting with monolithic savoir faire everything that floats their way. They know enough not to try to swallow grand pianos, but they don't stop eating if they've swilled down a few dozen bad shrimp, either. Life is a great big ocean to nose around in—and, like Mama Whale, I feel right at home.

A '60's Postscript:

The Poignant Story of Jan and Dean

Jan and Dean epitomized the West Coast surfer sound. Their records gave you the feeling of kids without a care in the world. That was until the day when Jan Berry's sports car suddenly went out of control. . . .

Jan and Dean are now in their early 30's. Their "golden era" ended in 1966.

By Randal C. Hill

The sleek green Sting Ray swung off busy Sunset Boulevard three blocks from a sharply twisting, poorly banked turn known locally as Deadman's Curve. Accelerating the car smoothly, the handsome blond driver was suddenly confronted with the unexpected—an unseen car, approaching from a bend in a residential street. The driver of the Sting Ray jerked the steering wheel to avoid a collision. The Corvette's fiber-glass body shattered as it slammed into a parked gardener's truck—then silence as the driver lay still in the twisted mass of metal and plastic.

Pulled from the wreckage, miraculously alive, was 25-year-old Jan Berry of a popular duo known as Jan and Dean. Berry was rushed to a local hospital, where he remained in a deep coma for five weeks. Family and friends of the singing star maintained a constant vigil as Berry clung to the thin thread that separated him from the dim spark of life and the emptiness of death.

The month was April, 1966.

Ask how many remember who Jan and Dean were and you're likely to get a lot of "I dunnos." The public forgets. Memories are particularly short when it comes to pop music and rock and roll. But from 1958 to 1966, Jan Berry and Dean Torrence managed to produce a stream of hits that included "Surf City," "Little Old Lady From Pasadena," "Honolulu Lulu," "Drag City," "Linda," "Jennie Lee," and dozens of other brisk-selling songs. Jan and Dean epitomized the West Coast teenage-surfer sound. Listening to their records, you got the image of golden-haired, suntanned youth—kids without a care in the world and with nothing more serious in their futures than a dirty carburetor or a wave that failed to break.

But there was more than tragedy that awaited Jan Berry—there was irony too. Two years before the accident, one of Jan and Dean's biggest hits (790,000 copies) had been "Deadman's Curve," a pounding, blaring paean to the excitement of drag-racing down Sunset Boulevard in a new Sting Ray. In the song, Berry (who sang lead and wrote the lyrics) pits his Corvette against a Jaguar XK-E. The climax crashes down amid screeching tires and shattering glass, with Berry intoning in a flat voice,

"Well, the last thing I remember, Doc, I started to swerve.
And then I saw the Jag slide into the curve.
I know I'll never forget that horrible sight.
I guess I found out for myself that everyone was right.
You don't come back from Deadman's Curve."*

Emerging sluggishly from the coma, Jan Berry found himself unable to speak or move his head. Figures of people were misty, moving blurs. His temple had been injured in the accident, damaging the left side ot his brain. This is the area responsible for word-comprehension and language-formulation abilities. It seemed to mark the end of a charmed existence for the straight-A UCLA premed student with a posh $120,000 Bel Air home.

Top speech pathologists were rushed in, but initial recovery proved painfully slow. Doctors were pessimistic. Berry was unable to walk for a year, forced to give his total concentration to the simplest act of standing up from his wheelchair. He began speech-and-language therapy in which the primary objective of his program was to learn to recognize letters and words. From this followed the relearning of basic speech.

A year after the accident Jan finally was able to master reading the simplest books. But he apparently had lost none of his creative musical ability. (He had written, arranged and produced most of Jan and Dean's records, all without formal musical training.) This discovery seemed to provide Berry with the much-needed impetus to improve "more than he was supposed to." Doctors and therapists were astounded at the results.

In the meantime, rock music continued its nonstop metamorphosis. The Beatles conquered the music scene. Psychedelia emerged. Jan and Dean songs became relegated to "oldies but goodies" weekends on pop-music stations. Their albums often ended up as "dumps," tossed into drugstore bins with price tags of 59¢. Jan, forgotten by a fickle public, continued his struggle for improvement in obscurity. He worked daily to relearn the basics of communication, and the years passed with continuous therapy. People stopped asking, "Whatever happened to Jan and Dean?"

Jan and Dean as they looked at the height of their popularity.

Dean Torrence, now 34, graduated from USC with a degree in art in 1967. Today he heads Kittyhawk Graphics in Hollywood, where he designs record-album covers.

Jan Berry is now 33. Most of the fortune he amassed during his prosperous days has gone into therapy expenses. The sprawling Hawaiian-modern house he once owned has been sold. Once again, he lives with his parents. Each day finds him at his piano, neatly printing song lyrics and picking out melody lines with his left hand. He has limited use of his right hand and hemispherical vision in both eyes, although he is able to drive and owns a car. He walks with a slight limp, and when he speaks, there are occasional comprehension problems.

Time and musical styles may have passed by the golden era of Jan and Dean, when the carefree surfing and drag-racing songs from California were in vogue. Jan Berry, nevertheless, remains confident that he will once again record hit songs. He gazes wistfully from the window of his home above Hollywood and picks out the melody of a new Berry composition, "Tinseltown." It is an ode to the world of glamour and fame that was once, at least partially, his. FW

How to collect from Social Security at any age!

Updated 1975 Edition
© 1975, Good News Publishing Co.

Would you like to know how much money you have invested in Social Security right to the penny? Then would you like to know how to get the most from that investment including all the brand new Social Security benefits? Now you can do both by using the short easy coupon at the bottom of this page. Here is the way it works. The left half of the coupon will be sent to the proper government office. They will run a check on your account and then send you a report in a confidential sealed envelope. This report will tell you how much of your earnings have been recorded in your Social Security account year by year. There is no charge for this service, not even postage.

The right half of the coupon will be used as a shipping label to send you a copy of a new book entitled, "How to collect from Social Security at any age." If you think that you have to wait until retirement age to start collecting your Social Security benefits, this book will really open your eyes. Here are some of the little-known facts about Social Security you will find out about in this book:

- How to increase your payment if you are already on Social Security.
- How to collect your share of the brand new Social Security benefits just passed by Congress.
- How to qualify for Social Security disability pensions at any age.
- How to increase your benefits.
- How to report your Farm income for Social Security.
- How to make your whole family eligible for Social Security benefits, even your youngest children.
- How to replace a lost Social Security card.
- How to replace a lost Social Security check.
- How to get a refund if you have overpaid your Social Security taxes. (Studies show that two out of three people overpay.)
- How to figure out what your Social Security payments should be.
- Should you tatoo your Social Security number on your body?
- What papers do you need in order to file a Social Security claim?
- How ten million people who are only 30 years old, on the average, collect Social Security.
- Should you get a divorce in order to get more Social Security? (a lot of people already have.)
- Should you have two Social Security cards?
- How to get free services which are available from Social Security.
- How to make sure your employer is not cheating you on your Social Security.
- How you may be cheating yourself out of your benefits.
- When are the five times you should get in touch with your Social Security office?
- How to work and still get Social Security benefits.
- How to cash in on Social Security even if you've never paid a penny into it.
- How to get hospital and medical insurance for the aged.
- How students 18 to 22 can get Social Security cash benefits.
- How to get the special Social Security benefits for veterans only.

Although this book can mean hundreds and perhaps thousands of dollars to you, it is priced at only $3.00. Remember, it is not enough to qualify for your Social Security benefits. To get your benefits you must know how to apply for them. You could find out by literally spending days reading through all sorts of Government materials, or visiting Social Security Administration offices . . . but this book quickly and plainly tells you how to qualify, who to contact—including all necessary addresses, and what to say. This is a 100% no risk offer. If you do not like the book, return it and your $3.00 will be immediately refunded. You will still get the confidential report on your Social Security account.

If you do not take advantage of your new Social Security benefits, you are only cheating yourself, after all, you have already paid for them. It is easy to start getting your new Social Security benefits. Just fill out both parts of the coupon below. Mail the coupon and $3.00 in cash, check or money order to The Good News Publishing Company, 515 Galveston St., Fort Worth, Texas 76104. The book will be sent to you immediately by return mail. Your confidential Social Security report will be mailed to you separately as soon as the government has finished checking on your account. Checks and money orders should be made payable to The Good News Publishing Company.

Hockey's Howe & Sons: The Drive Behind the Greatest Family Act Ever

By Larry Bortstein

Gordie Howe at 47: Still one of the strongest bodies in hockey.

"Bill said, 'Gordie, why don't you come on down to Houston with us?' We all had a good laugh, but then we realized we were all serious."

From his position on left defense, Marty Howe deftly stickhandled the puck across center ice, then passed it ahead to Mark Howe on left wing. Spotting a muscular figure breaking unchecked in front of the crease, Mark slipped the rock-hard rubber disk in that direction. Gordie Howe caught it on his stick. Then he calmly shot it past the sprawling goaltender. Chalk up another score for the Howe family of the Houston Aeros.

This is not an uncommon occurrence in the World Hockey Association. To the delight of the ever-increasing number of hockey followers in Houston—and to the amazement of nearly everyone—the Howe trio continues to make athletic history every time the threesome laces on ice skates for the Aeros. The presence of a father and two sons as teammates in a major professional sport is a family sporting saga that has no equal anywhere.

There is the father Gordie, age 47, generally acclaimed as the finest all-round performer in the history of the sport. There is oldest son Marty, 21, and Mark, the second oldest son, who soon will reach the age of 20. All three debuted with the Aeros last season, and all they did was lead the Houston club to the WHA championship. Gordie was voted the league's Most Valuable Player award and Mark its Rookie of the Year award. Marty was a workhorse defenseman. Their performance was equally fine this year.

Less than two years ago, about the farthest thing from the elder Howe's mind was returning to a playing role. He had closed out 25 seasons of unparalleled brilliance with the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League in 1971, leaving with virtually every major career scoring record, including 786 goals. At age 45, Gordie could afford to sit back and watch another generation of skaters chase after his records. Continued

Incredible Howe Family

Continued

"My coming back to play all started out as kind of a joke, really," he recalls. "The Aeros drafted both Marty and Mark in the summer of 1973. The boys had been stars with the Toronto Marlboros in the junior league of Ontario. The Aeros sent their top people up to Detroit to talk with us about the boys going to Houston. One of the guys who came up to see us was Bill Dineen, the coach of the Aeros, who played five years with me in Detroit and is an old friend.

"We were sitting around talking about Marty and Mark," Gordie continues, "and Bill said, 'Gordie, why don't you come on down to Houston with us?' We all had a good laugh, but then we realized we were all serious. I had always wanted to play with the boys, but I never thought it could happen. Now I was going to get the chance. I couldn't turn it down."

Joining the Aeros also gave Gordie a perfect excuse for leaving the Red Wing organization. "I was thinking of quitting anyway," he recalls with bitterness. "All I was doing for two years as vice president in charge of nothing was shaking hands with people. I never participated in any decisions involving players or trades or anything. I suppose my 25 years of experience weren't enough."

Sam Pierson

" 'There's so much going on with Gord and the boys,' says Mrs. Howe, 'that it takes a full workday just to keep up to date on their mail. . . .' "

Gordie scored 31 goals for Houston last year, and he scored with equal frequency this year. He is four and a half years older than Dineen, the coach of the Aeros, but shows little sign of age, continuing to see extended ice time on a regular line and to work on the Aeros' power play. His 6-0, 205-pound finely muscled body has long been considered the strongest in all of hockey.

Time eventually will catch up with Gordie, who is undoubtedly the most remarkable middle-aged athlete in history. But even when he finally retires, Aero opponents will still have to contend with two, and possibly three, other Howes. Mark, who stands 5-11 and weighs 180 pounds, powered 38 pucks into the nets in 1973-74, one of the highest totals ever achieved by a rookie in big-league hockey. He is a superstar in the making. Marty, less flashy and less naturally gifted, nonetheless is a solid, aggressive defenseman, who figures to spend many seasons in professional hockey.

Then there is the third Howe son, Murray, 14 years old, who is also coming along strongly in hockey. When the rest of the family moved South two summers ago, Murray remained in the Detroit area. "He lives with the Chuck Robertsons," says Gordie. "They're old friends of the family. Murray was doing so well in the junior-hockey program in Detroit that it would have set him back to take him to Houston, where hockey for young kids is just getting started."

If another member of the Howe clan has a say, every kid in Houston and its environs may soon be on skates. Colleen Howe, Gordie's lovely blonde wife, ran the junior-hockey program in Detroit out of the Olympia, the home arena of the Red Wings, and now is taking the lead in bringing the ice sport to youthful Texans. Together with the family's secretary, Dorothy Ringler, who has worked for the Howes since 1971, Colleen runs the affairs of Gordon Howe Enterprises, Inc., from an office in downtown Houston.

"There's so much going on with Gord and the boys," says Mrs. Howe, "that it takes a full workday just to keep up to date on their mail, their business commitments and all the things they do for hockey in Houston. We run this like a family business and we think we do a good job. Next year, when the Aeros move into The Summit, the new $18 million arena the city is putting up, things will probably get even more hectic because more people will be able to see the Aeros' games and there'll be even more hockey interest than there is now."

About the only Howe offspring not likely to be employed by the Aeros in the near future is Gordie and Colleen's only daughter, 16-year-old Cathy, who attends high school near the Howe home, a mini-mansion in the richly wooded Memorial section of western Houston. "But Cathy comes to all the games and cheers for her father and big brothers," says Colleen Howe.

Throughout sports history, there have been many family combinations on teams. There were the three DiMaggio brothers and five Delahanty brothers in major-league baseball. There once were seven brothers named Nesser playing pro football in Columbus, Ohio, in the early 1900's. Wrestling had five Dusek brothers.

In father-son sports combinations, there was the Jennings Nine of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., a baseball team in the 1880's that consisted of James Jennings and his eight sons. One of the sons, Hughie, went on to major-league fame as a shortstop with the Baltimore Orioles.

But these exploits are barely recalled today. Houston's Howes have become national figures. They may eventually forge another first among sporting families by becoming the first household to have more than one member enshrined in a Hall of Fame. Gordie was elected to hockey's pantheon after completing his NHL career in Detroit. Can his sons be far behind?

Where there's smoke there's controversy.

The papers are filled with stories against smoking.

But many people are continuing to smoke. They like it.

Yet it's obvious that there are smokers who have become concerned about what they've been hearing about 'tar' and nicotine. And so—many of them are trying lower 'tar' and nicotine cigarettes.

If you're a smoker who's become concerned, you (and millions like you) have been facing a dilemma.

Until Vantage, cigarettes that had lots of flavor had lots of 'tar' and nicotine. And cigarettes that were way down in 'tar' and nicotine were way down in taste.

Most smokers found that most low 'tar' cigarettes just didn't make it. But then we started making Vantage.

Vantage is not the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette you'll find, but it could well be the lowest you'll enjoy. Exactly the right blend of tobacco working in harmony with the ingenious Vantage filter is what made it possible.

And that's why Vantage has become the fastest growing major cigarette brand in America.

There's no controversy about that.

People Quiz

How Well Do You Know The Art of "People-Handling"?

True or False: The best way to handle a child when you've got to get a splinter out of his finger or disinfect a wound is to tell him that it isn't going to hurt a bit. (See number 2)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. If a lady has to face an irate male because of some blunder or oversight on her part, she should dress attractively for the encounter.

2. The best way to handle a child when you've got to get a splinter out of his finger or disinfect a wound is to tell him that it isn't going to hurt a bit.

3. If you can't keep a person from frustrating you, you'd better stay away from him or you won't be able to manage your blood pressure either.

4. If you want to draw a person out—to learn as much as you can about him in the shortest possible time—you should invite him to sit in a comfortable reclining-style chair.

5. A girl who plays "hard to get" is likely to discourage the very man she wants to attract.

6. There is no diplomatic way to insult someone.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychological studies have shown that a man won't get nearly so mad at a woman—regardless of what she's done to provoke him—if she wears something that accents her most attractive features. Her choice of attire for the encounter may run the gamut, from the most flattering dress in her wardrobe to a miniskirt, bikini or whatever the lady feels she looks best in. While this tactic isn't guaranteed to reduce a man's anger to the status of a melted candle, it is warranted to take the edge off it.

2. False. Studies at Wayne State University have demonstrated that this is precisely the wrong way to go about reducing a child's pain and discomfort—and is likely to increase it if anything. Tests showed that when subjects were given a description of the pain sensation they were about to experience, they rated its intensity and distress on a far lower scale than when this procedure was not followed.

3. True. Studies at the University of Manitoba and Florida State University show that when a person frustrates you in some way, your blood pressure climbs significantly—and that it stays at an elevated level as long as you remain in the presence of the frustrator.

4. False—according to psychological studies at the University of Kansas, which demonstrated "that some postures are more conducive to certain psychological processes than others . . . and . . . the sitting-erect posture encouraged subjects to talk more about themselves than the supposedly more comfortable postures." Both the men and women subjects of the study indicated that they felt the most comfortable in the sitting-erect posture. And it's suggested that they may have felt more vulnerable in the supine and sitting-bent postures—and thus were less at ease. The fact that psychiatric patients are asked to assume a reclining posture may be due to the special nature of the patient-specialist relationship.

5. False. A team of behavioral scientists at the University of Wisconsin has made a careful study of the hard-to-get phenomenon and evaluated its efficacy. "We have," they concluded, "finally gained an understanding of this process. It appears that a woman can intensify her desirability if she acquires a reputation for being hard to get and then, by her behavior, makes it clear to a selected romantic partner that she is attracted to him."

6. False. The way to insult someone diplomatically is to compliment him—preferably in the presence of others—in such a way that it sounds as though you don't mean it. Complimenting him on virtues or attributes that both you and he know he lacks has a disconcerting and ego-disturbing effect that must be seen to be appreciated. And the side glances likely to be exchanged by any others present can't help but add to the subject's discomfort.

I lost half of myself without taking diet pills.

By Donna Walker — as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

When I was 66 inches around, and 65 inches tall, even my favorite fat lady's store had a problem. I know, because at 278 pounds I wore the largest bloomers they carried. And that's the only word for them — bloomers — even though I'm of the generation that usually refers to ladies' panties as briefs.

Fact is, the thought of having nothing to wear made me so panicky, I said to myself: "This is it! You've got to lose weight, Donna." Not that I was unaware of my size before. There were too many embarrassing reminders in my life for me to ignore my weight. Let me tell you a few of them . . . for laughs.

At my fullest figure, I fit so snugly into a tub that the water was dammed up behind me when I pulled the plug out in front of me. And when I stood up in a shower stall, I couldn't even bend over to pick up a bar of soap. I was trapped upright by my own appetite.

Actually I've been stuck in more places than you can imagine: a seat in a movie house, a Carnival turnstyle, even my own armchair. Why, I was wedged in so many times, the friction from my fanny wore out the upholstery.

As for dresses, I had one — to go to work in. I washed it every night and every day for one year because it was the only dress that fit.

Now if you think this whole situation embarrassed me, let me tell you it shamed my poor mother. She was always making excuses for me. Like when I was a child she used to say: "It's only 'baby' fat. It'll go away." But she was still saying it when I was 28 years of age!

I think I ought to mention that chocolate and sweets were my undoing. But ironically, candy is what really helped me to lose weight. Ayds® Reducing Plan Candy. I'd read ads about it in magazines and when I learned that Ayds contains vitamins and minerals but no drugs, I thought maybe there was something in it for me. I sure knew from past experience that diet pills, weekly reducing sessions, and even a psychiatrist were not the answer for me. I needed something to help curb my appetite and my eternal craving for sweets.

So, I bought a box of chocolate fudge Ayds at the drug store and started on the plan in the fall. I took one or two Ayds about 15 minutes before each meal with a hot drink and it really helped me cut down on what I ate. And I ate regular meals. I didn't prepare anything special.

At 278 pounds, I was no mermaid. Believe it or not, I had a friend who once called me a Floating Island! I laughed, but I really didn't think that it was very funny!

Now at 136 pounds, my hometown friends in West Hartford, Connecticut, hardly recognize me. As a matter of fact, whenever I look into the mirror, I hardly recognize myself.

Right from the start, I had such a positive feeling about the Ayds plan, I even took on a $50 bet from my friend's husband. He'd heard me talk about losing weight for 10 years, but never saw me do anything about it. So he figured it was going to be an easy win. But in the end he had to pay up, because that weight came off.

Nobody really noticed it until I'd lost more than 50 pounds. You see, I hadn't bought any new clothes so I was hidden under a lot of baggy pants and sacky tops. Then at Easter, when I'd taken off 78 pounds on the Ayds plan, I turned out in a new lavender pantsuit and everybody was amazed. As for me, I was so thrilled, I was determined to stick to the Ayds plan, even on my birthday. Some friends dropped by with a "Have-a-happy" box from the bakery and I thought: "How mean!" But when I opened it, it was filled with celery and a lot of laughs. I knew then that everybody was rooting for me.

I guess, though, we never see ourselves as others do. Let me tell you about a remark my nephew made while I was still losing weight. He'd seen me at his sister's wedding, wearing a size 52 beige tent. Months after I'd been on the Ayds plan, I appeared at his wedding in a size 18 dress. He was so shocked, his eyes opened wide, then his mouth. "What were you wearing the last time I saw you — your beige Volkswagen?" Funny, I knew I was fat, but not that fat.

How long did it take me to lose 142 pounds on the Ayds plan? Just about a year and now I can do things I never could before. For the first time, I can cross my legs — like a lady. I can also see all of me in a mirror. And I can even climb up a pool ladder without fear of breaking it.

On the serious side, my teenage nieces and nephews are now proud to introduce me as their aunt. As for my relations with my parents, I can tell you that they've never been better. In fact, everybody I know is happier with me, since I'm now only 37½ inches around. Which makes me forever grateful for the Ayds plan.

BEST FOOT FORWARD
A new high for "togetherness"?

Sweethearts Carol Whitlock and Graham Seymour are proof that love is the best crutch of all. Within hours, they both broke bones in their right legs. Graham was the first victim—he stumbled while attempting a Kung Fu move and broke his leg in two places. Carol drove him to the hospital but on her way home she hit a lamppost and suffered three broken toes and two cracked ribs. "I must have been dreaming of Graham's mishap when I had mine," she explained.

Billie Jean King

Billie Jean King and tennis "snobbery": "Billie Jean played in her first tournament at the age of 11½, and the events of that contest have great bearing on many of her attitudes toward the game today. The day before the tournament, Billie Jean learned that it was required that she wear white in order to play. Her mother then spent the night before the game making her a beautiful pair of tennis shorts. Yet, on the following day, Billie Jean was excluded from the group picture because she wasn't wearing a skirt. The slight hurt. And to this day Billie Jean charges that tennis is too 'snooty' and 'clubby,' too closed, in fact, to poor and lower-middle-class kids. She once blew up at a society writer who wanted an interview, insisting that what was wrong with tennis was that it was covered on the society and not the sports pages. The United States Lawn Tennis Association has shrunk in horror from her suggestions that tennis fans be encouraged to root and cheer rather than sitting in hushed silence." From "The New Breed of Athlete," by Leila Gemme (Pocket Books, $1.25).

JACK LEMMON
"I am contemporary man"

The real Jack Lemmon talks about Jack Lemmon, the film image: "I play the harried businessman or beset male with such conviction because I'm just as frustrated with contemporary life as the average guy in the audience. We're all in this together, rich or poor. The more money you make, the better you try to live, the more complicated it becomes. In essence, I am contemporary man. If I put on robes like Charlton Heston, people would laugh at me. I'm not cursed with beauty, which in this case is to my advantage. My success as a comic actor can be attributed to my belief that comedy has to be played as seriously as drama. Even a frothy spoof has to be played as if it were 'Hamlet.'" Jack is currently starring in "Prisoner of Second Avenue."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

OUR DREAM HOUSE

When we build a new house, if ever
we do,
We'll show that we've learned a thing or two:
A living room we shall do away with,
Since our family room is the one we stay with;
A dining room we can do without,
Since we eat in the kitchen or else
dine out;
The closets and storage spaces and such
Will be larger, I'd say, than the rooms are, much. . . .
My intentions are good, I'm no stupid or bad man,
But the architect surely will think me a madman.

A belligerent type turned suddenly to the man sitting next to him in a bar and demanded, "Did you just give me a nasty look?" The man shook his head. "You certainly have a nasty look," he replied calmly, "but I didn't give it to you." —Lane Olinghouse
